PARKER IN LEAD ON EVE OF FIGHT

Careful Analysis of Democratic Situation Gives Him 270 Instructed Votes on First Ballot.

No Nomination Is Likely Until After Several Ballots Have Been Taken and Lines Readjusted.

[BY RAYMOND.]

St. Louis, Mo., June 30.—[Special.]—These figures give the best obtainable summary of the outlook of the first ballot in the democratic national convention at St. Louis. The Missouri state convention yesterday elected the last delegates to be chosen for the convention of 1904. The total is 994, exclusive of the two delegations from Porto Rico and the Philippines, which were not included in the call, and which will not participate in the temporary organization.

Parker's Nomination Likely.

Parker is in the lead still, and his lead is so great as to foreshadow his nomination on the second or third ballot, unless there is a stampede to Cleveland or McClellan.

Hearst is done for. He cannot possibly secure anywhere near a third of the convention. The conservatives will have a clear two-thirds of the convention, and will be able to dictate both the candidate and the platform. It seems quite impossible that the Bryan-Hearst combination will be able to secure a third of the convention to act with them in any rule or ruin policy.

There is a good deal of talk here about the possibility of a stampede to Cleveland or McClellan. All this talk comes, however, from the Tammany people, some of whom are already on their way. The program of Murphy and his associated Tammany braves is to begin a campaign of abuse of Hill, commencing tomorrow night. They will endeavor to convince southern and western delegates that Parker cannot carry New York.

Tammany Fighting Parker.

The opening gun was the interview given out in New York this afternoon, in which Leader Murphy again declared for Cleveland as the logical candidate, and intimated that New Jersey would present his name to the convention. The difficulty about this program is that both Gorman and Bryan hate Cleveland and all his crowd infinitely more than they dislike Parker.

Those on the inside assert that McClellan is much better material with which to create a landslide than Mr. Cleveland. The young mayor of New York at least possesses an attractive personality, is the son of a union general who was himself a candidate for the presidency, and the young man is to a peculiar degree the type which many democrats would like to use as the opponent of Roosevelt.

No Choice on First Ballot.

So far as the result of the election of delegates is concerned, I have made a close canvass of the returns from every state. They show that the Parker-Hearst and favorite son delegates who are actually instructed foot up more that a majority of the convention, so that it is manifestly impossible that there can be any choice of a candidate on the first ballot, without a violation of instructions, which is an extremely unlikely contingency.

This solid phalanx of 562 instructed votes will begin to melt almost immediately after the first ballot. There are 146 votes, for instance, from the states of Delaware, Massachusetts, Missouri, Ohio, and Wisconsin, which are instructed for Judge Gray, former Secretary Olney, Senator Cockrell, former Attorney General Harmon, and Mr. Wall of Wisconsin. No one of these men has a chance of the nomination, and in each case they were put up to head off the possibility of any landslides to Hearst.

These favorite son votes will begin to fall at once, and it is significant of the situation that none of them under ordinary circumstances can be counted upon for Bryan or Hearst. They all belong to the conservative element and as such are counted upon by the Parker men as something in the nature of a positive future asset.

Parker's Instructed Vote.

Judge Parker's strength lies first in the fact that he has such a large number of instructed delegates behind him. The table of instructed Parker votes is as follows:

Alaska	6	Mississippi	20
Arkansas	18	New York	78
Connecticut	14	Tennessee	24
Georgia	26	Texas	36
Indiana	30
Louisiana	18	Total	270

There are eleven other states which have declared for Parker, most of them by actual resolutions in the state conventions.

New Jersey under the unit rule is undoubtedly for Parker, unless it shall be decided to put Cleveland in nomination. As this certainly will not be done on the first ballot, I have kept New Jersey in the Parker column.

States Preferring Parker.

The following table is of states which are not instructed for the New York judge but which are depended upon on a conservative basis to vote for him, even on the first ballot:

Alabama	22	North Carolina	24
Florida	8	South Carolina	18
Kansas	20	Vermont	4
Kentucky	6	Virginia	24
Michigan	28
New Hampshire	8	Total	195
New Jersey	24

Working Up Parker Boom.

In Alabama, Kentucky, the Carolinas, and Virginia the preference for Parker was expressed so openly as to amount almost to instructions. The Parker boomers, who are expected to begin work tomorrow under the general management of August Belmont, lay great stress upon the fact that the New York judge comes to St. Louis with the solid south behind him. They assert that the states which furnish the majorities should be permitted at least to select the northern candidate most satisfactory to the south.

When the almost solid south is backed up by instructions from New York, Connecticut, and Indiana, three northern doubtful states,

CITY SHUTS OUT TRACTION LINES.

Parting of the Ways Reached and the Bankrupt Company Will Receive Order to Vacate Certain Streets.

HOPE FOR SOUTH SIDE.

"L" Loop Franchise, Requiring Granting of Universal Transfers, Adopted by Transportation Committee.

The City of Chicago and the Union Traction company have reached the parting of the ways.

The local transportation committee, in whose hands is the traction problem, yesterday shut the doors against the bankrupt company which operates the cars on the north and west sides, and decided it must be made to feel the city's power.

This conclusion followed the receipt of a letter from John S. Miller, who stated that the company rejected the committee's latest offer of an "averaging" of time various franchises have yet to run.

As a first step Corporation Counsel Tolman was instructed to present to the committee next Thursday a plan by which the Union Traction company shall be notified to vacate the streets in which it operates the Passenger railway, of which the franchise has expired. He is to report to the council also a method of supplying transportation in the district thus to be cleared of tracks. Adams street will come first.

City Railway Outlook Brighter.

The Chicago City railway's outlook is brighter. E. R. Bliss, its attorney, sent a note to the committee saying that his directors are considering the "averaging" offer, and that he believes a conclusion based on the offer will be reached speedily.

The committee thereupon agreed that beginning next Thursday it will take up the tentative ordinance for the extension of the City railway's franchise, work day and night on it until it is finished, and report it to the city council.

"L" Loop Ordinance Completed.

Before these traction matters arose the committee completed the Union "L" loop ordinance and prepared to send it to the council. That ordinance provides for universal transfers on the elevated roads and allows for extension of the platforms of the loop stations.

It also includes a provision for the regulation of excessive noise made by the cars and confirms the Swift agreement as to franchise and compensation, a matter which has been in dispute.

How the "Falling Out" Came.

The committee's break with the Union Traction company was started when Ald. Raymer said to the committee:

"It is important that we report a franchise ordinance to the council before summer adjournment. If the committee does not do this we cannot have a referendum on it at the November election. To keep faith with the aldermen who voted for the extension of time it is necessary that we report an ordinance."

Ald. Blake said the aldermen were growing impatient and wanted the committee to act. Ald. Hunter declared he is willing to work nights if necessary to get the work done before vacation.

Reads Traction Men's Replies.

Chairman Foreman then read the replies received from Col. Bliss and Mr. Miller.

The latter quoted Chairman Foreman's proposal for a "fixed term in commutation and final settlement of all the rights of the companies in the streets under their unexpired grant, including their ninety-nine year claims." That proposal was published two weeks ago. Mr. Miller, continuing, said in part:

I am not able to give you any assurance that this plan could be accepted or carried out. The same difficulty is seen with this that met the former suggestion that the companies should give up existing franchises in streets for long periods yet unexpired and take in lieu thereof a shorter grant from the city.

I have not been able to find any way in which the city and street railway companies can deal with the transportation problem except on the basis of fairly recognizing existing property rights of the companies as they actually exist. But upon this just basis I think a settlement which shall be fair to all and give promptly to the public improved and first class transportation facilities could be readily arrived at.

Miller's Attitude Is Resented.

This position was in sharp contrast to that taken by Attorney Bliss, who, as intimated above, said merely that his directors were considering the offer and that a settlement seemed likely to be reached soon. But Mr. Miller's attitude stirred the aldermen.

"It is evident," Ald. Bennett said, after the letter had been read, "we can never make any progress until we make the Union Traction company feel our power. If we continue the present status the Union Traction company will never do anything. The franchise for Adams street has expired and others will soon die. The only way we can make the company do something is to remove its tracks where franchises have expired.

"Then, as fast as their rights expire, we should make them relinquish the streets."

Ald. Maypole objected. "The company does hot care," he said. "It would as lief give up that line so long as no other company gets it. The Union Traction company can get along. The public, however, will be put to great inconvenience."

"We will give the corporation counsel something to do," Ald. Bennett replied. He then made the motion requiring Maj. Tolman to take the action mentioned, tending to vacate Adams street of tracks.

Says the Door Is Closed.

After the meeting had ended Chairman Foreman said:

"There is nothing but the closed door between the city and the Union Traction company. If we cannot renew rights we can require tenants to get out, and that we will do.

"The Adams street line, of which the franchise has expired, runs from State to Desplaines streets, thence to Twelfth street, and thence to Crawford avenue. By 1906 the Washington street side of the surface loop will have expired, as well as the contract for the Washington street tunnel. The city can have a fairly comprehensive system operated in some way in competition with the company by that time."

Ald. Bennett said: "We have been negotiating with them and they have been playing us. We can never settle this, however, if the people do not stand by us. It will be said that a hardship is being worked on

MR. CLEVELAND—"I WON'T RUN ANOTHER STEP."

JURORS LIKE LID OFF.

Prosecutor, in Disgust, Ends the Trial of "Patsy" King.

DECLARES IT IS NO USE.

Veniremen Say They Favor "Open Town" and Gambling.

Jurors who oppose gambling were scarce yesterday. Because he was unable to collect twelve "good men and true" who would say gambling was an evil, Assistant State's Attorney Barnes abandoned the trial of the "Policy Emperor," Patsy King, and his brother, John King, who were charged with operating a policy game.

On a previous trial for the same offense, a jury had disagreed, and with yesterday's ill luck Mr. Barnes was thoroughly disgusted.

Explains Reason for Action.

To Judge Clifford Mr. Barnes said:

"I feel it my full duty as attorney for the state to nolle pros the cases on trial. I am compelled to take this action because I already have been compelled to exhaust nine peremptory challenges out of twelve. The veniremen who have appeared as prospective jurors in this trial have been most unusual.

"Never have I seen so many jurors who have played the game of policy, and never have I seen so many veniremen who manifestly are in sympathy with violation of law.

"I never have witnessed such a state of affairs. I will bring these cases to trial at a future time when we are able to secure a different class of jurors. It is ridiculous for the state to accept a juror who promises to enforce a law he says he does not believe in."

Secure Only Three Jurors.

Only three jurors had been accepted by state and defense during the whole day. They were:

E. Cooper, 6225 Marshfield avenue; employed by A. C. McClurg & Co.

Frank J. Naibnason, 1660 Aldine avenue; employed in the Garrick theater orchestra.

Frank B. Miles, 42 North Francisco street; Chicago and Northwestern conductor.

These three were the only veniremen who satisfactorily answered the questions of Mr. Barnes relative to their ideas of the gambling question. One man wanted to know if the case was to be tried by evidence and others declared they were in favor of "taking the lid off Chicago." Some said they played policy and believed the game should be permitted.

The counsel for the defense objected to the dropping of the cases. His clients left the courtroom, but an hour later the grand jury returned new indictments.

Grand Jury Refuses to Act.

The plan of the Citizens' association to secure the indictment of bookmakers at the Hawthorne racetrack received a setback when the grand jury, after the evidence had been recited, refused to take a vote on the issue until the criminal docket is cleared.

Efforts will be made today by Secretary S. M. Singleton of the association to present the evidence more fully before the jury and to have held nearly fifty men known to be bookmaking at the Cicero race course.

More Poolrooms Are Raided.

Assistant Chief Schuettler's "flying squadron" raided Mont Tennes' "clearing house," at 123 Clark street, in the afternoon. Thomas Daly, alleged operator, and three inmates were arrested. The telephone apparatus, including a switchboard, was removed, and the gambling paraphernalia was confiscated.

Other raids were:

4120 Emerald avenue; said to be operated by James O'Leary; three telephones taken out and James McGuire, D. A. Finn, and Edward Gill arrested.

79 Fifth avenue; new headquarters of Mont Tennes; switchboard and twenty telephones taken out.

226 La Salle street, "Kid" Weller's headquarters; private exchange connecting fifty instruments carried away and wires cut; James McNear and two inmates arrested.

"Games" said to be operated by Ed Brennan at 6340 and 6344 Cottage Grove avenue also were raided

HUSBAND AIMS TO DIE

Meyer Roberman, Stricken by Wife's Death, Shoots Himself.

QUICK DOUBLE TRAGEDY.

Summoned Here from Madison He Tries Suicide After Few Hours.

Following his wife's mysterious death in the Sherman house yesterday morning, Meyer Robersman, a wealthy fruit dealer of Madison, Wis., shot himself last night while in Indiana Harbor, Ind.

Mrs. Roberaman came to Chicago Wednesday afternoon, and apparently became ill in the hotel during the evening. A physician was called and prescribed remedies for her. She seemed to revive, but shortly after midnight was stricken again. Attendants then found that she had taken an overdose of laudanum.

Whether it was intentional or not they did not decide, but at 2 a. m. she died.

Could Not Account for Suicide.

Mr. Robersman was summoned from Madison, and reached Chicago only to find his wife's body in an undertaker's shop in Thirty-fifth street. He was overcome with grief, and could not account for a possible suicide.

"Why my wife should be in Chicago," said he, "is all a mystery to me. Unable to account for her leaving home and the remaining circumstances, I made hurried preparations to leave for Chicago, arriving here this morning after she had died.

Hysterical with Grief.

"Why should my poor wife, my good and lovable wife, ever do such a thing?" continued the husband, becoming hysterical with his grief. "We had been so happy. She had been a good wife and I had always been good to her."

Later the distracted husband went to Indiana Harbor, where his wife's brother, Jacob Frank, lives. His grief was inconsolable.

Shoots Himself at Brother-in-Law's.

In the evening he went to a bedroom in his brother-in-law's house and shot himself, declaring he had no desire to live.

At midnight it was reported that he was fatally wounded.

The coroner's jury in Chicago had declared the wife's death accidental, but friends of Roberaman, after hearing of his action, were inclined to think it was suicide, and that he sought to die in a similar manner.

TWO HURT IN EARLY BLAZE.

Supposed Incendiary Fire at 3107 Rhodes Avenue Gives Department Considerable Trouble.

Fire, thought to have been of incendiary origin, routed out twenty-four families in the building at 3107 Rhodes avenue early this morning. A fireman fell from the landing and was seriously injured, and one of the occupants was carried out unconscious.

The injured:

Ward, Mrs. Josephine, overcome by smoke and carried to the street by firemen, where she was revived.

Powers, William, fireman engine No. 19; fell from second landing of fire escape; right thigh fractured, left elbow broken, and injured internally; taken to Mercy hospital.

The damage to building and contents was $2,000. The building is owned by the P. C. Porter estate. A short time before this fire was discovered the fire department was called to 3120 Rhodes avenue to extinguish a blaze in a frame structure. The police are looking for the incendiary.

Mrs. Lillian Ward, who occupies the second flat became confused in the smoke filled hall and was led to the street. Fipeman Powers with other firemen was opening windows to ventilate the building when he fell to the sidewalk.

SHOT ON STREET CAR

Conductor Wounded by Passenger, and a Panic Is Result.

WOMAN VICTIM OF BULLETS.

Killed by Former Boarder, Who Soon Is Captured by a Mob.

In a dispute over acceptance of transfers a conductor on the Cottage Grove avenue cable car line was shot last night by a passenger, who escaped. Thomas Boland, the victim, received a wound in the left shoulder and was taken to the Chicago hospital. Passengers were thrown into a panic.

Three men boarded the car at Forty-seventh street. One showed an employe's badge and the others produced old transfers. At Forty-ninth street Boland demanded that the two men pay their nickels or leave the car. One of them drew a revolver and declared:

"You'll be a dead man before you put us off."

Shoots at Friend's Demand.

The conductor shouted for help from the gripman. When the latter approached the companion of the man with the revolver urged him to put it in his pocket. The passenger declared he would not do it, and the other said:

"Well, shoot, then."

The answer was a report and a flash. Passengers almost knocked one another down in their haste to leave the car. More than a score were on board, and in the struggle several fell and were bruised. The gripman attempted to seize the assailant, who flourished his revolver and threatened to shoot. The trio fled.

It was found at the hospital that the bullet had penetrated Boland's lung. It was extracted, and it is believed the man will recover. He is married and resides at 3022 Lock street.

Murders His Former Landlady.

After murdering his former landlady, Mrs. Annie Waclawisk, Stephen Waclavik in the afternoon was pursued for blocks by scores of foreigners and rescued when badly bruised in the conflict.

Waclavik lived at 874 West Nineteenth street until a few weeks ago, when the woman forced him to leave because of intemperance. He knocked at the door at 5 o'clock and when Mrs. Waclawisk opened it he rushed into the vestibule, drew his revolver, and fired twice. Both bullets struck the woman in the right arm. She ran to the kitchen, shouting for help. A boarder saw Waclavik shoot again. The bullet struck Mrs. Waclawisk just below the right shoulder.

The woman leaped against the screen of the open window, it gave way, and she fell eight feet to the ground, dying shortly afterward.

Rescued from a Big Mob.

The assailant rushed out of the front door, still holding the revolver. A score of men saw him and pursued. Their number was increased until hundreds, mostly foreigners, had joined the chase. They had surrounded him when the police came.

A squad from the Hinman street police station, on hearing of the pursuit, took possession of a Twenty-first street electric car and made the motorman run at full speed to Robey street. Then they ran to Nineteenth street and arrested the murderer.

Mrs. Waclawisk was 27 years old and left a husband and two children, one an infant.

FIREMEN MUST WEAR BADGES.

Chief Musham Issues Order and Notifies Men All Will Be on Duty for the Fourth.

Fire Chief Musham yesterday issued an order requiring every man in the department to wear the new numbered badges. The chief also notified the men that no leaves of absence will be granted from 6 p. m. July 3 to 6 p. m. July 5.

JAPS WIN VICTORY, LOSE 1,120 MEN.

Mikado's Forces Carry Fenshui Pass After Two Days and a Night of Steady Fighting.

CLOSE IN ON RUSSIANS.

Kouropatkin in Danger of Losing Control of the Railroad North from Liaoyang to Mukden.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, July 1, 3 a. m.—The Japanese armies engaged in enveloping Gen. Kouropatkin's forces have made material progress, with heavy loss of life.

A Tokio dispatch, giving details of the capture of Fenshui pass, states that the Japanese lost 1,120 men in killed and wounded after a two days' battle in which they defeated seventeen battalions and three regiments of infantry, six batteries of field artillery, thirty-six guns in all—and nine squadrons and one regiment of cavalry.

Kouropatkin in Close Place.

Kouropatkin's official reports indicate that he is making a stand at Haicheng and Liaoyang. The Japanese reports, confirmed by Kouropatkin, show that the Japanese armies have captured Ta pass, far to the northeast of Liaoyang; Motien pass, and Fenshui pass, almost directly east.

British military observers do not understand Kouropatkin's apparent inactivity. They point out that a Japanese army, pouring through Ta pass, will in a few days be able to cut the railroad north of Liaoyang and at the same time hold the Russian forces at Mukden in check, while the armies advancing westward through Fenshui and Motien pass will be able to strike Liaoyang.

Is Russian Army Trapped?

South of Kouropatkin a Japanese army has been at Kaichou since June 26, almost within striking distance of Tatsekiao, while Kuroki's three columns are marching on Haicheng. It looks as if Kouropatkin is trapped and that only a victory or a miracle will enable him to extricate his army from its present plight.

Spencer Wilkinson writes in the Morning Post:

"A telegram from Liaoyang asserts that the Russian main army is near Haicheng and that a detachment is defending the exit from Motien pass towards Liaoyang.

"From these details we can get a general idea of the situation. The Japanese have two armies of not less than six divisions, or 120,000 men, advancing on a front of forty miles from Hsunsyao to Fenshui pass. The roads on which they are moving converge on Tatsekiao and Haicheng, so that as the armies move forward they come nearer together.

Attack Haicheng in a Week.

"These armies have to fight their way towards Haicheng through a hilly country, full of defiles and of strong positions which Russians have fortified. They may well take a week or more in the advance to Haicheng, and may have several battles to fight on the way.

"The Japanese right column, described as the Takushan army, has won its first victory at Fenshui pass. Gen. Kouropatkin is compelled to allow his army to be beaten in small detachments, and he has no good way of strengthening it, for the decisive battle which must come after the Japanese forces have effected their concentration.

Advance of Kuroki's Army.

"It seems probable that another army, the First, under Gen. Kuroki, is advancing towards Liaoyang. This will hardly be less than three divisions, of 60,000 men. Its destination probably is to strike in the rear of Kouropatkin's force, for which purpose it need not approach Liaoyang, but may continue its westward march from Motien pass through which there is a road leading to Haicheng, from the main road, near where the main road turns north toward Liaoyang. By this route its advance guard was on Tuesday about six days' march from Liaoyang and four or five marches from the railway north of Haicheng. Gen. Kuroki, like his colleagues, will probably have to fight his way forward and will go slowly.

"From these data it seems likely that a decisive battle will hardly take place before the arrival of Field Marshal Oyama on the scene."

TWO DAYS OF BATTLE.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

[Copyright: 1904: By the New York Herald.]

TOKIO, June 30.—Official dispatches have been received here from the commander of the Takushan army giving the details of the capture of Fenshui pass.

"The Japanese force in three columns advanced on June 26 from Kangpankau towards Fenshui. The Kamada detachment advanced against the enemy's right flank, while the Marui detachment moved against the rear of the enemy's right flank, and the Toyo detachment protected the Marui detachment's rear.

First Day of Battle.

"On June 26 the Toyo detachment attacked the eastern line with three battalions of infantry, six guns, some cavalry, and two machine guns in a strongly fortified position. From 5 o'clock in the [illegible] and the nightfall the operations went [illegible] and the Japanese troops bivouacked until midnight, when they resumed the attack, routed the enemy, and occupied the Russian position.

"In the afternoon, however, the enemy having been reinforced by three battalions of infantry, with sixteen guns, attempted to retake the position, but were repulsed and driven off at 7:20 p. m. on June 27.

Attack Front and Rear.

"The Marui detachment on the evening of the 26th sent a force to harass the enemy's rear [illegible] flank fronting the Toyo detachment, while our main body, at 8 a. m. the 27th, advanced against the enemy's front and occupied Fenshui pass. They also encountered two battalions of the enemy's infantry stationed at Ichtankau and routed them by 11 o'clock a. m.

"The Asada detachment routed 2,000 of the enemy's infantry and cavalry on the night of the 26th and remained under arms at Wafangilen, on the eastern foot of the hill of Fenshui pass, till 5 o'clock a. m. on the 27th, when the enemy's artillery poured a deadly hail of shells upon our force.

Japs Save Their Artillery.

"Our artillery replied and then the Kamada detachment, driving off two companies of the enemy's infantry, occupied the side of Tihsuing hill and allowed the artillery to extricate itself from its bad position and to get into another place, whence it was able to fire across Fenshui pass.

"Then our infantry advanced through the valley to the enemy's rear, while the Fukaya regiment, sent from the Asada detachment, which had been operating since midnight on the 26th, defeated and routed two companies of Russian infantry and threatened the left flank and rear of the enemy, causing them to lose their freedom of action.

Japs Storm the Hills.

"At 7:50 a. m. on the 27th we had silenced the Russian artillery, and by 8 a. m. their whole line was thrown into total confusion.

"The infantry of the Asada detachment, assisted by the engineers, dashed up the hill, cut the wire entanglements, and destroyed the obstacles, and we then stormed the position and occupied the hill at Fenshui pass at 11:30 a. m.

"The enemy retreated under a fircе artillery fire and made off toward Simucheng.

"We captured six officers and eighty-two men. The enemy left ninety dead on the battlefield, not including the dead in the valleys and hills.

Mikado's Loss, 1,120 Men.

"Our casualties at Simucheng were 1,120 killed and wounded, while the Toyo detachment lost a further fifty.

"The positions held by the enemy at Fenshui pass were strongly fortified and formed a key to the Simucheng road. For three months the enemy had been engaged in making semi-permanent fortifications, locating batteries, and digging intrenchments. These formed a perfect defense for the position, but the frontal attacks by the Asada detachment, with the carefully timed reinforcements and perfect working of our plan, enabled us to capture this difficult position.

"The enemy's force comprised one battery of mounted artillery, two machine guns, seventeen battalions and three regiments of infantry, six batteries of field artillery, and nine squadrons and one regiment of cavalry."

KOUROPATKIN'S DAILY REPORT.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

ST. PETERSBURG, June 30.—The following dispatch from Gen. Kouropatkin to the emperor, dated June 29, was received today:

"Towards 8 o'clock in the morning of June 27 our troops, having dislodged the enemy's advance guard, composed of cavalry and infantry, occupied the station of Senuchen, but at 9 o'clock it was discovered that a brigade of the enemy's infantry was advancing in front, while other columns were turning our detachment's left flank.

"The town of Senuchen, which is surrounded by walls, was also occupied by the Japanese. Consequently at 11 o'clock our troops slowly withdrew. As regards losses, we only know as yet that an officer and ten men were wounded.

Officers Lost in Skirmish.

"A reconnoissance carried out on the road from Siaknotung to Eritatan and Khanza revealed the presence of six companies of the enemy's infantry and two squadrons of cavalry at Mayaratsa, three miles southeast of Siakhotung. In his reconnoissance Capt. Vassilieff, Lieut. Makaroff, and five Cossacks were wounded. Makaroff succumbed.

"There was some skirmishing June 25 between the enemy and our outposts at Samiarikau and Wangtsiafangching, five miles west of Samiarikau.

"At 4 in the morning June 26 a detachment of the enemy, nearly an infantry brigade, with two batteries, occupied Santiao, firing on our vanposts occupying Black Mount, south of Siakhotung. Our three companies firmly held their ground until reinforced. At 6 a. m. a battery of Cossacks and a mounted mountain battery took up a position and opened fire on the front and flank of a Japanese battery and dense columns of infantry which had appeared against our left.

Japs Lose a Skirmish.

"At 1 in the afternoon the Japanese began to retire, pressed by our troops, who had assumed the offensive and pursued the enemy as far as Santiao. Our losses were six soldiers killed, and two officers and thirty-three men wounded.

"The battle recommenced at Siakhotung at 6 in the morning. A Cossack battery and a mounted battery repeatedly pursued the enemy's infantry and silenced the Japanese batteries.

"A section of our infantry repulsed the Japanese on our right, we counter attacking. The fighting ceased at 5. A section of the Eleventh horse battery, which participated in the fighting, astonished everybody by its gallantry in pushing on so far as the Shanhai pass, and holding its own against eight of the enemy's guns until its ammunition was exhausted.

"Our losses have not been ascertained definitely, but they are reported not to exceed fifty men and twenty horses.

"A battalion and a squadron of the Japanese vanguard June 26, operating north of the Siuyenkaichou road, occupied Cheliuangtien, four miles northeast of Siakhotung.

Japs Capture Ta Pass.

"A concentration, towards evening, of twenty-six Japanese battalions was observed near the village of Wangtaiputse, on the road from Siuyen to Haicheng.

"From the morning of June 27 the Japanese developed a frontal attack against our troops in Ta Pass, simultaneously turning our right with at least a division of infantry and three field batteries. The fight lasted until 7:40 in the evening. In view of the enemy's great strength and the turning movement our troops retired slowly from the pass. The enemy did not advance. Our losses are undetermined, but are estimated at about 200.

Japs Take More Passes.

"On June 26 the enemy continued to advance from Fenshui and Motien passes frontally and flanking. At least eight battalions and ten guns were concentrated against Motien pass.

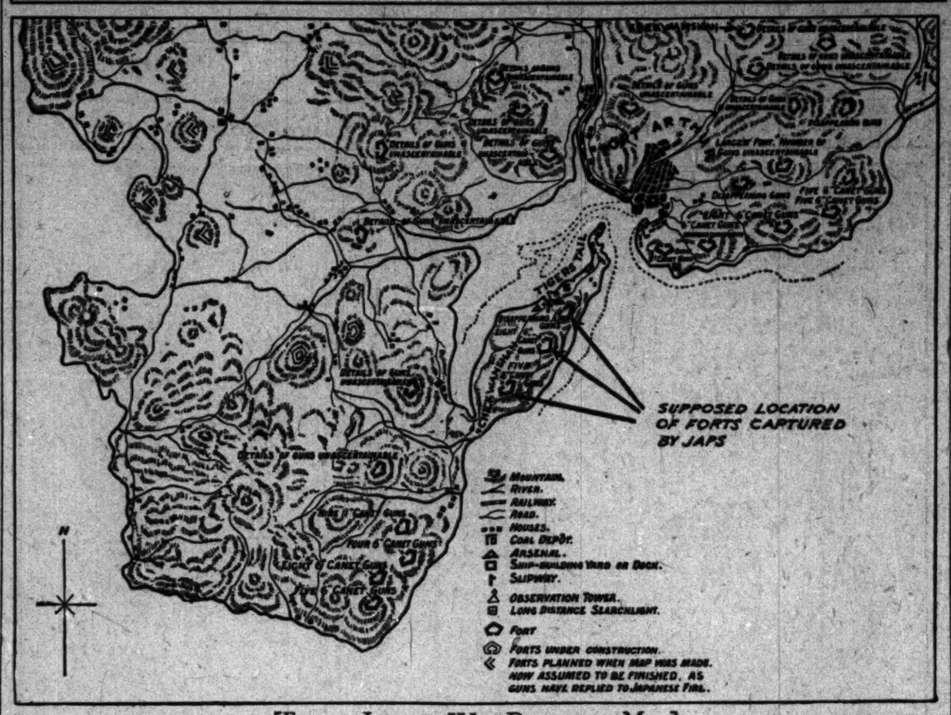

"At 4 o'clock in the afternoon the enemy occupied Motien pass, on the Liaoyang road.

"Since June 1 the Japanese have been advancing their right, occupying Saimatsze the morning of the 26, three companies advancing beyond it first they forced back the Cossacks, but subsequently the Japanese were repulsed."

ADVANCE ON LIAOYANG.

LIAOYANG, Wednesday, June 29.—[Delayed.]—The Japanese column which forced the passage of Motien pass is advancing on Liaoyang by the eastern road. A Russian force commanded by Gen. Count Keller, is holding a fortified position commanding the road on this side of the pass. The object of the Japanese is to cut the Russian communications northward of Liaoyang while Gen. Kouropatkin is operating in the vicinity of Haicheng with practically the whole of the Manchurian forces.

Port Arthur Forts, Showing Location of Those Captured by Japs.

[From a Japanese War Department Map.]

A German map printed six weeks ago, from which additions have been made to this Japanese war department chart, places the Chickwan hill forts, captured by the Japanese, on the peninsula from which the Tiger's Tail promontory runs. This is southeast of Port Arthur and agrees with the location of the captured forts given in the Tokio dispatches. There would, therefore, seem to be little doubt of the accuracy of the position given these forts in the above map. Chickwan hill is 584 feet at the summit. The forts on the sea side are built 350 feet above the sea.

CZAR'S FLEET ON A RAID.

VLADIVOSTOK SHIPS AGAIN DASH INTO COREAN STRAITS.

Cruisers and Torpedo Boats Appear at Gensan and Throw 200 Shells Into the Japanese Settlement, Wounding Two Soldiers—Small Steamer and a Coasting Schooner Are Sunk in the Harbor—Squadron Disappears in a Southeastern Direction.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

TOKIO, June 30.—The Russian squadron from Vladivostok is again at large, and may make another daring raid into the Corean straits.

This morning the squadron, consisting of three cruisers, one torpedo destroyer, and nine torpedo boats, appeared off Gensan on the east coast of Corea.

Throw 200 Shells.

The torpedo boats entered Gensan harbor at 5:30 in the morning, shelled the settlement, and sunk the small steamer Koun, of 2,876 tons, and the small coasting schooner Seitsu.

The torpedo boats left the harbor at 7:20. A total of 200 shells was fired into the settlement, but no serious damage resulted. Two Corean soldiers were wounded.

Afterwards the squadron was reported off Anper, about fifteen miles to the east of Gensan, proceeding in a southeasterly direction. Its destination is not known.

Land Attack on Gensan.

VLADIVOSTOK, June 30.—[Delayed.]—Reports from the Russian detachments operating in northern Corea show that a Russian force reached Gensan on June 5 and engaged the Japanese, inflicting losses. Gensan was then held by 1,200 Japanese infantry, with artillery, and 400 Corean soldiers. The Corean soldiers are ill disposed towards the Japanese. Two thousand Japanese infantry, with artillery, are quartered at Seoul.

DESTROYER RUNS TOGO'S LINES.

Torpedo Boat Arrives at Newchwang Showing Signs of Having Been in a Severe Engagement.

NEWCHWANG, June 30.—The Russian torpedo boat destroyer Lieutenant Burukoff arrived here from Port Arthur yesterday evening, and is berthed alongside the gunboat Sivouch. The river bank was soon crowded with excited natives, who were told by the Russians that the Japanese fleet had been completely destroyed.

The officers of the Lieutenant Burukoff tell several stories. One is that Admiral Togo's report of the fighting was exaggerated, and that the Russians have made two cruises in the gulf of Pechili in five days.

Every inch of the boat was crowded with men. The destroyer had the appearance of having been in a general engagement, the bow gun having been shot away, and it looked as if it had rescued many men.

Deny Battleship Was Sunk.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 30, 4:40 p. m.—An official dispatch received from Lieut. Gen. Stoessel, the commander of the Russian military forces at Port Arthur, and apparently sent via the torpedo destroyer to Newchwang, says that the squadron of Rear Admiral Withoft reentered that port after repulsing five torpedo boat attacks.

FIXES LOCATION OF THE PASSES.

St. Petersburg Paper Explains Positions of Mountain Gateways Captured by the Japs.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 30.—The Russky Invalid attempts to clear up the discrepancies in the topography of the theater of operations, due to the apparent confusion of Chinese names and foreign maps, especially regarding the three passes mentioned in Gen. Kouropatkin's last official dispatch.

Motien pass, it says, is fifty miles from Liaoyang and directly on the Fengwangcheng road.

The Fenshui pass, it adds, is north of Motien pass and fifty-four miles from Liaoyang, on the Fengwangcheng-Liaoyang high road.

NOT YET READY TO TALK PEACE

Inquiries Made by United States Show That Neither Russia Nor Japan Will Accept Mediation.

Washington, D. C., June 30.—There is reason to believe that discreet inquiries as to the opportunities of peace overtures at this time have emanated from Washington. It may be stated that the result has been to disclose the fact that neither of the belligerent powers is yet in a humor to sue for peace nor even to entertain overtures from any third power on that subject.

SIEGE ARTILLERY IS MOUNTED CLOSE TO PORT ARTHUR.

Mikado's Troops Reported to Be Building Fort on Hill Recently Captured—Will Be Able to Shell the Russian Harbor and at the Same Time Be Out of the Range of the Golden Hill Batteries—Not Believed at St. Petersburg.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

CHEFOO, June 30.—It is stated that the Japanese last Monday sent siege guns from Dalny to their position near Port Arthur. These guns will be mounted in a fort now being erected, which will command the harbor, though it is outside the range of the Russian guns on Golden hill.

Russian Regiment Annihilated.

LONDON, July 1, 3 a. m.—The Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Chronicle says that in the engagement near Port Arthur the Japanese occupied Wolf mountain after a desperate fight in which a Russian regiment was almost annihilated.

Not Believed at St. Petersburg.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 30.—Telegrams from Tokio relating to the capture of forts forming part of the defenses of Port Arthur do not agree with information received at the war office, nor with the reports of Gen. Stoessel, which indicate that the siege operations are proceeding slowly. Heavy guns have not yet been brought in range of the works at Port Arthur.

RUSSIAN ARSENAL BLOWN UP.

Part of the Torpedo Shops Destroyed by an Explosion and Fire Follows.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 30.—An explosion last night, believed to be the result of an outrage, destroyed a portion of the arsenal at Cronstadt. The torpedo boats were almost wholly destroyed, together with twenty Whitehead torpedoes. Five of the torpedoes had war heads attached, and they exploded. A considerable quantity of oil stored in the works was also burned.

Gen. Oku Sends Official Report Indicating Enemy's Heavy Loss After Battle of Vafangow.

TOKIO, June 30.—A report received from Gen. Oku says that after the fighting at Telissu (Vafangow) on June 15 he buried 1,854 Russians. The trophies taken by the Japanese at this engagement consisted of sixteen guns, forty-six wagons, 958 rifles, and other things.

ENGLAND TO ARMENIANS' AID.

British Ambassador at Constantinople Induces Sultan to Give Protection to Christians in Asia Minor.

LONDON, June 30.—Great Britain has successfully brought pressure to bear on the porte for the relief of the persecuted Armenians. Nicholas O'Conor, the British ambassador at Constantinople, on June 14 called the attention of the grand vizier to the design which had been accredited to the Turkish authorities of driving the Armenians from their mountain homes to the plains, and urged that orders should be sent to the vali of Bitlis that refugees be allowed to return to their homes and be given protection.

The grand vizier telegraphed orders to that effect in the presence of the ambassador.

The porte has granted permission for a British officer to accompany any troops engaged in expeditions against the Armenian insurgents.

LITTLE HOPE FOR LOOMIS.

Officials at Paris Practically Abandon All Idea of Finding the Missing American.

PARIS, June 30.—Officials interested in the search for F. Kent Loomis say they have practically abandoned hope that he will be found alive. Heretofore they have relied on the statement of Gustav Flamm of San Francisco that he saw Loomis leave the steamer at Plymouth, but they are now inclined to the belief that Flamm may have been mistaken. However, Mr. Flamm positively reiterated today that he was not mistaken. The idea of foul play continues to be rejected.

AMERICAN DUCHESS IS FREE.

Daughter of Levi P. Morton of New York Receives Decree Divorcing Her from Her Husband.

PARIS, June 30.—The duchess of Valencay, who was Helen Morton, daughter of Levi P. Morton, before her marriage, was today granted a divorce from the duke of Valencay. The proceedings were private. The charges were ill treatment and neglect. The duchess resumes her maiden name.

TRAGEDY IN A LAND RUSH.

POLICEMAN KILLS YOUNG MAN AT BONESTEEL, S. D.

Quarrel at Railway Station Followed by Shooting—Gambling Fraternity in Evidence—Much Bitter Feeling Because of Alleged Monopoly of Games—Vigilance Committee Busy. Undesirable Characters Being Invited to Leave—Rapid Rise of Town.

Bonesteel, S. D., June 30.—[Special.]—The rush of land seekers to the Rosebud reservation, which is to be distributed to homesteaders, continues, the peaceful invasion being marred by the first tragedy this afternoon, when Policeman Ault shot and killed Charles Duke, formerly known as "Kid English," aged 22.

The trouble which led to the shooting was due to the attempt of the officer to keep back the crowd on the arrival of a Northwestern train. Words passed between Ault and Duke, when the latter took the officer's club from him and knocked him down. When Ault regained his feet he drew a revolver, and this also was taken from him by Duke. The latter's friend returned the weapon to the officer, and later when an attempt was made to arrest Duke the latter started to run and the officer fired, two shots taking effect. Duke's parents live in Fort Worth, Tex.

Rapid Rise of Bonesteel.

Bonesteel, which a year ago had only one general store, now is a town of 2,000 inhabitants, and it is believed that within a week 20,000 people will be here, on account of the rush incident to the opening of the Rosebud lands. The town resembles a mining camp in many respects, and Deadwood in its wildest days was no more filled with gamblers and speculators.

There is trouble in the camp of the gamblers. According to recent arrivals of the talent one man is making all the money, and the newcomers want their share of the "spoils." Tony Stanton, styled the "squarest" gambler in the northwest, has the franchise for conducting all the street games, and it is costing him just $100 a day. It is said he will not permit the new arrivals to open on the street, and this is the cause of the feeling.

Vigilance Committee Busy.

The vigilance committee is renewing its efforts to check the drift of the undesirable element toward this place, and its efforts are bearing fruit. Several persons have been invited to leave and have not refused. The town has only six policemen. Next week fifty United States deputy marshals will be here. Three companies of regular soldiers also have been ordered from Fort Mobrara.

A Des Moines firm has cornered the ice and food supplies and expects to reap a fortune next week when the rush will be at its height.

RUN ON AURORA BANK ENDS.

Ten Thousand Dollars Withdrawn, but Many New Accounts Are Started.

Aurora, Ill., June 30.—[Special.]—There was a brief run on the German-American National bank this morning as the result of the defalcation of $90,000 of its funds by the cashier, J. H. Plain.

The amount withdrawn was about $10,000, but a number of new accounts were started during the day.

Ranged on either side and back of the paying teller, John Weiland, was $190,000 in cash.

TRAIN FLAGGED: LYNCH NEGRO.

South Carolina Mob Puts to Death Slayer Who Barely Escaped Fate Last February.

Charleston, S. C., June 30.—Cairo Williams, the negro who killed Thurston O. McGee, white, at Scranton, in Williamsburg county, last February, and who barely escaped lynching just after the crime, was taken from the Atlantic Coast line train at Scranton this evening and lynched by a mob. A red flag brought the train to a stop.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE.
New York, June 30.

Business men in New York City have become convinced within the last few weeks that abating the poolroom evil is far from affording the relief which had been hoped for. The reason is not hard to find. The partial suppression of the poolrooms merely paved the way for an army of handbook men. The altered situation means the dawning era of dimes instead of dollars. It means the carrying to the individual of an opportunity to bet. It means the establishment of handbooks in corner saloons, cigar stores, and other shops.

There is hardly a branch of business to which the habit of betting on races has not spread. Today the head of a large department store noticed that at the lunch hour a man with a pad in his hand visited the establishment and made notes as he gathered in small coins from the clerks. Investigation proved the visitor was busy raking in bets on the races to be run that afternoon.

Worse Evils Take Place of Poolrooms.

The extent to which betting on races is responsible for crime also is being realized more fully as the days pass. According to the head of one of the largest surety companies in the country fully 25 per cent of the defalcations are due to this habit.

"As nearly as I can get at it," said Henry B. Lyman, president of the American Surety company, "I divide the causes of defalcations into four classes—men who go wrong in Wall street speculations, others who fall because of their passion for cards, a third class who live beyond their means, and the fourth those who lose their employers' money on horses."

The resignation of Charles M. Schwab, former president of the United States Steel corporation, as a director of the corporation, it is announced, is in the hands of the full board and will be accepted at the quarterly meeting in July.

Fifteen persons and possibly more than that were wounded in a race riot between Irishmen and Italians in East Fifteenth street tonight. For a quarter of an hour bullets flew about in all directions, knives and clubs were brandished over the heads of 200 angry men and women, and the police were unable to stop the fighting until Capt. Gallagher, and the reserves from the East Twenty-second street station reached the scene and dispersed the mob. A father, five sons, and one daughter in one family were injured by bullets or knife thrusts and two policemen were badly bruised.

Fifteen Hurt in Irish-Italian Feud Fight.

Hundreds of shots were fired and many assailants were slightly wounded.

On one side of the street is what is known as "Mulvey row" and on the other side is "Kelly row."

As nearly as the police could learn the trouble began when several members of an Italian family were leaning out of their windows when two Irishmen came along and dared the Italians to come down and fight. The latter promptly accepted the challenge, and within five minutes after they had reached the pavement two score more were engaged in the battle.

Lightning struck the foremast on the Anchor line steamship Furnessia during a thunderstorm tonight, as it was lying at the pier in North river. The bolt carried away a two foot section of the topgallant mast, cut the signal halyards, and splintered the signal halyard truck, but did no other damage.

Charles E. Salloz, the Swiss-American, who arrived here from Antwerp on Tuesday with his wife, six children, and only $2, and for whom battery Policemen Mury and Meyer took up a collection, started on his way to Chicago today. If the family had staid a day longer it might have accumulated enough to make a tour of the world. As it was they had $65 besides their tickets, and Hudgins & Dumas, the Ellis island caterers, put them up a hamper that will last them a week.

Big Family Gets Good Start Toward Chicago.

Eddie Collins, the battery cabman, drove them up to the Grand Central station for nothing.

The little brood filled Eddie's cab and overflowed out the windows. A throng of interested folks cheered as the cab labored heavily on its course.

There was no evidence today that the office of the steamboat inspectors was paying any attention to the order of Secretary Cortelyou relative to the reinspection of vessels in the harbor of New York. Gen. Dumont, supervising inspector of hulls for this district, said the department is acting under authority of an act of congress, and that it would continue so to act. Secretary Cortelyou to the contrary, notwithstanding. He said the authority of the board of supervising inspectors clearly defined that it would continue to act under that authority.

Inspectors Ignore Order of Cortelyou.

The federal grand jury today began its investigation of the Gen. Slocum disaster. Gen. Henry L. Burnett, the United States district attorney, and Assistant United States District Attorney Henry A. Wise had charge of the presentation of the case.

The motion to quash the Brooklyn indictments against George W. Beavers, former superintendent of the salaries and allowances division of the postoffice department, was denied today in Brooklyn by United States Judge Thomas, who also declined to allow Beavers to enter a demurrer to the Brooklyn indictments. Decision was deferred on the ruling by United States Commissioner Bezedict that there was probable cause for the removal of Beavers to Washington. A motion that Beavers be discharged on the strength of testimony presented before United States Commissioner Benedict was also denied.

Beavers Cases in Brooklyn Not Quashed.

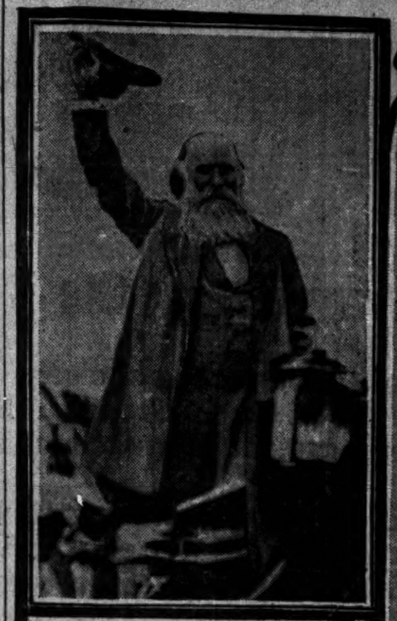

On the liner Deutschland in today from Hamburg were Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Glidden of Boston. Mr. and Mrs. Glidden are making a tour of the world in a twenty-four horse power automobile. They have been away from home two years, and have traveled 16,200 miles. In August while in Norway they made the first trip ever undertaken in an automobile into the arctic zone. They will leave Boston in August and journey to San Francisco, whence they will take ship to Hawaii and the Philippines. They expect to complete their trip in 1907 and they estimate they will then have traveled in the automobile about 40,000 miles.

Dr. Dowie and His "Millionairess" Convert at Zion City.

[From photographs taken for THE TRIBUNE.]

DR. DOWIE.

MISS RUTH HOFER of ZÜRICH, SWITZERLAND.

GREETS DOWIE WITH JOY.

ZION HAS DEMONSTRATION AT HOMECOMING OF "PROPHET."

Thousands of the Faithful in Holiday Attire Welcome "Elijah III." on Return from Europe—Great Procession Formed, and Leader with a Brass Band Passes Under Triumphal Arch—Miss Hofer, "Millionairess" Convert, Is in the Line.

John Alexander Dowie yesterday was welcomed home at Zion City. All about him, in holiday attire, were the thousands of Zion's faithful. Before him was a great triumphal arch bearing biblical quotations. At the wheels of his carriage five little girls pelted him with roses. The prophet smiled with satisfaction. In his months' tour of Europe and Australia, just concluded, he had been pelted many times—but not with roses.

It was good to get back to the city he had founded and the people who believed in him, thought John Alexander Dowie. On arriving at the Wells street depot from New York he learned of an hour's wait until the next train for Zion.

"I must leave right away," exclaimed the "prophet."

Takes Special Train in Haste.

That was enough for his followers. Had there been no alternative they would have pushed his car to Zion City. Instead, they communicated with a Northwestern railway official, and a few minutes later the car with Dowie and his party was being whirled out of the depot shed attached to a "special" engine.

The "special" cost $80—a small item in the expense of traveling 36,000 miles to advertise a creed and the purported reincarnation of Elijah.

The crowd of unbelievers who witnessed the reception in Chicago looked indifferently on the parties to it, more interested in seeing the much heralded "millionairess," Ruth Hofer, who had accompanied Dowie from her home in Zurich, Switzerland. By previous arrangement the tall Swiss girl had left by another train.

The hosts of Zion, gathered at the little depot, cheered her as she alighted, and she bowed and smiled in acknowledgment. Then she was escorted to Shiloh house, the residence of Zion's leader.

Cheers, Singing, Brass Band.

The crowd at the depot had become restive from waiting when the Dowie special car reached there at 11 o'clock and Dowie and his fellow world girdlers made their appearance on the rear platform. In the party were Mrs. Dowie, Gladston Dowie, the son, and Deacons Stern and Excell.

There had never before been so demonstrative a gathering in Zion City. As Dowie stepped to the platform there was a storm of cheering, interspersed with Zion's stock greeting, "Peace to thee," and followed by the blaring of a brass band and the singing of children.

Dowie beamed on his followers, but said nothing. Standing erect, attired in a pearl gray frock suit, gray hat, and gray gloves, he looked younger by many years than when he departed. There was no sign of care on his countenance—only a smile of intense pleasure and a glistening of the eyes born of the same emotion.

Heads Procession of Hosts.

"Peace to thee," he said, and then he entered his carriage, followed by the members of his family and by Overseer Speicher. Attached to the carriage was the span of black and white horses presented to the "prophet" by two of his wealthy followers at Zurich in honor of his approaching fifty-seventh birthday anniversary.

Two other carriages followed, in one of which sat Deacon Cotton and his protégée, the Swiss convert, and in the other four of Dowie's advisers in the management of Zion City.

Passes Under Arch of Triumph.

Directly in front of the triumphal arch, built at the intersection of the two chief thoroughfares of the town, the procession stopped and the formal celebration of the homecoming of Dowie began. The gates of the arch were unlocked by one of the little girls, who pelted the prophet with roses, and the key, a huge affair, was presented him.

"There are no words that can express my feelings at this moment," said Dowie, rising in his carriage. "First I am grateful to God for guiding me through so many miles of travel safe back to you. I am grateful to Overseer Speicher for the good care he has taken of Zion City in my absence."

Rain had begun to fall while Dowie was speaking and he concluded with the announcement that he would give a detailed account of his world tour in Shiloh tabernacle on Sunday, to be followed by a public reception at his residence a few days afterward. The procession then disbanded and Dowie and his party were driven to Shiloh house, where they spent the rest of the day.

Under the treaty between this country and Austria the prisoner cannot be extradited. Affidavits were drawn up by the Chicago police and sent to the Austrian officials and the prisoner will be tried in Austria. Mrs. Danclowszky, who lived at 94 West Eighteenth street, was found murdered near the drainage canal by hunters. She had been robbed of $60 and several pieces of jewelry. Edward Danclowszky was arrested in Buda-Pesth two months after the murder of his aunt and sentenced to imprisonment on a charge of robbery.

MAN TAKEN FOR BIGAMY.

J. F. DECKER ARRESTED ON COMPLAINT OF MRS. ELLA LAHAN.

She Says He Has Two Wives and That the First, Her Sister, Has Disappeared Mysteriously with Her Children—Marriage to Stenographer Causes Trouble, but the Accused Denies His Guilt, Asserting Case Is Spitework—Other Marital Woes.

Arrested on a charge of bigamy late yesterday afternoon, John F. Decker, 6607 Woodlawn avenue, declared the case was spitework on the part of relatives of his first wife. Decker is manager for Sweet, Wallace & Co., 84 Wabash avenue.

The complaint was brought by Mrs. Ella Lahan, 2266 Wilcox avenue, his first wife's sister. She went to Lieut. McWeeny yesterday and charged Decker with having deserted his first wife and three children, who, she said, disappeared from their home, 1286 West Congress street, on Saturday.

Mrs. Lahan declares Decker and her sister lived contentedly until he began paying attention to Miss Jennette P. Wilkinson, his stenographer. Decker and Miss Wilkinson were married in South Bend, Ind., on Jan. 18 last.

Says Family Has Disappeared.

Mrs. Lahan says that at his second marriage Decker swore that his first wife had perished in the Iroquois theater fire.

"I could even have overlooked that," Mrs. Lahan is declared to have explained, "had it not been that since last Saturday we have lost all trace of my sister and her three children."

Decker told the police he had obtained a divorce from his first wife early in December and that he had since paid her alimony of $100 a month. "I furnished a cottage for her at Delavan lake, Wis., and she has been there for several days," he said. "There is nothing at all mysterious about her disappearance.

"It is true that I married my stenographer, but not before I had obtained a divorce from my first wife."

Quits Husband for Profession.

That Helen Mae Olcott gave up home and husband in order that she might become a physician was charged yesterday in a successful suit for divorce.

George C. Olcott, publisher of a real estate journal, testified they were married in Salt Lake City in 1892. The defendant, he said, had run away from home previously to become a nurse in the Cook county insane asylum. Two years ago, he charged, she left 5718 Kimbark avenue, taking their four children, and residing near a medical college.

Olcott, who now lives at 287 Washington boulevard, allowed the defendant to retain the children, whom he will help support.

Some Other Marital Discords.

Henry J. Polle of Grand Rapids, Mich., forgave his wife in the Chicago avenue police court. He had caused her arrest after an elopement with a Chicago man who gave the name of William Lennan.

After living with him only one week, Isaac Greenberg alleged, Mrs. Rebecca Greenberg deserted him in Chelsea, Mass., two years ago, and since has resided with one Mandel.

Married last May in Boston, Mrs. Mabel Welsh yesterday applied for a divorce from Charles L. Welsh, agent for a coal firm. They parted on June 19, and cruelty is charged.

Walter I. Lake sought a decree, alleging his wife had been divorced in Kansas City under a fictitious name, and had been remarried.

BROKER TRIES TO END LIFE

H. F. BILLINGS PROBABLY FATALLY WOUNDS HIMSELF.

Ill-Health and Distressing Reports Regarding the Condition of His Wife, Who Is in a Sanitarium, Are Believed to Have Caused Employe of Granger Farwell & Co. to Seek Death—Has Little Chance of Recovery, the Physicians Say.

Henry F. Billings, a stock broker, employed by Granger, Farwell & Co., yesterday attempted suicide by shooting himself in the head at the office of the company, 226 La Salle street. He was taken to the Samaritan hospital, and the physicians last night said there was slight chance of his recovery.

Friends declared Billings had no new financial difficulties and that ill health was the cause of his act. He was a member of the firm of Jamieson & Co., brokers, before the concern failed in 1901, and then entered the employ of Granger, Farwell & Co.

Is Disturbed by a Letter.

Billings appeared at his desk at the usual hour in the morning, and, it is said, was much disturbed by a letter from Kenosha, Wis., where his wife is a patient at a sanitarium. The communication indicated that Mrs. Billings' condition was worse. Shortly before noon Billings produced a new revolver and showed it to a telegrapher.

"I wish you would show me how to open this gun," he said. "I want to load it and kill a dog that has been prowling around my house."

Scarcely five minutes had passed when a pistol shot in the lavatory was heard. Billings was found on the floor. A bullet had entered his head back of the right ear. The man still was conscious, and, when asked why he had attempted self-destruction, he said:

"You know I'm not well."

Billings was taken to the Samaritan hospital. The injury is not regarded as necessarily fatal, but hemorrhages which followed the shooting made the case a critical one.

Believes Ill-Health Is Cause.

"Mr. Billings has been in ill health during nearly two years," said J. J. Bryant, manager of the bond department of Granger Farwell & Co. "This, I believe, coupled with the distressing reports concerning his wife's health is accountable for the deed. He had an ample salary and I am positive he was not in financial difficulties."

When Mrs. Billings has been out of the city Billings has resided at the Chicago club. He also is a member of the Chicago Athletic club. His permanent residence has been at the Maison du Lac, Michigan avenue and Harrison street. Nearly two years ago Billings had a stroke of paralysis from which his friends say he never entirely recovered. He is 55 years old.

PLUMBING POOL CASE FAILS.

Attorneys for Prosecution Do Not Appear in Court and the Charges Are Dismissed.

Lawyers who for the last six months have been prosecuting several wholesale plumbers on a charge of "pooling" failed to appear in Justice Underwood's court yesterday afternoon to prosecute the case and the defendants were dismissed. The companies accused were:

L. Wolff Manufacturing company.
Sanitary Specialty company.
Federal company.
Western Plumbing Supply company.
Weil Bros. Supply company.

The charges were preferred against the companies named several months ago, but were not pushed, continuances being taken by the prosecution at various times until yesterday.

ATTORNEY ALLEN HAS A RELAPSE.

Victim of Labor Sluggers Grows Weaker, and His Condition Is Alarming.

GALLAGHER BOUND OVER.

Police Baffle Efforts of the Prisoner's Friends to Secure His Release.

Attorney A. C. Allen, who was assaulted last Friday night by men supposed to have been in the employ of a labor union, suffered a relapse yesterday morning and grew steadily weaker all day.

He had only a short spell of consciousness and most of the day was delirious. In his raving he kept repeating unintelligible talk about "the committee" and two men who seemed to be pursuing him and of whom he was afraid.

Mr. Allen was thought to be out of danger on Wednesday, but it is feared now that if the relapse continues his nervous system will not be able to stand the strain.

Daniel Davenport, executive agent for the National Anti-Boycott association, arrived at the Auditorium Annex from Bridgeport, Conn., to take personal charge of the efforts of that association to bring Mr. Allen's assailants to justice. He stated that his efforts would be directed toward men high in the labor union world, who, he believes, instigated the attack, and that he would try to put a stop to intimidation and "slugging" in Chicago.

Gallagher Held to Grand Jury.

Gallagher, the suspect, was held to await the action of the grand jury under bonds of $7,500 by Justice Caverly. Friends searched for him during the afternoon to sign his bonds, and, failing to find him, made the charge that the police were "spiriting" him from one station to another to prevent his release on bail.

Another alleged victim of Gallagher appeared at the hearing and identified him as the man who had assaulted him. This was Anton Deschermeier, 198 Hudson avenue, a nonunion woodworker at the furniture factory of A. H. Andrews & Co., Fisk and Twenty-second streets.

Deschermeier stated that Friday evening he was walking in Fifth avenue, near Nineteenth street, when he was attacked by three men, their blows breaking three of his ribs. Another warrant was sworn out at once by the detectives and served on Gallagher. The case was continued until Thursday.

Schuettler Is After "Sluggers."

Assistant Chief of Police Schuettler ordered the dragnet to be put out in the afternoon, and all known union men who have had a part in any slugging arrested. All his gambling detail were used in this work.

Attorney John E. Northrup is defending Gallagher. Attorney Howard O. Sprogle will conduct the case in behalf of Mr. Allen. Former Chief of Detectives Luke Colleran has been engaged to gather evidence against the "sluggers."

Contempt Ruling Is Upheld.

The Appellate court upheld the decision of Judge Holdom in sending Arthur Albrow, William J. Sloan, and Daniel Thompson to jail for contempt of court. The decision stated that any person belonging to a body included in an injunction is individually enjoined and that encouraging violence in others is an infraction.

The prisoners were sentenced for violating an injunction in the strike against the People's Gaslight and Coke company in 1903 by encouraging violence.

Tells the Court of Threats.

A petition for an injunction against the Amalgamated Woodworkers' council to stop picketing will be filed in Judge Brentano's court this morning by Attorney Dudley Taylor on behalf of the Findeisen & Kropf Manufacturing company.

It is asserted that 90 per cent of the former employes of the furniture factory were satisfied with their treatment, and the only question in dispute is the "closed shop" agreement demanded by the union. Threats of violence are alleged.

The strike of the boilermakers at the Illinois Central railroad shops yesterday was settled and the men returned to work after an idleness of a month.

The firemen employed by the south park board have demanded an increase in pay of $8 a month. They have been receiving $60. They say the city's employes get $75 and the county men $68.

The demand by the stationary firemen for a new scale of wages in all the packing houses in Chicago and west of Chicago was made last Tuesday. The new schedule provides for an eight hour day and for 32½ cents an hour for water tenders, 30 cents for firemen, and 25 cents an hour for oilers.

The Woodworkers' International union has voted $50,000 to aid the Chicago union in its strike.

MAN AND BOY ARE KILLED BY STROKES OF LIGHTNING.

Joshua F. Woodruff, 11 Years Old, Is Struck in Austin and an Unidentified Person in Wilmette.

Lightning yesterday killed a man in Wilmette and a boy in Austin.

Joshua F. Woodruff, 11 years old, son of Nathan B. Woodruff, 311 Fiftieth court, Austin, while walking across the prairie between Fiftieth avenue and Fiftieth court, was struck by lightning and killed. There were no marks on the body. The hair was slightly singed on the right side, the trousers ripped, and the right shoe was torn off. There was no one near the boy at the time of the accident.

The unidentified body of a man was found in Wilmette at West Railroad avenue and Charles street. He had been killed by lightning. No one saw the accident.

Other deaths caused by accidents were:

ARONSON, JOHN, 41 years old, 10147 Avenue L, fell from scaffold at Burlington, Ind., plant of Illinois Steel company; died on way to hospital.
KUCHNOVSKI, CASIMAR, 759 Paulina street, struck and killed by a Chicago, Burlington and Quincy passenger train at Wood street.

While a crowd stood near powerless to aid him, Charles Russell, 15 years old, 7101 Harvard avenue, was severely burned by an unstrung electric wire in the morning at Seventy-first street and Yale avenue. The line had been broken in the storm the night before. The boy, while crossing the street, saw the live wire swinging toward him, and in thrusting out his hands to ward it off his fingers were scorched.

The shock threw the boy to the pavement, where the blazing wire coiled around his foot, burning the ankle. He finally was rescued by the driver of a passing milk wagon, who used a horse blanket as an insulator.

TOY PISTOL BEGINS ITS WORK.

Twelve Year Old Boy at Bloomington, Ill., Dies of Lockjaw from Wound in Hand.

Bloomington, Ill., June 30.—[Special.]—The first fourth of July fatality occurred here today. Henry Milkie, a boy of 12 dying from lockjaw as a result of a wound in the hand received from a toy pistol, which he had just bought for the holiday.

Firecracker Causes Injuries.

Rockford, Ill., June 30.—[Special.]—A cannon firecracker thrown by a small boy last night frightened a horse driven by Mr. and Mrs. William Knoff, an aged couple living near here, and in the ensuing runaway both were thrown out and seriously injured. Today they are in a critical condition, and their recovery is despaired of.

WIFE SUES SIDNEY LOVE.

ASKS SEPARATE MAINTENANCE AND CHARGES CRUELTY.

Bill Charges the Husband with Violence and Repeatedly Threatening Mrs. Love's Life—Details One Attack in 1901 and States the Legal Actions Begun by Tradesmen Were Inspired—Accused Declares Charges Absurd—Is Expected to Fight Case.

Sidney C. Love was made defendant yesterday in a suit for separate maintenance brought by his wife, Mrs. Minerva C. Love. Mrs. Love declares in her bill that she is penniless, and has been driven into court by her husband's violence, persecution, and failure to support her. She adds that the separation is no fault of hers, as she always has been a dutiful and faithful wife.

Her husband has an annual income of $40,000 and a fortune of $240,000, Mrs. Love states, and she asks an injunctio restraining him from disposing of his property to her detriment.

Mr. Love said he had not decided whether to contest his wife's bill, but friends declare he will. The suit has been expected by those familiar with the couple since they separated last August in New York. At that time it was declared that Mr. Love himself would seek a divorce, and the name of Hugo R. Johnstone was mentioned in connection with their domestic infelicities; also a large package of letters that Mrs. Love was said to have writen to Mr. Johnstone, who is her husband's cousin.

Mrs. Love Charges Cruelty.

In her bill Mrs. Love states that she was married to Mr. Love on Oct. 29, 1900, and lived with him until Aug. 1, 1903, when he deserted her. There were no children.

"He was a man of violent passions, who treated me with personal violence," she states, repeatedly threatening my life. He continually treated me in a cruel and harsh manner, inflicting upon me much mental and physical pain.

"One evening in the summer of 1901 my husband so conducted himself toward me as to put me in great fear of bodily harm. I locked the door of my room in self-protection. The defendant broke into the room and violently seized me and knocked me about the furniture, bruising and otherwise injuring me and tearing my clothing. Then he ejected me from the room and I had to fly with my maid to Mr. Love's mother, who gave me a refuge for the night.

"My husband," the bill continues, "tried to induce grocers and butchers and other tradesmen to whom I was indebted for the necessaries of life to harass me and to levy on my household goods. In December, 1903, he induced these tradesmen to whom I owed small bills to levy on my furniture and put custodians in the house when I was ill in bed.

Owes Her Friends $1,500.

"I have no property or income and am dependent on the charity of friends, to whom I am indebted for sums that I have borrowed to the extent of $1,500. I have had to sell my diamond ring for $200 and part of my wardrobe."

In conclusion Mrs. Love asserts that her husband has threatened to sell all of his property in the effort to keep her from securing a cent from him, and asks the court to enjoin such a sale. She is living at 381 Superior street with her father, D. M. Cool, and her brother, H. A. Cool.

"I was forced to take this step because my husband has refused to support me," Mrs. Love said. "For two years Mr. Love has been making every effort to rid himself of me."

Mr. Love Is Noncommittal.

So far as the charge of nonsupport was concerned, Mr. Love admitted it was true.

"I don't know how she has supported herself," he said. "I have given her no money since I left her in New York last August. I have not seen her. I am not interested in her.

"Until I have seen the charges she makes and have consulted an attorney I don't care to say whether I shall contest the bill. The charges of cruelty are absurd."

ACTION TO OUST FISH COMBINE.

Ohio Suit Under Anti-Trust Law Brought Against A. Booth & Co., of Chicago.

CHARTER VIOLATION SEEN

Attorney General Alleges Business Is Not Conducted According to Statutes.

Columbus, O., June 30.—Suit was brought today in the Circuit court of Franklin county by Attorney General Ellis to oust the so-called fish trust of the great lakes, which is commercially known as A. Booth & Co. of Chicago, from its charter in Ohio. The suit is brought under the Valentine anti-trust law.

The attorney general charges that the company has purchased the business of its competitors and controls 90 per cent of the fresh water fish business carried on from the Mississippi to Buffalo. It has been in operation about four years, during which time it has reached out into all the states bordering on the great lakes and into the dominion of Canada and taken in the business of about sixty dealers in fresh water fish. William Vernon Booth is represented as having effected the combination.

The petition further states that the corporation seeks to engage in about forty different kinds of business under its charter, from making glue to becoming surety on bonds for individuals. This, the attorney general claims, cannot be permitted by the laws of Ohio.

The company is capitalized at $5,500,000, and was authorized to do business in Ohio May 8, 1899.

SANTOS-DUMONT IS ANGRY AT ACCUSATIONS HE HEARS.

Declares He Is Not Seeking Concessions, Need Not Race Unless He Wants To, and Will Give Prize to Charity.

St. Louis, Mo., June 30.—[Special.]—Santos-Dumont said today in regard to the charge that he had cut and slashed his own airship balloon:

"I have been honored by the commanders of armies and decorated by half the monarchs of Europe, but it remained for the renowned leader of the Jefferson guards to discover my unworthiness.

"I am not in trade. Therefore the story that I wanted a concession to exhibit my balloon is ridiculous. I would not for a moment consider entering into competition with the brilliant business men who are entertaining the public on the "Pike." At such a time one realizes that there are problems which only the code duello can solve. However, one does not quarrel with Jefferson guards. They are not military—they merely are orderlies to the great American public.

"It seems that I am a person of amazing eccentricities. I build an airship and transport it to St. Louis at great cost for the pleasure of destroying it and carrying the ruins back to France. I am under no compulsion to race here or anywhere else. If I did not care to race I would not have come here.

"If I win the St. Louis prize I will donate it to charity."

HEARST IS FOR CHOICE OF PARTY

Says He Will Support the Nominee, Even if He Proves to Be Cleveland.

CALLS ON OHIO BOSS.

Has Conference with John R. McLean, but Will Not Discuss It.

Washington, D. C., June 30.—[Special.]—William Randolph Hearst arrived here this afternoon and had a conference with John R. McLean, who controls the Ohio delegation to the St. Louis convention. Much significance is attached to the conference, but neither participant will say what subject was under consideration. It is believed Mr. Hearst's mission was to induce Mr. McLean to throw the Ohio strength to the editor.

Mr. McLean is know to be strongly favorable to the nomination of Grover Cleveland, and will not do anything to bring about the nomination of Hearst. The editor left for New York tonight and will start for St. Louis at once. Mr. Hearst declared he would support the democratic nominee even if Grover Cleveland should be selected.

Places Party First of All.

He said: "The democratic party is confronted with a great emergency. The democrats will, I believe, rise to the full measure of their responsibility. Their duty, in my judgment, unquestionably is clear. The republican ticket and the republican platform have presented the democracy with an opportunity which it is our imperative duty to grasp.

"I believe the party will see to it that nothing is left undone to take advantage of the situation. Democrats must get together, adopt a platform that will convince every one that the party has a great mission to perform, and then enter the campaign aggressively and confidently and make a spirited fight from now until election.

Personal Fights Must Cease.

"The great duty of the hour is party peace, but peace based upon principle and honorable to the last degree. I believe every one who aspires to leadership in the party should be controlled now by reason and not by resentment. We have our differences, to be sure; but these differences can be adjusted. We must subordinate all personal ambitions to the supreme purpose of winning a truly democratic victory—a victory that will surely redound to the benefit of the people.

"Every man who enters the St. Louis convention and every one of his friends should abide cheerfully by the decision of the convention and support loyally the nominees of the party. So far as I am concerned, my position in this matter already has been stated."

When asked who would be the democratic nominee for president Mr. Hearst said:

"That is a question which for reasons of propriety I prefer not to answer."

Will Support Party's Choice.

"If Mr. Cleveland should be nominated would you support him?"

"Well," he said. "I supported Mr. Cleveland three times for the presidency, and—" he added, after a pause, "I am inclined to think that that is enough. I shall, however, abide by the decision of the convention, whoever the nominee may be. At the same time I repeat that I have supported Mr. Cleveland three times for the presidency, and—I think—that—that is enough—to show what will be my course in the future.

"But why discuss Cleveland as a serious possibility? He merely is brought forward by shrewd politicians in the hope of forcing the radicals into a compromise on some reorganizer less objectionable."

Detroit, Mich., June 30.—But two contests worthy of the name marked today's republican state convention. One of these was the fight by Congressman William Alden Smith and State Senator Charles Simons for a broader declaration in the platform in favor of primary reform, and the other was on the nomination for auditor general.

The amendment to the resolutions pledging the party to the nomination of governor by a direct vote was defeated by a vote of 774 to 304.

The platform, which is short, indorses the platform adopted by the national convention at Chicago; indorses Roosevelt and Fairbanks, and expresses confidence in a memorable victory for the state ticket and "our fearless leader and typical republican, Theodore Roosevelt."

BOLT LOOKS MORE PROBABLE.

Decision on Credentials in Minnesota Convention Will Determine Action to Be Taken.

St. Paul, Minn., June 30.—[Special.]—The republican state convention today adjourned until tomorrow, leaving the fiercest gubernatorial fight in the history of the party in this state undetermined. Former State Auditor Robert C. Dunn has more instructed delegates that his chief rival, Judge Loren W. Collins, but contests in Ramsey county (St. Paul) and Hennepin county (Minneapolis) make the result uncertain.

United States Senator Clapp, chairman of the convention, appointed a credentials committee of fifteen members, seven Collins men, seven Dunn adherents, and one member representing Former Congressman Frank M. Eddy, the third candidate. The convention meets tomorrow morning to receive the report of this committee.

Senator Clapp, it is understood, will rule that a sitting delegation cannot vote on its own contest. This means if the Dunn forces are held in line to vote for unseating either the Hennepin or Ramsey delegations they can control the situation, and with either delegation debarred from voting Dunn will be ahead.

The prospect of a split in the party is so strong that leading democrats already are discussing the most available man to nominate for governor. The democrats believe they can win easily, though the normal republican plurality in the state is 80,000 to 70,000.

ILLINOIS CONTEST IS ON.

M. D. WELLS MAKES DEMAND FOR SEAT AT ST. LOUIS.

Harrison and Dunlap Agree to Make Issue of Delegate Rights State Wide—Hopkins Loses No Time in Getting Busy with National Committeemen—Roger C. Sullivan Makes Pointed Observations of Sincerity of Hearst Boomers in National Convention.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

St. Louis, Mo., June 30.—[Special.]—The first gun of the Illinois contest was fired today. M. D. Wells, who claims to be the rightful delegate from the Twenty-third district, filed with Secretary Walsh of the national democratic committee notice that he would contest the seat of the delegate elected for that district by the Springfield state convention.

By, perhaps, a pure coincidence, it happens that Mr. Wells comes from W. J. Bryan's native town of Salem. It is possible Mr. Wells' action may be a premature explosion. He bases his ground of contest on the alleged fact that the delegates chosen by the Twenty-third district caucus at Springfield were not those declared elected by the convention. This makes it a district contest, while the latest program of M. F. Dunlap and Mayor Harrison is to make a state contest by presenting a list of delegates covering all Illinois.

John P. Hopkins had not been in town five minutes before he fell in with Norman E. Mack, national committeeman from New York. One advantage Mr. Hopkins has is that, not only will he act on the national committee himself, but is on intimate terms with a large majority of the committeemen.

Sullivan Wants Gahan's Place.

Coincident with the arrival of Roger Sullivan was the announcement that he was a candidate to succeed Thomas Gahan on the national committee from Illinois. It is stated he is assured of the support of a majority of the delegates elected at Springfield. The only thing now in sight to cause trouble would be the unseating of a considerable number of these and putting Harrison men in their places. This, he says, does not bother him.

Speaking of the Illinois contest tonight, Mr. Sullivan said:

"Dunlap is not acting for Hearst at all in this matter. He is willing to sacrifice Hearst if necessary. That is shown by his supporting Harrison, after Harrison has said that if seated he would not regard himself as instructed for Hearst, but would vote for Williams.

Where Harrison's "Principle" Figures.

"I see Harrison says he is making a contest simply as a matter of principle and conscience. Why didn't he show this principle and conscience when in the county convention he threw out the committeemen elected by a majority of the delegates from half a dozen wards and put minority candidates in their places. He did then worse than he accuses us of doing at Springfield. We didn't holler, but took our medicine, and we aren't a hollering now. I am simply recalling the fact and suggesting if Mayor Harrison wanted to be consistent he ought to have displayed some of his principle and conscience in the county convention he is talking so much about now."

Williams Gibes at Hearst.

Congressman J. R. Williams of Carmi, Mayor Harrison's candidate for the presidency, came in this evening. He made the argument that the Hearst people might as well help the Harrison contestants as the Hopkins delegates, as the latter were not sincere in supporting Hearst.

"What difference does it make," said the congressman, "whether Harrison or Hearst delegates are elected? The result will be the same. The so-called Hearst delegates are not sincere in supporting him. That will be shown after a few ballots. The alleged loyalty of the alleged Hearst delegates is a travesty, and the lack of sincerity is almost transparent. The state convention never was for Hearst. His strength in the state is mostly exaggerated."

BRYAN MEN CHARGE A PLOT.

Opposing Democratic Faction Retorts That Nebraskan Is Preparing to Bolt St. Louis Convention.

Charges of a conspiracy to run the national convention regardless of the rights of others are made by the Bryan democrats against the "reorganizers."

Leaders of the Hopkins-Quinn combination in Illinois make the counter charge that the great display of preparations for contests against certain delegates means that the Bryan people are preparing to bolt and place a ticket of their own in the field.

M. F. Dunlap is recognized as the Bryan lieutenant in this state, and when he made the charge of conspiracy the opposition at once sent word to New York that Bryan was paving the way for a bolt.

About the same time a statement was given out at headquarters to the effect that Grover Cleveland would be nominated. "The thing is all fixed," declared one of the state leaders, "and when the roll call starts Alabama will set the pace."

This sort of talk did not agree, however, with the utterances of W. T. Manning, a New York democrat, said to be representing Judge Alton B. Parker. "The task is finished now and Judge Parker's nomination is assured," said Mr. Manning. "We know of 480 votes he will receive on the first roll call."

Mr. Manning also said the Hopkins delegates from Illinois would be seated.

The first of the Chicago leaders to start for St. Louis were Hopkins and Roger C. Sullivan, who departed yesterday. Another detachment of the state machine will go today. Mayor Harrison and his staff expect to get away on Sunday.

BOSS BUTLER REINDICTED ON CHARGES OF BRIBERY.

St. Louis Politician Said to Have Been Involved by Confessions of Boodlers Whose Bondsman He Was.

St. Louis, Mo., June 30.—[Special.]—Edward Butler, the democratic ward boss, was placed under $10,000 bonds today to answer to the charge of bribing a witness in connection with the recent bribery and boodler trials.

It is said that Butler has been implicated by the confessions of former Ald. Gutke and Charles J. Kelley.

An indictment against Butler was returned late in the afternoon and bench warrants for his arrest were issued.

Butler was bondsmen for the men who it is believed have betrayed him by connecting him with the payment to Kelley of $50,000 to induce him to go to Europe when his testimony was needed to convict men higher up.

Butler after his arrest withdrew from the bonds of all the accused aldermen he was surety for.

Not long ago Butler was convicted of offering bribes to city officials, and the Missouri Supreme court reversed the finding and ordered his acquittal.

PERRY S. HEATH LOSES JOB.

Removed from Management of Senator Kearns' Newspapers in Salt Lake—Joseph Lippman Succeeds Him.

Salt Lake City, Utah, June 30.—[Special.]—Perry S. Heath, who for two years has been conspicuous in Utah as a political manager for Senator Thomas Kearns, and as manager of Kearns' newspapers, the Tribune and the Telegram, has been removed. He will be succeeded tomorrow by Joseph Lippman, United States district attorney and manager of Kearns' senatorial campaign.

Heath became manager of the Tribune in 1902, and started the Telegram in 1903. The Tribune, formerly the leading paper of the state, lost prestige under his management and his removal has been expected for some time.

His interest in the papers has been taken over, and he has gone to Nova Scotia.

Heath takes the view that he has been made a scapegoat, as under his management the Tribune fought the Mormons for political reasons and antagonized a large portion of them.

PARKER IN LEAD ON EVE OF FIGHT.

Careful Analysis of Democratic Situation Gives Him 270 Instructed Votes on First Ballot.

the Parker men consider that his position is impregnable. From what I can learn on the ground, his nomination is certain unless there is an erratic stampede to Cleveland or McClellan, and there has been too much talk of this in advance to make it altogether likely. Nine out of ten of all the democratic leaders are openly for Parker, and he will get fully half of the favorite son votes.

Hearst has made no progress whatever since the Illinois convention. It is a well known fact that several scores of delegates will come here and vote for him for the presidency under instructions, but will not follow his leadership in any other direction, and will not vote for him long. The list of states and territories actually instructed for Hearst, according to the records, and paying no attention whatever to the extravagant statements of the editor's followers, is as follows:

Arizona	6	New Mexico	6
California	20	Rhode Island	8
Hawaii	6	South Dakota	8
Idaho	6	Wyoming	6
Illinois	54
Iowa	26	Total	146

There are some scattering delegates here and there who are classed as Hearst men. Some of them will almost certainly desert him before the convention meets. In order to be liberal, however, I have classed them all as actual preferences for Hearst.

In Montana, for instance, the delegates have never actually committed themselves for Hearst, and are probably more for Bryan than for any one else. Three delegates were elected by primaries in Maine and the same number in Florida, who are credited to Hearst, but may never vote for him. The Oregon and Washington men show signs of breaking away, although a majority of each delegation is nominally for Hearst.

Possible Hearst Preferences.

The table of Hearst preferences, therefore, which may or may not eventuate on the first ballot can be made up as follows:

Hearst preferences:

Colorado	2	Oregon	8
Florida	3	Utah	2
Kansas	14	Washington	16
Maine	3
Montana	6	Total	54
Nevada	6

Doubtful Column of 183.

This tabulation, which has been made entirely without bias on my part, leaves a bunch of 183 delegates for the doubtful column as follows:

Doubtful:

Colorado	8	Oklahoma	8
District of Columbia	6	Pennsylvania	68
Maine	9	Utah	4
Maryland	16	West Virginia	14
Minnesota	22	Indian territory	6
Nebraska	16
North Dakota	8	Total	183

Uncommitted Vote Considerable.

Gorman holds in the hollow of his hand the votes from the District of Columbia, West Virginia, and Maryland. Col. Guffey controls the Pennsylvania vote up to date. Oklahoma is nominally for Hearst, but it has not actually committed itself. The anti-Hearst people carried a majority of the Minnesota delegates. There are two full contesting delegations from Indian territory. In Maine, as a result of the primary system, there were nine delegates who were known to be anti-Hearst, but did not actually get together to declare their preference for Parker or any other conservative candidate.

I have gone over the entire list of states and territories with the utmost care, have consulted with leaders from different sections, and have thus been enabled to prepare for This Tribune the following table, which is, I believe, an accurate poll of the delegates as they will arrive on the ground here in St. Louis, and before they become amenable to the usual "arguments."

M'LEAN OUT FOR CLEVELAND.

Ohio Leader Says He Is Only Man Who Has Ghost of a Show to Beat Roosevelt.

Washington, D. C., June 30.—[Special.]—John R. McLean of Ohio tonight made a flat-footed declaration in favor of the nomination of Grover Cleveland.

He said: "Mr. Cleveland is the best vote getter in the democratic party, is the most popular democrat in the United States, and the only man who has a ghost of a show to beat Roosevelt.

"As Cleveland cannot turn a colder shoulder to me than Roosevelt, and as I am anxious to see the party win regardless of personalities, I think Cleveland should be nominated.

"I believe the convention at St. Louis will reach the same conclusion. Leaders at a conference here a few days ago agreed with me that Cleveland is the strongest man in the party."

DR. S. C. SWALLOW "DRYS'" CHOICE.

Gen. Nelson A. Miles Refuses to Run, and Prohibitionists Then Select a Ticket.

OIL KING IN SECOND PLACE

National Convention at Indianapolis Adjourns After Much Oratory and Singing.

For president..............SILAS C. SWALLOW
For vice president.......GEORGE W. CARROLL

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Indianapolis, Ind., June 30.—[Special.]—A national ticket was nominated by the prohibition national convention this afternoon. The name of the Rev. S. C. Swallow, editor of the Pennsylvania Methodist, was the only one presented to the convention for the first place on the ticket and the nomination was made by acclamation.

For vice president, G. W. Carroll, the millionaire oil king, received 626 votes, and F. H. Ames of Oregon, 132.

After the convention adjourned it was learned that Dr. Swallow had telegraphed Chairman Stewart that if his nomination required his absence from home he would have to decline owing to the illness of his wife.

A telegram was received at noon from Gen. Nelson A. Miles forbidding the use of his name in the convention. That cleared the atmosphere. Up to that hour the forces of the Miles boomers, led by John G. Woolley, were prepared for a bitter fight against the organization headed by Oliver W. Stewart, the unrealized boss of the prohibitionists. Yesterday the "drys" had a boss, but did not know it. Today they know it and like the feeling.

Stewart Shows Political Talent.

Stewart declares he would have defeated the Miles movement even if the telegram of withdrawal had not so opportunely arrived on the scene. Certainly he played a pretty game of politics, as the game is played among prohibitionists. First he set his lieutenants to framing a platform on which Gen. Miles would hesitate to place both feet at the same time. Then he collected a mass of evidence intended to prove to the delegates that Gen. Miles had never intimated he would accept. Finally he threatened to be a candidate himself if it came to a last resort for defeating the soldier. The Miles people admit that none but Stewart could have beaten Gen. Miles. All morning while his henchmen were carrying out these tactics this novel boss was talking campaign contributions out of the delegates.

He had hypnotized them out of $9,000 when Samuel Dickie of Albion, Mich., whispered the report that the platform was safely anti-Miles and the general could not be expected to accept.

Miles Declines Nomination.

The eloquent boss of the "drys" had a little later exhorted out $16,000, when a telegram was handed Mr. Woolley. It read:

New York, June 30, 11:20 a. m.—Appreciating the good will of yourself and friends, I must earnestly request that my name be not used in the convention, and that my letter of June 20 be considered final. NELSON A. MILES.

Mr. Woolley then passed the message about and finally sent it to Mr. Stewart. The boss stopped talking and the convention took a recess with what small change it had left.

With Miles out of it, Stewart declared he would under no circumstances be a candidate. This was where Pennsylvania got busy. One venerable delegate, W. W. Hogue of Tidioute, declared he was determined to nominate Swallow. Stewart reflected a moment and finally told the old man his inspiration was a good one, and the word went far and wide through the delegations that Swallow of Harrisburg was to be the candidate.

Much Singing and Oratory.

But the ticket was not nominated without a prodigious amount of hymn singing and a great oratorical struggle. Not that there was any heated debate over the rival aspirants to the honors. The struggle resulted from the desire of each of the 756 delegates to tell the convention at length his admiration for the character and ability of Dr. Swallow. It took an hour and forty minutes to get the candidate nominated unanimously.

Joseph Tracy of Chicago reported the platform, which was adopted without opposition. The minority report of the Miles people was in readiness, but after the general's telegram they came to a ready agreement with the majority. Amid "amens" and "hallelujahs" the planks were read and when the adoption was made by acclamation the whole convention rose and sang "America," followed by the Doxology. Between verses of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" converts to prohibition were invited to come forward. Several did.

Provisions of the Patform.

The platform adopted contains seven provisions, in effect as follows:

1. A general declaration against legalizing the sale of liquor.
2. Censure of republican and democratic parties for not taking sides against the liquor sale.
3. Points out that all compromises in dealing with the question are futile.
4. The prohibition principle can be adopted only by a party in control of all branches of the government.
5. Pledge of the party to enact and enforce such legislation if placed in power.
6. All other issues are unimportant to the country compared with that of prohibition.
7. Declaration that the party on other questions favors impartial enforcement of law; justice to capital and labor; adoption of the initiative and referendum; enforcing constitutional rights; international arbitration; reform of divorce laws; suffrage rights dependent on mental and moral qualifications; control of tariff schedules by nonpartisan commission; the same laws for the nation and its dependencies; civil service principles and election of United States senators by popular vote.

Nominations Called For.

At 2:40 o'clock nominations for presidential candidates were called for. California yielded the privilege to Pennsylvania and A. A. Stevens led to the platform Mr. Hague, who, in simple language, placed in nomination the name of his friend, Dr. Swallow. He read a letter from the Harrisburg editor explaining his first absence from the national convention because of the illness of his wife.

Every state had its encomiums for the devoted leader of prohibitionists. The Rev. W. B. Palmore of St. Louis came to work for the old soldier he fought from the confederate ranks, but he spoke his approval of Swallow.

Wisconsin seconded the Swallow nomination with a "U rah rah! Wisconsin!" yell and Homer L. Castle, after paying some compliments, moved the nomination by acclamation.

A great shout swept over the convention. Men and women leaped to their chairs and waved flags and fluttered handkerchiefs. Then they sang "America" and more hymns and prayed for the success of the cause.

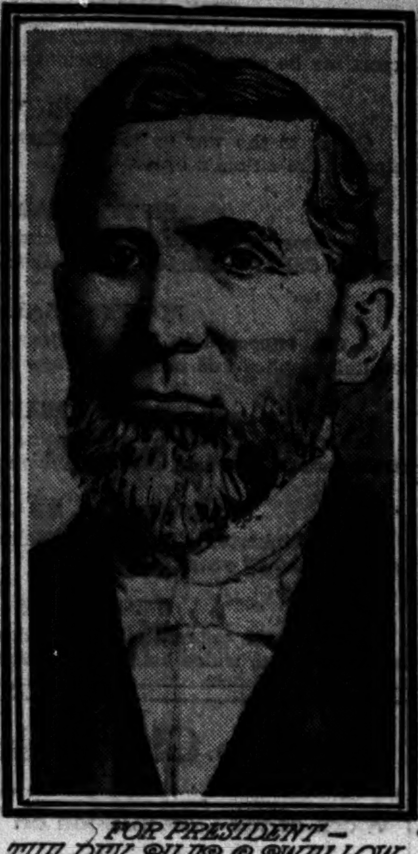

Oil King for Vice President.

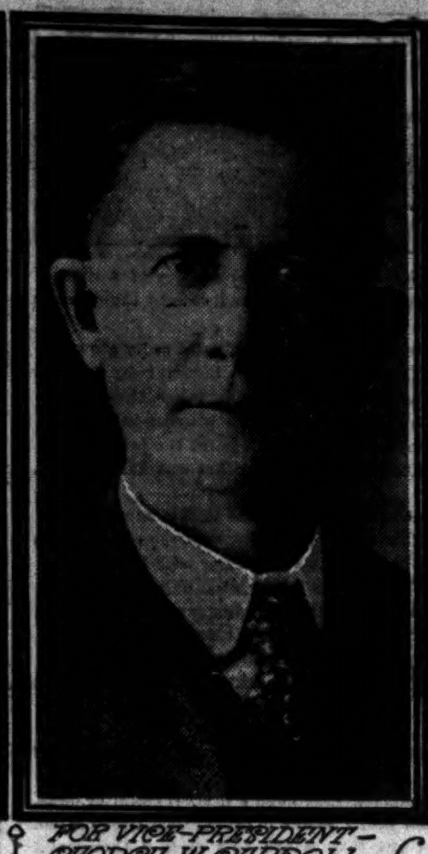

J. B. Cranfil of Texas nominated George W. Carroll, the oil millionaire of Beaumont, for vice president. Carroll would have been at the convention, but is an alderman now, and in the absence of the Beaumont mayor is acting administrator of that city.

R. W. Kelsey of Oregon nominated I. H. Amos of that state, and then the oratory burst forth again. Chapin, of the broad smile, nominated Col. Benjamin F. Parker of Milwaukee, and A. N. Coats of Ames, Ia., was put up by his delegation. Shortly after the latter withdrew, and the beginning of the roll call left only Carroll and Amos in the race.

The states were called amid fervent amens on every side, and then, interspersed with many hymns and prayers, the convention cleaned up scattering business and adjourned.

Nominees of Prohibition Convention.

FOR PRESIDENT—THE REV SILAS C SWALLOW OF HARRISBURG PA | FOR VICE-PRESIDENT—GEORGE W CARROLL OF BEAUMONT, TEXAS

The Rev. Silas C. Swallow, nominated for president by the national prohibition convention in Indianapolis yesterday, is editor of the Pennsylvania Methodist and has three times run for state offices in Pennsylvania, for state treasurer in 1897 and for governor in 1898 and 1902. He received 118,000 votes for treasurer in 1897 and 132,000 votes for governor in 1898.

George W. Carroll of Beaumont, Tex., the nominee for vice president, is the owner of large oil properties in Texas and is reputed to be a millionaire.

the public. They may have to walk a few blocks. Sacrifices will have to be made."

Universal Transfers Required.

Universal transfers on the elevated roads are required in the Union loop ordinance, which was agreed on before the Union Traction matter was taken up. The new measure remedies defects as exist in the validity of the present measure. The transfers are to be used within five minutes after the time of issue, and the transfer is to take place at the first station after the transferring road enters the loop. Ald. Hunter and Butterworth did not vote on this clause, and Ald. Werno and Palmer voted against the completed measure.

Earnest protest was made by many business men against the passage of the measure without provision against the "noise nuisance" and other modifications. The objectors also argued strongly against the extension of the station platforms, but without effect.

Attorney Clarence M. Goodwin, representing the Loop Protective association, argued in favor of a clause demanding the deadening of the sound of the trains. George E. Hooker suggested that the through route method be tried, at least for six months. It was also pointed out that the ordinance, which is to run to 1944, does not permit municipal control.

Tolman Draws "Concession" Clause.

As a concession Mr. Tolman drafted an amendment which will be incorporated into the ordinance as it goes to the council tonight. The amendment reads:

The city reserves the right to exercise its police power to require the companies to take all reasonable measures for the lessening of the noise caused by the operation of trains, and for this purpose to require the rolling stock and appliances to be kept in the best order and condition, and also to require changes in the superstructure whenever means have been discovered and practically demonstrated to be effective and applicable to the present structure.

Compensation to the City.

Compensation for the city is to be computed in this way. After deducting $250,000 from the gross receipts of each year the city is to receive the following yearly percentages of the gross receipts.

1903 to 1907	10 per cent
1907 to 1917	15 per cent
1917 to 1932	20 per cent
1932 to 1944	25 per cent

The city agrees to dismiss its cross bill attacking the rights of the company under its ordinance.

Other provisions of the ordinance require that stations be constructed by the Northwestern elevated road at Oak and Willow streets.

Effect of Allen Law Repeal.

Repeal of the Allen law was declared in Judge Mack's court to have added another reason why the north and west side traction companies had no right to lease their lines to the Union Traction company. Before the repeal of the Allen law, Attorney Isaac Meyer said, the leases might have been legal. But after the repeal all possible power of the car corporations to lease all their property to the Union Traction company was lost.

Attorney Meyer finished the fourth day of his address to Judge Mack in behalf of J. J. Townsend's bill to annul the leases. He is to continue today.

WOULD HEAD OFF RECOUNTS.

Council Elections Committee Plans an Ordinance Making It More Difficult to Contest.

The council elections committee yesterday planned an ordinance making it more difficult for disappointed candidates to obtain a recount. Four contests for aldermanic places have been disposed of with no change.

"Under the present system," said Ald. R. R. McCormick, "if a defeated candidate alleges facts 'on information and belief' he is allowed a recount. He should be required to make affidavit of a miscount, or else should be ignored, and the election committee may recommend such a change to the council."

The four contests which arose from last spring's election were the Eaton-Maypole, Hammer-Hurt, O'Connell-Roberts, and Moertel-Hoffman cases.

Peter O'Malley Loses His Life While Loading a Car at Belt Line Elevator.

Peter O'Malley, 33 years old, 6813 Paulina street, yesterday afternoon was smothered to death in a car of wheat, which he was loading at the Belt line elevator at Eighty-seventh street. The grain poured in through a chute and buried the man. He was dead when taken out.

MAY SAVE PARK TRUSTEES

GOV. YATES VISITS CHICAGO AND MEMBERS HOLD PLACES.

Executive Meets Commissioner Lathrop of Lincoln Park Board and Discusses Improvements Begun—Burr A. Kennedy and Francis T. Simmons May Receive No Further Demands for Resignations—Official Confers with Deneen.

There is a chance that Gov. Yates will not insist on disorganizing the Lincoln park board. After a long conference yesterday with Commissioner Bryan Lathrop the governor intimated he would make no further demands for the resignations of Commissioners Burr A. Kennedy and Francis T. Simmons.

The governor and Commissioner Lathrop had luncheon in the former's apartments in the Auditorium Annex. The commissioner brought plans for improvements inaugurated by the board. He explained every item, stating the amount of work done and that which remains to be done, with the cost. The result was that the governor showed a disposition not to enforce his policy of using the ax.

Resignations Still Are Lacking.

All that Gov. Yates would say, however, was that he had not yet received the resignations of Commissioners Kennedy and Simmons.

"While at luncheon with Mr. Lathrop," he continued, "we talked of many things, but there is nothing new in the situation."

The commissioner's statement was:

"I have nothing to say about resignations or other park matters at this time."

Private Secretary Tinney said Gov. Yates came to Chicago to discuss campaign affairs with Charles S. Deneen and his running mates on the state ticket, and not to give his attention to Lincoln or west park business.

Decide on Campaign Program.

The day was devoted to talks with political leaders and appointees, both at the hotel and the state grain office. The governor and the nominee were together a long time considering plans of campaign appointments to fill the vacancies recently created and the selection of a headquarters staff for the campaign work.

Mr. Deneen said he expects to leave for a two weeks' rest within a few days, and the governor also has arranged to take a vacation. Consequently they took this opportunity to fix up the program, which Chairman West and Secretary Wheeler of the state committee will carry out.

It is understood the membership of the executive committee was agreed upon and the executive chairman selected, but the names will not be announced until the latter part of next week.

GETS A CHECK FOR $2,000,000.

Controller McGann Delivers Some of the New City Bonds and Makes a Collection.

Controller McGann yesterday delivered $3,000,000 in judgment refunding bonds to the First National bank. Then he walked over to the city hall with a check for $2,000,000 which he deposited with the city treasurer. The delivery was made in a patrol wagon. Mayor Harrison and City Clerk Bender have signed bonds so rapidly that they got ahead of the printers and had to wait for a fresh supply.

GANG IS CAPTURED AFTER BARRY DIES

Two Alleged Pals of the Safe Blower Taken, and One of Them Confesses.

TELLS OF MANY CRIMES.

Safe Robberies on West Side and Big Thefts Elsewhere Included in the List.

After the capture yesterday of Jacob L. Smith and David Aird Inspector Wheeler declared the police had broken up the safe robbing gang led by "Tommy" Barry, dead as the result of a revolver battle with a policeman. "Kid" Ely already has been arrested as Barry's pal.

Smith was arrested yesterday by Detectives Norton and Egan at Washington and Ann streets, after a chase in which pedestrians who attempted to stop the fugitive were threatened by him. He was overtaken by Egan and the revolver wrested from him. Smith asserted his intention of killing his pursuers and committing suicide before submitting to arrest.

Gets Explosives for Pals.

Aird is not accused of aiding the men in their operations, but is known to have procured the dynamite and nitroglycerin used by them in their work. Some of the explosive was obtained from Mayor Elrenshaw of Lemont by Aird under pretext that he was an inventor.

Detectives Egan and Norton have been detailed on the case since the attempted safe robberies in the offices of the Pride laundry, 47 South Sheldon street; Hayes Bros.' soda water plant, 12 North Peoria street; and the Acme Cracker company, 70 North Carpenter street. All the attempts were made within a week, and in each case the watchman was seized and bound while the robbers worked the safes. The police say Smith has confessed to complicity in the three attempts, and many others in the territory, and has implicated the rest in his statements.

Both Imprisoned as Burglars.

Smith, who also is known as "Ray, the gambler," and as J. J. Durham, recently was released from the Joliet penitentiary, where he served three years for an attempted safeblowing in the Masonic temple. He was captured by detectives of the Central station, after a revolver battle.

Aird for five years has acted as clerk in the lodging house of Ben Barnett, 333 South Clark street, and in that time, according to the confession of Smith, has acted as confidential man and "fence" for the thieves. He has served two terms in penitentiaries for safe robberies, and is 67 years old.

The first robbery, according to Smith's confession, was in the Cohn jewelry house, Des Moines, Ia., Dec. 29. With a confederate, William Howell, he said, he entered the place, and, after arranging a time fuse on the safe, returned to the street to await the explosion. Detectives arrested Howell as he left the store, but failed to investigate the affair. When Howell was being taken to the police station, Smith said, he reentered the building, exploded the safe, and secured $9,000, which he brought to Chicago. Howell escaped from jail three days later, but was rearrested and convicted for another crime.

Safes were robbed by the men in Monmouth and Peoria, Ill., and more than $10,000 taken. They then came to Chicago, and for several weeks have been operating on the west and north sides.

Skidmore Intended Victim.

"We were planning to rob the saloon of William Skidmore, California avenue and Madison street," the police say Smith confessed. "We would have pulled off the job tomorrow night, and had been there three times, but there always was too large a crowd. We saw $6,000 there one night, and would have killed two or three men to get it."

Burglar Barry Is Dead.

"Tommy" Barry died at the Englewood Union hospital in the morning, after repeatedly refusing, according to the police, to confess his crime and name his pals. The expert burglar's death was caused by a bullet wound received in a pistol battle with a Grand Crossing policeman. To the last he denied he had prepared for a raid on the People's Gaslight and Coke company's office in South Chicago.

TWO SALOONS ARE HELD UP: CROWD WATCHES ONE ROBBER.

Lone Highwayman Encounters Patrons of Amusement Park, but No One Tries to Stop Him.

Amusement seekers at a west side resort enjoyed a saloon holdup last night. The men robbed were the proprietor and customers of the saloon of H. M. Edenborough, 267 Colorado avenue. Edenborough and James Dunnes, the bartender, were serving six patrons in the barroom when the lone highwayman entered.

"No use to argue the matter," he commanded. "Shell out."

The order was obeyed with alacrity, the robber procuring over $80. As the man, who was young and well dressed, left he met scores of persons coming from the Chutes park. They seemed to think the incident a joke. No one attempted to arrest the robber.

Two masked and armed men held up the inmates of the saloon of Michael Dillon, Clinton and Harrison streets, in the evening and secured $45 after a revolver battle with the owner.

FRIDAY, JULY 1, 1904.

England Whips Her Sailors.

G. Bernard Shaw has stirred the anonymous British contributor to the Times. Mr. Shaw would abolish corporal punishment in the royal navy. In defense of the regulations, "In Partibus Maris" has taken him to task through the columns of the Thunderer. The contributor, in all his experience, has seen only the instilling of virtues by means of "six with the cane." "Birching" is reserved for "liars, thieves, and offenders against decency and common morality." Flogging is unknown in practice: "It is kept in reserve as the ultimate argument of the powers that be."

But from this information Mr. Shaw now has a new reason for abolishing the punishment. He would have no liars or thieves in the navy. He would weed out the marines who could be suspected of anything approaching the necessity for the "cat." He would not have the British navy "manned by a host of intimidated blackguards."

Mr. Shaw would have a navy without a liar, thief, or blackguard in it. The real navy is full of them. Mr. Shaw, from principle, would whip no man, because no man would deserve it. "In Partibus Maris" says he whips only such men as deserve it. It is the old clashing of theory with condition.

GROVER'S HEALTH IS GOOD.

Having become exasperated by the persistent efforts of the press to connect his name with the democratic presidential nomination, Grover Cleveland has moved from Princeton to the seclusion of the New Hampshire woods. In order that overzealous friends may not take advantage of him while he is hid in the forest, he is having a private telegraph line strung from his summer home to the nearest connecting point, some fifteen miles away. By means of this wire he can ward off any ill considered action which the St. Louis convention might take toward thrusting the nomination upon his unwilling shoulders. It is not pleasant for a man to be nominated for president while his back is turned. Mr. Cleveland is on the watchout for any such practical joke.

There is already a strong movement in favor of nominating Mr. Cleveland. He has taken the most effective method of suppressing it. He has published about ten magazine articles clearing up some disputed points on his last administration. He also has repeated time and again that his health was never better, and that people tell him he looks younger at 67 than he did twelve years ago.

After the convention is well under way Mr. Cleveland will want to deny that he is a candidate and will send the following message to his friends: "Health bully. Emphasize need of healthy man. Distribute my defense of the bond issue among delegates."

The next one will read: "Walked ten miles before breakfast. Am positively out of the race. Show delegates my article on Chicago strike of '94. Am realizing more than ever the need of health in a campaign. Personally never felt better."

By this time the convention may have become so interested in Mr. Cleveland's health that it will want to get a definite statement as to how he feels about the nomination. His answer will read: "Am feeling fine. Hired man has day off and I am plowing. See article entitled, 'Latest Utterances of Grover Cleveland,' in Harper's Weekly. A healthy man can stand most any kind of a shock. I am more healthy now than I was in 1884."

If this message is not enough to prevent his nomination another can follow: "My doctor tells me I am more healthy now than I was in 1884 or 1892. Give delegates 'Cleveland's Platform' in Outlook of February. Health up to any strain."

It would be difficult for the convention to withstand such vigorous and healthy opposition to a nomination.

GO TO THE ART INSTITUTE.

You may not know a thing about art, and, ignorant of it, you may have wondered all your life why so many people have been silly about plaster casts of broken statuary from ancient Greece.

There are tons of such plaster casts in the Art institute. Turn to the right at the main entrance, look at three or four dray loads of these plasters, then turn and go back to the entrance and into the gallery on the left. Here the figures are in genuine marble, and there isn't a crack in one of them. They are beautifully white and nice. But there will probably appear to you to be something the matter with these images; they will seem odd and chilly—stiff with the cold when compared with the plaster pieces in the right gallery.

You have had an art lesson.

Go up the wide staircase of the Art institute and move along slowly. In most of the galleries you will find oil paintings. Probably you may see a canvas that is quite pretty; it ought to "go well" with the furnishings of the front parlor at home. But you were walking when you saw that one. You have stopped still before another one on the wall. The frame isn't up to much. The painting looks as if it ought to be washed or freshened up a bit. But as you look you are undecided about that. The figures of the man and woman are wonderfully real; that cloud ought to have moved over that bit of rippling water; strange—those leaves seem to be fluttering as they hang. And you are standing there, still, and the idea of the front parlor wall hasn't occurred to you for an instant.

You know a great deal more about art than when you came in.

The Art institute is at the head of Adams street on the lake front. The admission fee is 25 cents on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday; admission is free on Wednesday, Saturday, and Sunday. You can't afford not to go to the Art institute. A million Chicago citizens have ignored at their front doors an art treasure house worth a desert pilgrimage to see.

MICHIGAN AVENUE SIDEWALKS.

The sidewalks belong to the community. The owners of abutting property may make a transient use of the sidewalks for the purpose of handling their goods. But this use must not supersede the prior rights of pedestrians to any such extent as to endanger their safety or abridge their comfort. The proprietor must enlarge his place of business, procure another location which will meet its demands, or otherwise provide for the transaction of his business in such a manner that the public will not be asked to submit to other than a reasonable and merely temporary obstruction of the public way.—Decision Illinois Supreme court.

It is plain that the city of Chicago should now proceed against the firms which have, in the language of the court, "seized" the sidewalks of Michigan avenue. Such action would result in the "abatement" of the skids and trucks which undoubtedly, from the point of view of the court, constitute a "nuisance."

Then Michigan avenue would begin to be in reality, as well as in potentiality, a general public thoroughfare from the north to the south side.

VLADIVOSTOK SQUADRON OUT AGAIN.

The Vladivostok squadron is out again. This time it is accompanied by a mosquito flotilla of ten torpedo boats. Yesterday six of these little ships went into Gensan on the west coast of Corea and sank a sailing ship and a steamer. Then, after firing a couple of hundred rounds at the town, they rejoined the three big armored cruisers which were waiting outside.

The Vladivostok admiral is proving himself to be a brave and wise commander. It is far better for his ships to come out and take chances than to remain inert in a harbor as the Port Arthur squadron has done. Twice already the Vladivostok ships have come out and inflicted severe damage on Japan without harm to themselves. These successes, the only notable ones achieved by Russia thus far during the war, have been of great moral as well as military value to the soldiers of the czar.

But if the Vladivostok cruisers keep coming out will they not eventually be caught? Certainly. And if they are caught by a superior force they will probably be sunk. But before they are sunk they will take heavy toll of their enemy.

Admiral Bezobrazoff commands the Vladivostok squadron. He probably knows that his day is coming, but he proposes meantime to fight his country's enemy. He is a brave man, and is entitled to the respect which the world always accords courage.

It does not seem probable that the Russians will come farther south on this raid. If they intended to appear suddenly in the midst of shipping in Corea straits, as they did before, they would not have been apt to show themselves at Gensan well to the northward. It is likely that the raiders will at once return to Vladivostok. But they have achieved something. They have sunk two Japanese merchant ships and have thrown Japanese shipping once again into a panic. They have probably caused the Japanese authorities to go to all sorts of trouble to guard transports crossing the Corea straits.

It is probable that Admiral Kamimura at his "unknown base" has again been warned of the presence of the Russians and has again set off in pursuit of them. If, as has been reported, Kamimura's "unknown base" is in reality the Tsu islands, in the middle of Corea straits, he cannot catch the raider, provided it has turned around and made for home. Gensan is 300 miles nearer Vladivostok than are the Tsu islands.

It must be a rather exciting moment for Kamimura. When the Russians returned safely to Vladivostok after their second raid Kamimura was reminded by his fellow patriots not to permit the fine old Japanese customs to fall into entire disuse in these modern days, such customs, for example, as hara-kiri. If the Vladivostok squadron again returns safely poor Kamimura will hear these suggestions with redoubled vigor.

NEIGHBORS PICKED, NOT IMPOSED.

The solitude of a great city has been the theme of many a jeremiad over the decay of neighborly intercourse. The inhabitant of an apartment building is so far apart from his fellow human beings that the name of his residence acquires a sinister significance. Often he is not acquainted with any of the men and women who share his apartment building with him. They, too, are apart. Almost always the constant flight from apartment to apartment means that with each remove solitude increases. There is no opportunity for that gradual acquisition of a local group of friends which to many people is justly and appropriately the greatest comfort of life.

But is there not, at least to people of a certain temperament, a compensation which is overwhelming? In the small town and, to a considerable extent, in the suburb long residence means that one begins to be congealed in a social group from which there is little chance of escape. Jones, living next door, expects you and your wife to call on him with respectful frequency. Smith, whose garden hose you have often borrowed, feels himself at liberty to drop in and make a friendly little call which consumes the evening. Gradually there spins itself around you a web of social duty in which you move, receiving attentions which you may or may not relish, and dispensing hospitality which you may or may not feel. Finally it is impossible for you to sit on your front porch without laying yourself open to incursions from neighboring porches all filled with people who are your acquaintances not because you have chosen them for that position but simply because they live in the same block.

Therefore let that man who has in him an instinct for solitude as well as for gregariousness flee from the small town and also from the suburb and establish himself in an apartment building in a neighborhood in which he has no neighbors. He will not acquire them unless he wants to. They can be relied on to leave him alone. Then, when he desires to see such persons as are really congenial to him, he can telephone or write to them and on a certain evening have them brought to his doors by the street cars, which make neighborship a matter of mutual regard rather than of propinquity. Similarly, when he wishes to spend an evening in the homes of others, he can journey expeditiously on the cars before mentioned to those homes and can reasonably excuse himself on the plea of distance from making visits to the other persons from whose conversation he derives no pleasure. This will be as great a relief to those persons as to himself. By diligent pursuance of the foregoing policy a man may finally arrive at the construction of a "neighborhood" which will be based upon the transcendent quality of congeniality to the exclusion of that lower quality which makes "neighbors" of all the cows grazing in the same pasture.

The city is the place for solitude. The city is the place for company. But these truths do not reach their full meaning except under some such system as has been outlined, and it is only when that system has been securely established that a man can really join, with the full conviction of happiness, in the Te Deum, "Heaven gave us our relations: thank heaven we can choose our friends."

WE strongly suspect that the so-called marsh mosquito, which is making life miserable in New Orleans and along the gulf coast, is only our far famed Calumet mosquito, gone south for the summer.

The paid attendance at the Columbian exposition during the month of June was 2,675,113. Compared with this the attendance at the St. Louis exposition last month can scarcely be called encouraging, but it will pick up. LETTER OF MARQUISE DE FONTENOY

Copyright: 1904: By the Marquise de Fontenoy.

WHILE court, society, and the general public in England side with Lord Dundonald in his controversy with the Canadian government, and are unanimous in their denunciations of his treatment by the dominion premier, yet Lord Minto had no alternative but to give his sanction as governor general to the removal of the earl from office. Lord Minto is by training and by taste a soldier, and he realized full well that his friend and old time comrade, Lord Dundonald, had been guilty not only of a breach of official decorum but likewise of military rules and regulations in delivering the after dinner speech assailing the acting minister of public defense, for which he was dismissed from his command of the militia.

If there is one quality more than another to be desired in a soldier it is that of silence, no matter under what provocation, and the practice of airing one's grievances and of taking the public into one's confidence about the matter is contrary to all the principles of discipline. The habit of "grousing" has become in recent years prevalent in the higher ranks of England's army, and likewise in that of France, among the most notable offenders in this respect having been Field Marshal Lord Wolseley, Gens. Sir Redvers Buller, Sir Henry Colville, Sir Charles Warren, and others, who, although the victims of injustice, did not benefit their case in any way by airing their wrongs.

Gen. Lord Methuen, on the other hand, offered a striking contrast to the commanders just mentioned during the south African war. He was subjected throughout that campaign to criticism, terribly severe, sometimes unjust, and more often still positively untruthful. Yet he never opened his lips in self-defense, nor permitted any of his staff to take up the cudgels for him, and now he is receiving his reward, and, in spite of the misfortunes by which he was pursued in south Africa, he is regarded by the military authorities in England and on the continent as the finest type of British soldier, and as one of the best of King Edward's generals.

It is curious to recall that Lord Dundonald's grandfather, while still Lord Cochrane, was also dismissed from the British navy for a breach of discipline, being subsequently restored by his old friend, King William IV.

The whole incident at Ottawa, which has done more to embitter the relations between Canada and the mother country than anything else in recent years, seems to have been due to Lord Dundonald's loss of temper and impulsiveness. If he had any fault to find with Mr. Fisher, the acting minister of public defense, for vetoing the appointment of a candidate for a commission whom he, the earl, had nominated, he could have spoken about the affair to Mr. Fisher himself, to Sir Frederick Borden, the minister of public defense, who had returned to Ottawa and resumed his duties at the head of his department several days before the delivery of the objectionable speech—indeed, the earl and Sir Frederick were actually working in the same building—or else Lord Dundonald might have appealed to the cabinet. But to attack Mr. Fisher and to deliver a slur at the dominion government in a public after dinner speech, and without having spoken a word to Sir Frederick Borden, to the premier, or to Lord Minto about the matter beforehand, was certainly a great mistake.

Meanwhile Sir Wilfrid Laurier is being reviled in England as a disloyal French-Canadian, and it is urged that the late Sir John Macdonald, who, unlike Sir Wilfrid, was a "Briton," would never have rendered himself guilty of the insult of describing Lord Dundonald as a "foreigner" and as a "stranger."

It is difficult to conceive a more flagrant disregard of his promises to the foreign powers and of the requirements of delicacy and good taste than that of which King Peter of Servia rendered himself guilty in celebrating the anniversary of his accession to the throne by dining with the officers of that particular regiment which had covered itself with infamy in connection with the murder of King Alexander and Queen Draga a year ago. It may be remembered that it was these officers who perpetrated the butchery which ended the dynasty of the Obrenoviiches. The banquet was to have been held on the anniversary of the night of the murder, and was to have been followed by a grand ball. But with a view of avoiding popular disturbances, the festivity was postponed for a few days.

The foreign powers after the accession of King Peter withdrew their envoys from Belgrade in consequence of the monarch's intimate association with the assassins of his predecessor, and only consented to resume diplomatic relations with Servia on the understanding that the king dismissed from his entourage the murderers of Alexander and Queen Draga, and publicly demonstrated that he was in no sense in sympathy with them. This banquet at which he presided the other night shows the manner in which he has tricked the foreign governments.

Meanwhile the palace where the tragedy took place and which rich and poor alike have ever since the murder regarded as haunted and as accursed, is being razed to the ground, and all the furniture and belongings of the late king contained therein, after having been valued by experts, have been burned, and it is said that the money at which the things have been estimated will eventually be paid to Alexander's mother, Queen Natalie, who has lately presented to the National museum at Belgrade all the arms which belonged to her son and husband., some of which are of great value.

As an illustration of the spirit which prevails in this Sixth regiment with the officers of which King Peter dined the other day, it may be mentioned that one of the subalterns having given rise to a suspicion among his comrades that he did not approve of the murder of Alexander and Draga was forced to run the gantlet between a double line of soldiers who had orders to spit upon him and to strike him as he passed, after which he was brought before a court-martial and sentenced to dismissal and military degradation for having "failed to preserve the honor and respect due to his uniform."

Few are aware that the grand prix of Paris is one of the oldest races in Europe, the first grand prix having been run in 1776 on the plain of Sablons. King Louis XVI., although not precisely a sporting man, was passionately fond of racing, and never missed a grand prix, invariably betting, though in small amounts. For he was as economical and even close fisted as Queen Marie Antoinette and his brothers were extravagant. There was a temporary suspension of the grand prix during the days of the terror. But within a short time this principal one of all the great races in France was resumed.

With the object of placing some restriction upon the circulation of slanderous gossip which has been for a considerable time past the bane of Berlin society, and which the emperor has done all in his power to check, a number of the great ladies there have decided to appeal to the courts and to bring suit for defamation of character whenever they could find any one of their sex and class circulating calumnies about them.

Countess Melita Donhoff, who at the time of her marriage with Count Frederick Donhoff was a divorcée, has set the ball rolling, and has brought Baroness von Pannwitz into court for having slandered her. All efforts to compromise the affair met with a refusal on the part of the countess, and the case was finally brought to a close by the baroness publicly withdrawing in court all the imputations which she had made, humbly apologizing to the countess for having maligned her, admitting that there was no foundation whatsoever for her statements, and taking upon herself the heavy legal costs in connection with the affair.

As nearly 100 members of the highest aristocracy and court society at Berlin had been summoned as witnesses, it is probable that from now on people, especially women of the great world, will be more careful in comment about their relatives, their friends, and their acquaintances. But it was high time that something of the kind should be done, and Countess Donhoff's action will go far towards rendering life at Berlin more free from calumny and intrigue, and therefore more pleasant than has been the case until now.

A LINE-O'-TYPE OR TWO.

The Painted Rose.

They stood before the picture of a rose—
The painter's eye had caught the crimson gleams,
The blush that on each petal redly glows,
The shadows where a hidden ruby dreams.
The artist labored many years, they said,
And often dropped his brushes in despair
Because he could not paint the jewel-red
That in the rose's heart was flashing fair.

But in the end he came to this success—
This single rose that almost seemed alive.
He said in tones that rang with happiness,
That now no longer need he toil and strive,
For here at last his masterpiece was raised,
The goal was his that long ago he chose—
From out the canvas joyously there blazed
His crowning work of art—this perfect rose.

They stood before the picture—and they sighed
Amazed that such a marvel could be done,
And many words of wonderment they cried,
Until they heard this from a thoughtful one:
"O, why be glad his years have gone to waste?
What idle things your hearts have made you say!
In all his life one rose he has but traced—
God made a million roses yesterday."

AMONG THE NEW BOOKS.

The author of "The Commuter's Wife" has put out another book containing the same characters, entitled "THE WOMAN ERRANT." The title is undeniably a good one, the subject essentially modern, the treatment whimsical and disjointed, and the working out of the theme is interesting if not conclusive.

The woman errant is the title devised for the "woman who goes forth," whose "chief end and aim seems to be the gaining of what she calls 'recognition' or 'identity.'" Club life is caustically satirized, and the aspiration of women not impelled by poverty to enter professions, or trades, or the arts is regarded as ridiculous. A curious creature compounded of vanity, intellectuality, independence, and lack of natural affections named Ivory Steele is the feminine monster devised to point the moral of the author's tale. To offset her is a lovable, home making girl who is obliged to work, and whose aim in working is always to serve her family. Two elderly women, one rich and in search of social or benevolent occupations, the other a club fiend and promulgator of what may be termed, for want of a better phrase, feminine segregation, are also excellent foils for each other. The tale is told by means of letters, sketches, conversation, and comments, and is a curious though perfectly lucid jumble.

I should not call it a wasted book. I think it may be needed. If women have been ridiculous or negligent of their duties, they will be the better for a rough literary hazing, and they've no call to whine at the hurt. But I'm a trifle suspicious all the time that the nonproductiveness, the meaningless leisure, the inane nothingness of luxurious domesticity is being advised. It's an old snare—an old plea—this of the impropriety of independent action on the part of women, and caricature, however diverting, cannot blind the thoughtful woman to the main issue. The book is worth reading. It will cause discussion. It does not even set up to be literature. It is an interesting, fictional presentation of an important modern question, treated with fascinating feminine adroitness. (The Macmillan company.)

There are some characters which, though they have been picked to pieces by many critics and had final sentence passed upon them scores of times, yet seem possessed of eternal vitality and rise to baffle and fascinate new critics and lovers. Mary Stuart has had defenders since her death as ardent as ever she had lovers. George Gordon, Lord Byron, has also exerted this peculiar influence over many people since his death as well as during his lifetime, for there are some who did and still would assert him guiltless of all his slanders, a misjudged and innocent man. "THE CASTAWAY," by Hallie Erminie Rives, is a novel on the life of this impassioned poet, beginning with his first visit to Greece—thus taking up the story in the heyday of his life—and ending with his death in the same country. Miss Rives has a style well adapted to the nature she has to depict. She shows events and developments by flashlight rather than by narrative. Her chapters are as brief and as disconnected as kaleidoscopic pictures, each one marking an epoch or a vital scene in Gordon's life. This style of writing gives the story a dramatic setting, but this does no harm when one considers that it depicts a life which, unadorned by fictional incidents, was one of the greatest dramas—or tragedies—ever lived.

One expects the author to defend Gordon, but is hardly prepared for the sweeping defense she gives. Surrounded by enemies, by calumnies, he moves in a lofty patience, only now and again giving way to a passionate anger. This view would be too exaggerated for any consideration were it not for these same bursts of passion, when the evilest in the man rises up, which tends to even matters. Miss Rives has quoted in the front of her book this extract from Byron:

"My history will furnish materials for a pretty little romance which shall be entitled and denominated the loves of Lord B."

Most of us, long ago, formed our own opinions on the subject of the loves of Lord B. Miss Rives has given hers, highly colored in the rose of her own imagination, but as a general thing most readers, being accustomed to the sunlight of encyclopedic information, take this rosy view to be the kindly veil of one deliberately blind. The story is written with much spirit, but Miss Rives has made the mistake of overdrawing her portraits and of putting in more fiction than truth, since the facts she deals with are well known ones. (The Bobbs-Merrill company, Indianapolis.)

"THE FAITH OF MEN" is Jack London's next book, which consists of eight short stories of Alaskan life. None of them are pleasant stories. The first two are in lighter vein than the rest, but even these two are not especially happy ones. However, life in Alaska is not a light hearted business by any means, nor a romantic one in the daintier fashion. In "The Son of the Wolf," which appeared some years ago, Mr. London did much to confirm this fact, and to show the life in the far north in its true light. His latest book is but a continuation of that earlier one, and no one can complain that the author takes a milk and water view of life. His stories are at once invigorating and painful; to read them is like taking a cold plunge—one comes out with a new interest in life, but glad it is over.

"The Call of the Wild" established Mr. London's fame as an interpreter of the dog's nature. This new book contains another dog story—not a pleasant one, but a terrible and careful study of the lowest of brute natures. Most of these stories have appeared before in various magazines. Plans to Check the "White Plague."

Work of the Commission on Tuberculosis Appointed Three Years Ago for a Protracted Series of Investigation; Great Importance of Pure Milk.

LONDON, June 22.—[Special Correspondence.]—Undoubtedly the scientific event of recent days which has to be chronicled is the presentation to parliament of the interim report of the commission on tuberculosis appointed in 1901 at the close of the great London congress held to discuss the prevention of that widespread ailment and modern "white plague." My readers know sufficient of the national importance of this subject to warrant them in taking a deep interest therein, not merely from the hygienic point of view but from that which presents the labor of the commission to us in the light of an elaborate piece of scientific research.

The circumstances which led up to the appointment of the commission may still be fresh in the minds of most of us. It was long held that many cases of tuberculosis in infants were to be attributed to their being fed on the milk of cows which suffered from the disease in question. Such milk, that is, where the udder of the cow is affected, contains millions of tubercular germs. Hence it was only natural that the belief should arise that to feed children on such milk was to lay them open to a serious liability to disease attack. The advice to boil or sterilize milk was therefore regarded as a piece of sound sanitary counsel, and was followed in many homes and also by municipal authorities here and there. These precautions were natural enough in character when we reflect that they were founded upon the view that tuberculosis of the cow could be transmitted to man through the medium of milk.

In 1901, however, Dr. Robert Koch, the discoverer of the germ of the disease, startled the assembled scientists at the London congress by the exposition of his opinion that such transmission of the disease was not a reality but merely an unsupported belief. I heard Dr. Koch deliver that address, and I can testify to the widespread consternation it created. Speedily came counterblasts. Dr. Koch laid stress on the fact that if infants could be infected from the digestive system, it was strange that in Berlin the number of deaths from this source was practically infinitesimal, having regard to the widespread distribution of tubercular milk. But it was shown that as regards London and Edinburg the death rate from tuberculosis beginning at the digestive system was great. This difference I attributed to the fact that the German mother boils the milk on which her children are fed, while the British mother, as a rule, does not so treat it.

The inquiries of the commission took three lines of investigation. They were directed first to ascertaining if tuberculosis in man and animals was one and the same disease. Obviously this point was of extreme importance. If the ailments were distinct the greater would be the chances that Dr. Koch's views might be correct, for it is not every ailment of the animal which can be transmitted to man. A second line was devoted to settling the question of what may be termed the reciprocal infection of man and beast. If man can be infected from the cow, in other words, can the cow in turn be infected by human tubercular germs? The third point was included in the inquiry regarding the conditions under which, if at all, the transmission of tuberculosis from animals to man takes place, and concerning the circumstances which favor or retard such conveyance of the bacilli.

These issues are clear and distinct, and on the lines indicated the commissioners have pursued their labors. With reference to infection of the animal by man, twenty diseases "strains," or, so to speak, units of the human disease, were represented. They were used to inoculate and otherwise infect cattle. In seven of the strains clear and definite effects were produced. The disease appeared in the animals in some cases in a remarkably severe form. In the case of the remaining strains the results were less definite; but when tubercular matter from these less affected animals was used to inoculate guinea pigs or other animals, from these latter sources cattle acquired the disease in typical development. The general result here is that the two diseases, human and bovine, are declared to be identical. They are interchangeable ailments, and the identity of nature bodes ill for Dr. Koch's views, and implies everything in favor of the opinions of those who have maintained that infection conveyed from lower life to humanity was a probability.

It may be contended that the case of the commission is not proved up to the hilt, because it yet remains to be shown that animal tubercle can produce the disease in man as it has been undoubtedly shown that man's ailment can give rise to bovine tuberculosis. Experiment in the former direction is, of course, impossible; but, unfortunately for us, we are experimented upon by nature in various ways, and of our tubercular attacks (which are invariably due to our being infected with the bacilli of the ailment) a certain proportion, it is reasonable to suppose, must arise from food. The special food which attracts attention here is, of course, milk. Again, it is a matter of strong presumption that if the human disease can assuredly pass to the cow, the bovine trouble may be legitimately presumed to be capable of conveyance to man.

The result so far of the report of the commission has been to strengthen the hands of those who have long argued for the sterilization of all milk supplies and for the elimination of cows affected with tuberculosis from dairy herds. Having regard to the terrible mortality which tuberculosis inflicts on the world at large, it is not well that we should leave to a doubt any steps directed towards its prevention. The later labors of the commission will be anticipated by the nation with the deepest interest.

[From the Baltimore Sun.]

Apropos of Col. Edwin Emerson Jr., war correspondent in Japan, whose erroneously reported death in Manchuria was one of the topics of conversation last week, he is a much younger man than his title of colonel would suggest. A Baltimore lady recalls being the guest of his father, Prof. Emerson, in Munich, Bavaria, when the still youthful scribe was an infant of six summers. Prof. Edwin Emerson and his Maryland guest were starting for an afternoon tea when Edwin Jr. was discovered sitting disconsolately on the floor.

"Why, what is the matter, my son?" quoth the professor. "I want something to read," lamented the infant.

"To read?" said his father. "Have not you your 'Mother Goose,' or 'Jack and the Beanstalk,' or 'Grimm's Fairy Tales'?"

"I want something classical," said the 6 year old in scornful tones, and his yearnings were satisfied. Propped on three cushions and a dictionary he was wheeled before the library table and a huge volume of German poetry opened to his inquiring mind.

"I met an old friend on Broadway yesterday," said "Jack" Flaherty, manager of the Majestic theater, "He did not look particularly prosperous, and I knew that his recent theatrical ventures had not been profitable. But he was smiling and chipper.

"'How are you getting along?' I inquired.

"'First rate,' he answered. 'I don't owe a dollar in the world.'

"'That's good,' I hazarded.

"'Yep,' he continued, 'I have just borrowed the money and paid all my debts.'".

Costliest Residence in New York.

[From the New York Press.]

Who owns the costliest residence in all New York? A New Yorker? Never! Just an immigrant from the west; a one time peddler of clocks, Senator William A. Clark, "Bill" Clark, the copper king; "Mat" Clark of the Nez Perces campaign of 1878, whose income is over $1,500,000 a month. The mansard roof of the Clark palace on the Highlands of Fifth avenue is being sheathed in copper from the owner's mines. The walls are constructed of marble from his own quarries. In the basement are Russian and Turkish baths, etc., and on the second floor are the art gallery and dining room. The gallery will contain many of the celebrated paintings of the world, and the house and its contents will represent an outlay of $8,000,000. So much for copper.

Away from Temptation.

[From the New York Sun.]

Several lawyers here about vouch for this story: A government official was appointed to a certain post on the ground of his undoubted integrity. His predecessors had all succumbed to the graft of the place.

The official did well. But at last, after a year's service, he handed his chief his resignation.

"Why," asked his chief, isn't your salary sufficient? Don't you like your job?"

"Everything is perfectly satisfactory," replied the official, "but, as you know, I am frequently approached with offers of bribes. The other day a man offered me $35,000, and that's too near my price, so I want to resign."

Duty Must Be Done.

New York has contributed nearly $100,000 for the relief of the Slocum sufferers, and is ready to go down into its pockets for as much more as may be necessary. The public is doing its duty, and sternly demands that hereafter officials and owners of excursion boats must do theirs.—New York Tribune.

IN THE SOCIETY WORLD.

MISS ROSE HOGAN AND MR. JAMES J. ELLIOTT WED.

Ceremony at St. Paul's Episcopal Church Is Followed by Dinner at the Chicago Beach Hotel — Bride and Groom Will Reside in Nashville, Tenn.—Other Marriages of Yesterday—Miss Lillian Pierce of Kewanee and Mr. Robert Rice Engaged.

St. Paul's Episcopal church, Kenwood, was the scene yesterday of one of the prettiest weddings of the week, when Miss Rose Elizabeth Hogan was married to Mr. James Johnson Elliott of Nashville, Tenn. It was a 6 o'clock ceremony, read by the Rev. Charles Bixby in the presence of less than a hundred guests. The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hogan of the Chicago Beach hotel, was attended by her sister, Miss Blanche Hogan, as maid of honor, while Miss Anna Lippincott of Cincinnati was the only bridesmaid. Mr. Edward Grahame Elliott of Princeton, N. J., acted as best man, and the ushers were Mr. Daniel Hogan Jr., Mr. W. B. Davis of Nashville, Tenn., and Mr. James Gilchrist.

The bride wore white chiffon crêpe over chiffon, made with a Louis XIV. bodice and full skirt, elaborately trimmed with thread lace. Instead of the customary veil, a large white lace hat with plumes was worn. The bridal bouquet was of white roses.

At Waukegan last night Miss Louise R. Menard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Menard, was married to Mr. Berzilius F. Bairstow. The ceremony was performed at the First Presbyterian church by the Rev. S. W. Chichester. Miss Annette Menard, the bride's sister, was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Louise Perine and Miss Lois Hardie. Mr. Charles Bairstow was best man, with Mr. William Fitzpatrick and Mr. Floyd Hartman for ushers. Florence Johnson was flower girl and Gladys Menard ring bearer. A reception followed the marriage service. Mr. and Mrs. Bairstow will be at home after Aug. 1 at 1418 Wesley avenue, Evanston.

Another wedding of yesterday took place at the residence of Judge and Mrs. C. C. Kohlsaat, 239 Ashland boulevard, when their cousin, Miss Florence Parmenter Smith, daughter of Mrs. Lafayette H. Smith, 5336 Cornell avenue, was married to the Rev. Franklin Waugh Swift, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church. It was an evening wedding, the Rev. Austin K. de Blois reading the service at 8:30 o'clock. Miss Edith Kohlsaat attended the bride, wearing white mull and lace, and carrying a shower of pink sweet peas. The bride's gown was white messaline satin combined with point lace. She wore a tulle veil, and carried a shower of white sweet peas. The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Jesse G. Swift of Boston. After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Swift will reside at 3803 Michigan avenue.

Miss Blanche Hazleton and Mr. Harold Jeffery, both of Kenosha, were married at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. John H. Chew, Astor and Scott streets, yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, the Rev. Thaddeus Snively officiating. It was a quiet wedding, neither bride nor groom being attended. After a wedding journey Mr. and Mrs. Jeffery will reside in Kenosha.

The wedding of Miss Bess Detrich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Detrich, to Mr. Harry Stone Budd, took place last night at the residence of the bride's parents, 5621 Indiana avenue. Only relatives were present, a small reception following. Miss Anna Berry and Mr. Warren Forbes were the only attendants. Mr. and Mrs. Budd will reside at Hazleton, Pa.

Miss Carlotta Belle Scobey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Madison Crandall Scobey, 371 Bowen avenue, was married to Mr. Harry B. Signor yesterday afternoon. The ceremony was performed at the residence at 4 o'clock by the Rev. Jenkin Lloyd Jones. The only attendants were Master Robert Parker as page and little Miss Virginia Scobey as flower maiden. An informal reception followed for 150 guests, after which the bride and groom left for an eastern trip. They will be at home after Sept. 1 at 4154 Berkeley avenue.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Lillian Pierce, only daughter of Mr. John H. Pierce of Kewanee, to Mr. Robert Rice, son of Mr. F. C. Rice of Galesburg.

The wedding of Miss Edna Alice Dunbar, daughter of Mrs. B. L. Dunbar, 51 South Hamilton avenue, to Mr. Harry Tibbits Jack took place last night at 8:30 o'clock at the family residence. Miss Jessie Nickerson was the maid of honor, and Mr. Bruno Gall best man. The Rev. W. C. De Witt of St. Andrew's Episcopal church read the service, after which a small reception was held. The young couple will spend their honeymoon in the dells of Wisconsin, and will be at home after Sept. 1 at 51 South Hamilton avenue.

Miss Louise Karcher, 1263 Washington boulevard has as her guests this week Miss Ona Gibson, Miss Noble, and Mr. Robert Gibson, who are on their way to the Philippines, where Maj. Gibson is stationed.

Mrs. Frederick H. Winston, 369 Superior street, is at Harbor Point, visiting Mrs. Dwight Lawrence.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Taylor, 379 East Superior street, leave today for Lake Geneva to spend several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Waller, 10 Astor street, are spending this week in Louisville, Ky.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Hobart Moore will be at the Lake Forest horse show today and tomorrow, having a number of entries in the show.

JEWS DEFINE THEIR VIEWS ON RUSSO-JAPANESE WAR.

Conference of American Rabbis Declares That Events Prove That Tyranny Is Its Own Destroyer.

Louisville, Ky., June 30.—[Special.]—The central conference of American rabbis today adopted resolutions touching the attitude of American reformed Jews toward the Russo-Japanese war, declaring that the war has proved that tyranny is its own destroyer. The resolution in part was as follows:

Far be it from us to forget the teaching of scripture, which warns us not to rejoice when our enemy falls. But we shall impress our audience with the great lesson that tyranny is its own destroyer. We shall further not fail to make them understand that through the proposed improvement in the condition of the Russian Jews by allowing unrestricted residence within the border district the misery of our Russian brethren will not be substantially alleviated. That is the minimum of what our coreligionists are entitled to demand.

Other resolutions expressed regret for the death of Pope Leo and sorrow over the Slocum disaster. Officers were elected as follows:

President—Joseph Krauskopf, Philadelphia.
Vice president—Joseph S. Tolse, Chicago.
Treasurer—Charles S. Levi, Peoria, Ill.
Secretary—Adolph Guttmacher, Baltimore.

After a strenuous debate on the question of establishing a synod the conference left the question open to be taken up at a future conference.

The Tribune's Vacation Guide

REST and recreation are the things sought by all vacation takers, and these may be found in plenty at scores of places within a short distance of Chicago. Illinois, Wisconsin, and Michigan have many summer resorts, and the north woods are left for those who prefer camping with hunting and fishing in the forests. THE TRIBUNE'S guide lists many places to suit all tastes. More data follow:

RIVERSIDE, MICH.—In the fruit belt, just north of St. Joe. It courageously advertises surf bathing as one of its attractions, and the long rollers on old Lake Michigan try their best to fulfill this portion of the summer program. Riverside is a modest resort, making no pretensions to international fame, but contenting itself with shipping back to Chicago each fall a sunburned crowd of men, women, and children who have spent a healthy, active summer. You can get good home cooking at the hotels there for around $8 a week, and any one who has had his summer outing spoiled by poor or insufficient food knows how valuable this is. The steamboats take you over to St. Joe or Benton Harbor for almost nothing, and it costs little more to go the remaining six miles to Riverside. A week end round trip by rail costs $2.25.

ROARING BROOK, MICH.—A part of the endless chain of cottages that stretches along the northern shore of Little Traverse bay from Petoskey to Harbor Point. Its name is justified by the fact that it really possesses a roaring brook, which tumbles suddenly out of the bluff and makes an unusually noisy exit into the lake. On its way the unruly little stream goes through a patch of real American woodland that would be hard to beat anywhere. The hotel and cottages are built on the heights above the bay, and they get anything that's going in the matter of cool lake breezes. You can live there as quietly as if you were buried in the northern wilderness, or you can have as gay a time as you would at a big eastern resort. Hotel accommodations are first class and you have to pay first class prices for them—from $14 to $21 a week. You can make the round trip from Chicago by boat or you can go by rail for $14.85, one way.

RED RAPIDS, MINN.—Where the Mississippi river comes from. Lake Itasca, from which the Father of Waters starts to flow to the gulf, is only twenty-three miles away, and there's an excellent wagon road to it. On the shores of Itasca a state government has created a park and built a commodious log cabin for the use of fishing and hunting vacation takers. The St. Lawrence muskellunge or sand trout is to be captured in these waters. There are scores of lakes and rivers nearby, noticeably Elk lake. Into Elk a mountain stream makes a sudden 150 foot drop, and thereby forms a beautiful waterfall. Red Rapids is more than 200 miles northwest of St. Paul and it will do no harm to inquire into special transportation rates.

ROLLINS STATION, ILL.—They number the lakes in the vicinity of Rollins, instead of naming them. The numbers run only as high as four, but that's a pretty high record for Illinois. Round lake is the leading aquatic attraction, and on its shores are five hotels which charge you from $7 to $10 a week for plain, everyday board and lodging. The life necessarily is simple and unfashionable around Rollins, as most of its visitors are vacation takers who have not a great deal of money to spend and who are unwilling to go far from Chicago. Taylor, Long, and Third and Fourth lakes are not more than a mile broad or long, and there isn't room enough for the waves to rise high. Consequently they are ideal places for growing and venturesome boys to learn how to swim, row, and sail. The fishing is not exciting. A round trip from Chicago may be negotiated for $2.

SALEM, WIS.—Has a comfortable, old fashioned sound, and the Old Settlers' club has chosen it as its summer headquarters. Paddock, Camp, and the same series of little lakes that have figured in so many southern Wisconsin resorts listed in this guide may be reached from Salem. As a place for growing children this section is without a flaw. For older folks there is a simple sort of social activity and a good supply of steady country horses for endless drives through the woods and farmlands. You pay the hotels from $5 to $10 a week and the railroad company $3 for a round trip ticket. Chicago is sixty miles away.

SAYNER, WIS.—Extra large muskellunge live in Plum lake, near Sayner. They have lots of room, as the lake is five miles long and three wide, and campers are the only people who disturb its solitudes. The banks are high, and the tall, uncut pines on top of them look lonelier and more grim than usual. Lost lake and Big St. Germain carry these characteristics to an even more noticeable extreme, and you can get to them by an easy journey through the woods. The round trip from Chicago costs $15.25.

SILVER LAKE, WIS.—Quiet, simple, and sixty miles from Chicago. Another place in which to plant the family for all summer if you feel the need of visiting them every Saturday and Sunday. In addition to Silver there are Twin, Lily, and Paddock lakes in the vicinity. All are small and civilized, but you can bathe and sail in their waters just as well as if they were lost in the big woods of the north. The fishing is not the same, however. Hotel rates are $7 and up a week, and the round trip from Chicago costs $2.40.

STATE LINE, WIS.—Where Wisconsin ceases and Michigan begins there is offered about the richest wilderness menu that this part of the universe possesses. The lakes and trout streams are too numerous to mention, and much of the woods remains unexplored. Just think what that means. If you go into the loneliest portion of the wooded island in Jackson park you are practically certain to find an empty lunch box and a crumpled morning paper, but if you strike out into the forest around State Line you perhaps are going where no white man ever has been before, and you have the delightful chance of discovering a lake that isn't on the map and naming it after yourself. It makes you realize in a small way how Stanley felt when he plunged into the depths of the dark continent. Tamarack and cedar cover most of the swamps and drive away malarial vapors. The fishing is the best obtainable, short of that in the unvisited waters of central Canada. Muskellunge and all varieties of bass are to be taken. The nearest hotel is five miles from the station and the farthest almost twenty-five miles. Rates are uniformly $10 a week. A round trip from town costs $16.25.

STOUGHTON, WIS.—A little off the beaten track, although there is no good reason why it should be. Lake Kegonsa, which makes Stoughton a vacation resort, is only 125 miles from Chicago. It's more than three miles long and a beautiful piece of water. The summer life is not elaborate or fashionable, nor is it of the rough and ready wilderness type. It is much like that at Delavan or Geneva with all the "fuss and feathers" left out. Hotel rates range from $8 to $14 a week, and the round trip from town has been priced at $5.55.

EDUCATORS CHOOSE HEAD

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION ELECTS W. H. MAXWELL PRESIDENT.

Other Officers and Board of Directors Named by Acclamation—Phonetic Spelling Must Wait a Year Longer—Booker T. Washington Is Principal Speaker of the Day's Session—Sections Hold Annual Elections and End Work.

St. Louis, Mo., June 30.—[Special.]—W. H. Maxwell, superintendent of instruction of New York, was elected president of the National Educational association for next year.

The report of the committee on nominations was read by Chairman John Herbert Phillips of Birmingham, Ala., and by unanimous vote it was adopted, electing the following officers and directors, in addition to President Maxwell:

Vice presidents—John W. Cook, Illinois; C. P. Cary, Wisconsin; George C. Cook, Arkansas; J. N. Stude, Indiana; J. M. H. Frederick, Ohio; Allen Robertson, Indian Territory; H. Mark, Kentucky; H. H. Swayne, Montana; H. A. Mathews, Arizona; J. D. Caldwell, Louisiana; A. B. Poland, New Jersey; Charles D. McIver, North Carolina.

The new board of directors includes the following members:

J. A. Mercer, Peoria, Ill.; T. A. Mott, Richmond, Ind.; A. B. Storm, Cherokee, Ia.; W. H. Elson, Grand Rapids, Michigan; W. F. Kunze, Red Wing, Minn. George L. Towne, Lincoln, Neb.; W. E. Hoover, Parker, N. D.; E. D. Lyon, Madisonville, O.; G. W. Nash, Pierre, S. D.; and L. D. Harvey, Menominee, Wis.

Results of Section Elections.

The department of secondary education elected the following:

President—William Schuyler, St. Louis.
Vice president—James H. Van Sickle, Baltimore.
Secretary—Wilson Farrand, Newark, N. J.

The department of elementary education and the department of Indian education elected the following:

The department of art education elected as follows:

President—Mrs. M. E. Riley, St. Louis.
Vice president—Frank Collins, New York.
Secretary—Miss Stella Trueblood, St. Louis.

Phonetic Spelling Goes Over.

Whether or not to support a movement for the general adoption of phonetic spelling probably will come up before next year's convention of the National Educational association. The matter was to have been considered by the association in convention here, but has been laid over another year.

Booker Washington Speaks.

Among the speakers who addressed the convention today was Booker T. Washington, the negro educator of Tuskegee, Ala., who said:

Judged purely from an economic and industrial point of view, the education of the negro is paying and will pay more largely in the future in proportion as educational opportunities are increased. A careful examination shows that of the men and women trained at Hampton and Tuskegee not 10 per cent can be found in idleness at any season of the year.

The records of the south show that 90 per cent of the colored persons in prison are without knowledge of trade and 61 per cent are illiterate. This statement alone disproves the assertion that the negro grows in crime as he secures education. If the negro at the north is more criminal than his brother at the south it is largely because the north withholds from him the opportunity for employment that the south gives.

Other Addresses Heard.

Samuel M. Lindsay, commissioner of education, San Juan, Porto Rico, talked on "Education in Porto Rico," telling of the advancement of educational methods in that island in accordance with American standards, notwithstanding the many intervening obstacles.

"Education in the Navy" was discussed by Rear Admiral Casper F. Goodrich, U. S. N.

TRIGGS WILL BE A PRESIDENT.

Former University Professor Will Head New Industrial School, Located Probably at Ottawa.

Prof. Oscar Lovell Triggs, whose connection with the University of Chicago terminated with the close of the spring quarter, has accepted the presidency of a new industrial school, which is to be established probably at Ottawa, Ill. The institution is to be a farm and workshop school, similar in nature to the Perky institution at Oread, Mo.

Prof. and Mrs. Triggs are now in Montreal, whence then will sail on Monday for Europe. The professor will return in September to take up his new duties, while his wife will spend the winter in Paris.

Upon his departure from the university a number of his students presented Prof. Triggs with a handsome vellum book of "Appreciation," consisting of an inscription expressing their affection and appreciation of him and his work.

BIG BOAT RACE IS POSTPONED.

Yale and Harvard Varsity Crews Will Row at New London Today.

BUT ONE CONTEST HELD.

Freshmen from New Haven Beat Harvard Youngsters After a Great Struggle.

New London, Conn., June 30.—The thousands who journeyed to the Thames today for the annual Yale-Harvard boat races saw one of the best freshmen races ever rowed on any course, and then, for eight hours, sat in the rain and waited in vain for the four oared and the varsity races. Finally, early in the evening, both of these races were put over until tomorrow.

Yale won the freshman race by half a second or a quarter of a boat's length. For the two miles the two shells zigzagged, and neither crew ever had a lead of more than a length. It was one of the most remarkable boat races in the history of intercollegiate rowing.

Races Poorly Handled.

The postponement of the varsity races brought forth much criticism. Throughout the entire day there seemed to be a lack of system in the handling of the races. The freshman event was delayed for fifty minutes by one mishap or another, and by the time it was finished it was found impossible to put on the varsity four oared race, since the varsity eight oared race was scheduled for 12:30 o'clock. The race for the big eights could have been rowed at that hour had the officials been prompt, but there was a long delay. The wind freshened, and the race was postponed, first until 1:15, then until half-past two, next until 4:15, and again until 7 o'clock, when it was put over. As the afternoon wore on the southeast wind, which had been blowing all day, grew stiffer and stiffer, until it was absolutely impossible for any crew to row. The only hour at which the race could have been rowed was half-past 12 o'clock.

Great Crowd Disappointed.

One of the biggest crowds in the history of these races came by rail and water to witness today's regatta. Possibly there were not so many steam yachts as usual, but the general attendance was a record breaker. Despite a leaden sky from which the rain began to fall early in the morning, continuing all day long, with now and then a regular downpour, the spectators in undiminished numbers waited patiently. Not until a definite announcement was made did they give up hope of seeing the long looked for struggle.

The eight oared race will be rowed up stream tomorrow at 10:30 a. m., after which the fours will be sent away.

Start of Freshmen Struggle.

After the freshmen eights reached the starting flags, and that was long after the time set, Harvard dragged its stake boat and for a quarter of an hour Referee Meikleham labored with the shells to get them lined up. The delay was trying for the crews. Finally, at the sound of the pistol, both eights dashed away in splendid style. Yale showed in better form at the start, and for the first eighth of a mile had a trifle the better of it. Then the Harvard men settled down and slowly drove their boat to the front. Yale was rowing thirty-four and the crimson thirty-two. Raising its stroke a point or two Harvard reached the half mile flag a third of a length in the lead. It finished the mile in 5:09, Yale in 5:10. Over the next mile the struggle was superb. Each crew raised its stroke one point. Harvard steered out of its course in order to catch better water, and Yale followed. At the mile and a half flag the two boats were exactly even, nose for nose. The time for each crew for the mile and a half was 7:50.

The Winning Spurt.

Just as the last half mile flag was passed Yale began the spurt that won the race. It jumped its stroke up to thirty-six and began to pull ahead inch by inch. Harvard did not make its effort until an eighth of a mile from the finish. Then its stroke went to thirty-eight, but it was too late. Yale was leading by the length of its canvas bow as the flags dipped at the finish. The two flags went down almost simultaneously, and it was several minutes before the crews knew who had won. Finally the referee shouted out the name of the winner, and the Yale youngsters sat up in their shell and gave a Yale cheer with "Harvard" on the end of it. Yale had won by just half a second. Yale's time was 10:20; Harvard's 10:20½.

The crews had a fair wind, but practically no tide, and considering this the time was fast. The prediction made last night by John Kennedy of Yale that the freshman race was a tossup came true.

Big Race Put Over.

As soon as the referee announced at 7 o'clock that the varsity race would be postponed until tomorrow, both Harvard and Yale got into their shells for a little practice. The wind was blowing so fiercely it was not possible for the crews to do anything more than warm up. After ten minutes of practice both eights housed their shells.

CYCLIST IS BADLY INJURED.

Bobby Walthour Thrown from Wheel in Race at Atlanta and Is Seriously Hurt.

Atlanta, Ga., June 30.—In the three cornered twenty mile motor paced race between Bobby Walthour of Atlanta, Benny Munroe of Memphis, and De Guichard of Paris, France, at the Stadium here tonight, Walthour was "pocketed" by the other two riders in the fourth mile, and while going at a terrific speed was thrown against the railing.

His body struck two supporting posts, 3x6 inches, with such force that they were snapped in the center, and the champion was left hanging insensible on the railing, his feet dangling over the track.

An ambulance was summoned and Walthour was carried to his home in an unconscious condition. The latest report given out by the physicians at his bedside is that two ribs, one arm, and a collar bone are broken. It is thought he is injured internally. His pacemaker, Gussie Lawson, also fell, but was not injured.

PLAY IN THE WHIST CONGRESS.

Northwestern and Ravenswood to Meet for the Congress Trophy—Miss Allen Falls Behind.

New York, June 30.—The fourth day of the whist tourney began with a game between the Northwestern and the New York state associations to decide the possession of the fourteenth congress trophy, and the men from Minneapolis and St. Paul won by a margin of five tricks. This gives the northwestern team a clean score of three victories. It will meet the Ravenswood club of Chicago tomorrow morning. Should Ravenswood win, the Atlantic association will still be a factor.

During the afternoon the first round of the semi-finals for the Hamilton trophy was played, and the Horlick club of Racine, Wis., won from the Mercantile Library club of Boston by six tricks, while the Cleveland team had the same majority over Ravenswood of Chicago. The two teams over[illegible] best after the second round will play off [illegible] final possession.

For the [illegible] Minneapolis trophy twenty-two clubs are entered. In the first round this afternoon the high score [illegible] made by Cito Hatch and Dr. C. F. Cole of the Knickerbocker club of New York. The Pastime c[illegible] of Boston represented by W. A. Graustein and [illegible] W. Still, was second, and F. M. Barnard and W. [illegible] Jones of Minneapolis third.

The Associate Members' trophy, which was put in play on Wednesday, was won by Mrs. Charles B. Waterhouse of Boston, with E. P. Whitney of that city as a partner. The defeat of Miss Bessie Allen of Milwaukee, who won this cup last year, was a great surprise, as she had a good lead in the first round. In the second round she dropped back to fifth place.

The league will hold its second business session tomorrow morning, when new officers will be chosen. The committee on nominations has named the following ticket: For president, George L. Bunn of St. Paul; for vice president, John E. Faber of New York; for recording secretary, Henry T. Fry of Chicago; for corresponding secretary, Clarence W. Vail of Brooklyn; for treasurer, F. C. Thwaits of Milwaukee. For directors to serve three years—J. W. Dusenbury, Pennsylvania; F. F. Bagley, New Jersey; Beverly W. Smith, Maryland; E. P. Martin, Illinois; and F. N. Herron, Indiana. For director to serve two years, J. H. Smith, New York.

LONG TOUR OF AUTOISTS.

CHICAGO CLUB MEMBERS START ON WISCONSIN TRIP TODAY.

President Farson to Lead a Number of Enthusiasts on a Journey to Several Points in the Badger State, Leaving This Morning at 9 O'Clock and Not Returning to Chicago Until Monday Evening—Stops at Waukegan, Oconomowoc, and Elsewhere.

Chicago automobilists will start on what will probably be the longest tour of the year this morning, leaving for Wisconsin at 9 o'clock. Fourteen owners of cars last night signified their intention of taking part in the tour, and it is likely several other cars and guests will go on the trip.

Those who will drive cars are: President John Farson and party, Dr. F. H. Davis and party, J. B. Burdette and party, Frank X. Mudd, Howard Crouse, Sydney Gorham, J. E. Stevens, W. S. Smith, Dr. S. C. Greene, Ira M. Cobe, W. D. Lloyd, Jerome A. Ellis, Benjamn S. Marshall, and F. C. Donald.

According to schedule the first stop will be made at Waukegan, where the automobilists are expected to arrive at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. It is considered doubtful whether the original schedule can be carried out, as the roads are sure to be in bad condition and heavy as the result of the rains yesterday. The tourists will leave Waukegan at 2 o'clock, after taking dinner, for Milwaukee, a distance of fifty-five miles, and should reach there at 7 o'clock. They will stop at the Pfister and will be joined by Milwaukee automobilists for the remainder of the tour.

At 9 o'clock tomorrow morning the start will be made for Oconomowoc, where the tourists are scheduled to arrive at noon. Leaving that town they will go to Waukesha, which they should reach at 5:30 in the afternoon. Other places to be visited will be Lake Geneva and Waukegan again, after which they will return to the Evanston Country station, arriving at 6 o'clock Monday evening, in time for dinner.

The Grand Rapids and Milwaukee clubs have been extended an invitation to join in the tour.

PLAN AN AUTOMOBILE HOSPITAL

Harvey Medical College Faculty and Alumni Have New Scheme for Downtown District.

Action toward establishing an "automobile emergency hospital" in the downtown district was taken last evening by the faculty and Alumni association of the Harvey Medical college at a meeting held in the rooms of the college, 169 Clark street. Committees were appointed to solicit funds for the project and to prepare plans for an auto ambulance.

The annual election of officers of the Alumni association resulted as follows:

President—Dr. Scott T. Petrie.
Vice president—Dr. H. Buseman.
Secretary—Dr. Blanche Weber.
Treasurer—Dr. Victor Pacyna.
Sergeant at arms—Dr. G. W. Reis.

Judge Richard S. Tuthill spoke at the Dearborn Medical college commencement at Steinway hall. President L. Blake Baldwin conferred degrees on the eighteen graduates and William Fuller delivered the charge to the class. The valedictory was pronounced by Philip A. Graves.

SIXTY ATHLETES IN A. A. U. MEET

Entry List Announced for Contests on July 4—Milwaukee Athletic, the Favorite, Has College Stars.

The names of sixty athletes are included in the final list of entries for the A. A. U. championship meet at Elliott's park July 4, given out yesterday by J. D. Williamson, secretary of the Scottish societies of Chicago. Fourteen teams will be represented. The strongest of these is the Milwaukee Athletic club, which will include a number of the Michigan and Wisconsin stars, among them Archie Hahn.

Eight athletes from the University of Chicago are entered, but not all will compete. The men were entered by Coach Stagg with the understanding that they might compete or not as they pleased. Tommy Taylor, the quarter miler, does not expect to be in the city, Lightbody is uncertain whether he will run or not. Victor Rice has gone to work for his father and had made other arrangements for the fourth before he knew about the A. A. U. meet.

Rice said last night: "I have been in training now for seven months, and I had planned all along to quit after the St. Louis meet. I am sorry Archy Hahn did not compete at St. Louis, for I should like to have met him again. I do not believe, however, that I am called upon to run Monday just because Archie is in the meet. I understand he is not in good shape now, and if I run against him again I want it to be when he is in the best of condition."

The Milwaukee Athletic club is a hot favorite for first honors and should have no difficulty in carrying off the pennant.

Coach Stagg Praises the Fair.

Coach Stagg returned yesterday from St. Louis, where he has been "seeing the fair" since Monday. The maroon athletic director declares the exposition is a "great show" and thinks the Patagonian giants would make good material for a football team. He brought with him the beautiful silver Stevens trophy, a loving cup nearly two feet high. The Midway track men say the "old man" was so proud of the cup he would hardly let it out of his sight the whole time he was in St. Louis. Stagg said yesterday he did not know as yet whether he would take a team to the Olympian games in August. Most of the track men, he declared, would be widely scattered at that time, and unless he could get enough together to make a good showing he did not wish to have Chicago represented at all.

Hopper to Coach California.

Berkeley, Cal., June 30.—James Hopper, a veteran football player, has been engaged to coach the state university eleven the coming season.

Syracuse Wants It All.

Syracuse, N. Y., June 30.—It was announced today that Syracuse university, which won both the freshman and varsity events at Poughkeepsie on Tuesday, will enter a crew for the four oar race next year.

ANDERSON LEADS IN GOLF TOURNEY

National Open Champion Heads List in First Day's Play at Grand Rapids.

SMITH TIES WITH TURPIE.

Leader's Score Is 154, the Two Runners-up Being Three Strokes Behind.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 30.—[Special.]—Dogwood, persimmon, and hickory shared interest with the mahogany, quarter sawed oak, and walnut of the furniture dealers' convention in this town today. Out on the picturesque course of the Kent Country club the leading professionals of the country gave the links its first baptism of real golf.

As if to make amends for his aqueous deal at Milwaukee last year the weather man dished up a sample of ideal golfing weather. Save for the presence of a strong southwesterly breeze in the afternoon the conditions for golf were perfect. The course is one which the golfers of Grand Rapids are justly proud of, which the majority of visitors here envy, and which the majority of the experts present assert is as fine as can be found anywhere.

Under such conditions high class golf was looked for and provided.

Willie Anderson Heads List.

The story of the first half of the fifth annual open championship of the Western Golf association is to some extent a repetition of those at Milwaukee and Cleveland, in which "class" predominated. When play ceased for the day Willie Anderson of the Apawamis club of New York, the national open champion and former western open champion, was at the head of the list, with his old opponent, Alexander Smith, the western champion, and Harry Turpie of Auburn Park tied for second place three strokes behind him.

Within reaching distance are no less than sixty other players, but, from the manner in which the two easterners are going, the man who beats them out will have to do things to Col. Bogey tomorrow.

Anderson played superb golf, his score being 76 in the afternoon, and his card containing no less than fourteen fours. Smith, Harry Turpie, and Robert Simpson all played grand golf, on a course which demands correct play.

Although seemingly a flash in the pan, the best morsel of the day was a 35 by Gilbert Nicholls for the in journey in the morning. His card was 4, 4, 3, 4, 4, 4, 4, 4, 4, which could hardly be improved upon.

Everybody Starts—a Record.

Of the thirty-two players entered every one started, this being a record. Of this number four were amateurs, and as there were four medals, it was a case of all prizes and no blanks, but as two of the four withdrew the W. G. A. has two bronze medals to dispose of.

The leaders at the end of the morning play were H. Turpie, 77; W. Anderson, 78; Auchterlonie, 79; Way, 79; and Smith, Simpson, McAndrews, and Watson, 80. Leading scores in detail were as follows:

Notes of the Golfers.

Harry Turpie holed a fifty foot mashie approach at the fifth hole.

George Turpie, Fred McLeod, and J. Watson all got the long hole, 510 yards, in fours.

Vice President Alan L. Reid of the Western Golf association was the only official present, and, with Tom Bendelow to assist, ran things smoothly.

Spion kop, the seventh hole, although only 130 yards, requires plenty of elevation, the green being seventy feet higher than the teeing ground.

Only two twos were made during the day, Auchterlonie getting the seventh hole, while Alex Smith did the trick at the eleventh, which is 260 yards long.

Quite a number of Chicagoans were present, among them being Herbert J. Tweedie, Secor Cunningham, W. L. Shepard Jr., Stuart Douglas, Robert Calder, W. Calder, and G. F. Clingman.

On the fifth and eighth links there are two original hazards, consisting of wire fences five feet high. The ball cannot get through and the unfortunate player must play back or to the side.

Of the thirty-two starters four were amateurs, four native professionals, five English professionals, while the balance came from the land of the thistle. Nine of the Scotchmen are from St. Andrew's.

The galleries were small. President J. C. Holt of the Kent Country club and Judge Wanty started late and after playing ten holes decided no jury would award them the two bronze medals on the scores they were making and adjourned for luncheon.

'COMMY' CALLS OFF GAME

THREAT OF RAIN CAUSES FIRST SOUTH SIDE POSTPONEMENT.

Small Crowd Gathers When Clouds Clear Away, but Is Met with Announcement That Battle with St. Louis Has Been Declared Off—Visiting Manager Declines to Play a Double Header This Afternoon—Only One American League Contest.

President Comiskey broke his season's record yesterday by postponing his first game on the south side grounds. Many games have been played there under worse conditions than would have prevailed yesterday, but the rain in the middle of the day and the strong threats of more to come frightened the master of the White Sox into calling the engagement off early in the afternoon.

Before time for calling the game the clouds thinned out and the sun shone for a time, while several hundred enthusiasts went to the park in the hope of seeing the Sox retrieve their defeat of the day before, only to be disappointed in another way.

Manager McAleer of the browns declined to arrange a double header for today or tomorrow, and as double bills are not compulsory until the last series between two clubs yesterday's game will not be played off until October. The White Stockings and browns will continue their argument today, weather permitting, and finish it, for the present, tomorrow. Today is the regular "ladies' day" on the south side.

BOSTON WINS GAME IN NINTH.

Champions Take Advantage When Waddell Weakens and Beat Athletics by Score of Four to Three.

Boston, Mass., June 30.—By scoring three runs in the last two innings, when Waddell weakened, Boston won a seemingly lost game from Philadelphia by a score of 4 to 3 today. Rain and wet grounds made it difficult to handle the ball, and several infield hits were scratches, but the outfielding of both teams was of a high order. Score:

Griffith to Pitch Clarkson Saturday.

New York, June 30.—As the game which was scheduled between the New York and Washington American league teams here today was postponed on account of wet grounds, Manager Clark Griffith of the local team has arranged for a double header on Saturday afternoon. He intends to play his new pitcher, Clarkson, late of Harvard, in the box in one of the games, so that his former college mates may see him in his first professional game after they have taken part in the Harvard-Yale game at the Polo grounds in the forenoon.

SILER'S GOSSIP OF THE RING.

Gardner to Meet Wille Tonight—Sieloff and Fagin Fail to Meet at Apollo Hall.

[BY GEORGE SILER.]

George Gardner and John Wille will have it out in the windup at the Battery D club's show tonight. The contest will determine whether or not Gardner, who until his defeat at the hands of Fitzsimmons was considered the best light heavyweight fighter in the business, is losing his fistic hold or whether Wille's championship aspirations are worthy of consideration.

The local fighter demonstrated in his battles with Marvin Hart, Jack Root, and Larry Temple that he is a tougher proposition to handle than the average light heavyweight. While seemingly not scientific, he has a get there style about him that invariably surprises his opponents. He is a clever defensive fighter, a hard hitter, and can well protect himself in the clinches. Gardner's trainer, Jack Curley, says he will fight on different lines than heretofore, and he will be sorely disappointed should George fail to win with a knockout.

The semi-final will bring together a pair of rough and ready fighters in Frankie Baker and Bob Porter. Other bouts will enlist Ralph Worthington and George Quinn, "Young" Pierce and Danny Gillen, and "Young" Green and Danny McDonough.

Joseph Levy, said to have promoted the boxing contests at Apollo hall last week, appeared before Justice Caverly yesterday afternoon to answer to the charge, but Ed White, the supposed prosecutor, did not appear and the charge was dismissed.

George Fuller, a lightweight and former sparring partner and assistant trainer to Jimmy Britt, is in town from San Francisco looking for game in his division. Those who have seen Fuller go through his fistic stunts say he is a likely lad.

Owing to the small attendance neither the windup, which was to have been between Otto Sieloff and Henry Fagin, nor the semi-windup, for which Tommy Smith and Jack Phillips were carded, was staged at the Apollo hall boxing show last night. The contests offered the handful of spectators and their results were as follows: Ed Callahan knocked out Frank Tighe in the first round, "Young" Fitzsimmons stopped William Collins in the third round, Walter Parker won from Walter Smalters in six rounds, and Tom Wallace knocked out Tom Murray in the third round. Henry Fagin and Tommy Smith boxed three friendly rounds.

Lemmel Knocks Out Bolan.

Evansville, Ind., June 30.—[Special.]—"Kid" Lemmel of Louisville and Jack Bolan of Cincinnati met here tonight for a ten round bout. In the second round Bolan was knocked out.

Challenge to the Trotters.

Thomas F. Casey, secretary of the West Chicago Driving club, has accepted the challenge of Sam Hall and Senator John Powers to race against Louise Patchen [trotter] and Kitty Powers [pacer] for $500 or $1,000, to go to charity. He now challenges any horse owner in Chicago to a match, either trotter or pacer, mile heats, two in three or three in five, for a $500 gold cup, the loser to pay for it, the race to be run over the West Chicago Driving club's track at any suitable time. The club will give amateur races on July 4 as a preliminary to their four days' meeting, commencing on July 13.

Rosemore Buys Minter for $5,000.

Springfield, Mass., June 30.—A. J. Meston has sold to James Butler of New York for R. W. Rosemore of Goshen, N. Y., the 5 year old bay trotting mare Minter for $5,000. As a 3 year old she got a record of 2:28¾ on a half mile track. It is believed she will trot in 2:05 this year. Minter will be shipped with Mr. Butler's string to Oakley park, Cincinnati.

Tennis Results at Orange.

Orange, N. J., June 30.—The semi-finals in men's singles was the chief event here today. Richard Stevens, the veteran base line player, and Clarence Hobart each won a place in the final round. Stevens defeated Robert Leroy, the Columbia player, in straight sets, 6—0, 6—3. The former intercollegiate champion of Princeton, R. D. Little, went down before the splendid passing of Hobart in two sets to one. Miss May Sutton, the California woman, won her match in the women's singles and outclassed her field, as she did last week at the national championship. In the men's doubles the Pennsylvanians, Dewhurst and Bates, defeated the Princeton and Harvard combination, Little and Ward, in two sets.

MIGHTY CHANCE WINS FOR COLTS.

First Baseman Hits Hard Enough to Beat St. Louis All by Himself.

WICKER PROVES PUZZLE.

New York Giants Keep Up Their Bad Habit of Beating Somebody.

St. Louis, Mo., June 30.—[Special.]—The Colts continued their engagement with the cardinals this afternoon, and won again by a score of 5 to 1.

The locals managed to keep out of the whitewash column again, but it was an error on the part of Evers that gave them the lone run, otherwise Jake Weimer, whose left wing was in great condition, would have shut them out. Only three times did the cardinals land safely on the ball, and Davy Brain made two of the three along with the run that was scored.

Jack Taylor, who was on the firing line against his former team mates, was unable to gratify his desire to beat them, and they kept increasing the lead which they got in the first round steadily until the finish.

Frank Chance was enough to win from the cardinals without any help from his companions, for his work was easily the feature of the game. He made three hits—one triple, a double, and a single—and scored three of the five runs.

Shower Interrupts Play.

The weather was threatening for a time before the game and the attendance was smaller than yesterday. Just at the close of the fourth inning a light shower stopped play for a few minutes, but before the ground keeper was able to cover up the pitcher's box with his canvas the sun was shining again.

In one or two instances the Colts overlooked chances to score, but the work of the visitors was so far better than the locals that none of the lost opportunities was noticed.

Slagle and Casey were easy in the first inning, but Chance slammed a two bagger to center field and came home when McCarthy rolled a slow bounder over second. In the next inning the Colts managed to get two runners over the plate. Evers started with a fast bounder to safe ground and Kling sacrificed. Taylor threw too late to get Evers. Tinker moved both Evers and Kling along with a sacrifice and Weimer sent both home on a single past second base. Slagle spoiled the chances of any more scoring by forcing Weimer at second and getting caught napping off first.

Cardinals' Lone Run.

Evers muffed Barclay's short fly in the cardinals' half of the second after Brain had reached second on a smashing drive into right center. Burke sacrificed and Brain came home on a long fly to the outfield.

Chicago overlooked a chance to score in the fifth when Tinker, who was up first, drew a base on balls, and Weimer popped to Farrell, who threw wild to Beckley trying to double up Tinker. The runner went to third, but Slagle sent a short grounder to Taylor and Tinker was nailed at the plate, and Slagle was caught trying to steal second. Chance singled in the sixth after Casey was out and went to third on McCarthy's hit to center, which was fumbled by Smoot. Jones' long fly gave him a chance to score.

In the eighth Chance landed on the ball for a three bagger and scored on McCarthy's fly. Score:

Notes of the Colts.

Two more games remain of the series here.

Smoot struck out three times and Shannon twice.

Brown will pitch tomorrow against McFarland or Nichols.

Taylor gave but one base on balls and Weimer issued two.

Burke threw Tinker's grounder ten feet over Beckley's head in the seventh inning, letting Tinker reach third.

Only one man of the cardinals reached third, and that was Brain in the second, when he scored the only run. Only two besides him reached second.

McGraw's Men Win from Bean Eaters by Bunching Hits by a Score of Three to Nothing.

New York, June 30.—Mathewson returned to the game today and pitched so well for New York that Boston was shut out. The home team won by bunching hits on Pittinger in two innings. A feature was the sharp fielding by both teams, which resulted in five double plays. Score:

ALBERTA WINS IN TRIAL RACE.

Lake Winnebago Yacht Will Be Entered in Finals for Selection of Seawanhaka Cup Challenger.

Oshkosh, Wis., June 30.—[Special.]—There was inaugurated on Lake Winnebago this afternoon a series of races to determine which Lake Winnebago yacht shall be entered in the finals for the selection of a Seawanhaka cup challenger, which are to be sailed here next week.

The race today was sailed for the most part in a drizzling rain and with a heavy wind and sea. Toward the close the skies, and wind, and sea lightened. The course was a six knot triangle once around and consisted of two broad reaches and one stretch dead to windward. There were three boats in the race, Alberta, owned by W. L. Davis of Neenah; Warrior, the Graham-Lorimer boat of Chicago, built here by Jones and La Borde; and Oshkosh, the boat built by Jones and La Borde for a syndicate of Oshkosh yachtsmen and intended to represent the Oshkosh club in the inland lake regatta.

Alberta won, turning the course in one hour and twenty-three minutes, finishing sixteen seconds ahead of Warrior, which was a minute and a half ahead of Oshkosh. Sigma, the White Bear challenger, did not come out, fearing damage to its canvas.

FIRST SINCE THE DERBY.

HIGHBALL CAPTURES A STAKE EVENT AT SHEEPSHEAD BAY.

With 120 Pounds on His Shoulders He Makes His Field Look Cheap—Beldame Shows Another Specimen of Her Remarkable Speed—Knocked Out of It at the Start She Overtakes and Passes Her Field in an Amazing Way—Results at Fort Erie.

New York, June 30.—[Special.]—Highball, winner of the American Derby and unplaced in the memorable Advance stakes last Saturday, carried 120 pounds today in the Spindrift stakes, a handicap at 9 furlongs, and made his seven opponents—none of high class—look cheap by winning in a canter.

Now that the race is all over the impost upon Highball looks to have been light for a colt of his achievements. The handicapper thought Stalwart was within six pounds of Highball, but the race showed he was not, although it does not follow that the race today showed Stalwart at his best.

It was the performance of Beldame in the second race, which was for fillies and mares, that aroused the admiration of all who saw what she was called upon to do. She was high strung and was led to the post, which was at the head of the mile starting "chute." Revane, one of the starters, wheeled as the barrier was released, threw her rider, McCafferty, and nearly knocked Beldame down. The latter was last of the field when they had got under way, but in almost a twinkling she had passed the others and had a lead of five lengths in the next quarter of a mile. Her speed was amazing and the jockeys on the others apparently took no notice of Beldame, for they seemed to be riding only for second place. Beldame came on alone and won by five lengths in 1:39⅘.

Hortensia apparently had Lux Casta beaten for second money until the last stride or two, when the older mare got her head in front. Some thought Hildebrand rode a weak finish, while others bearing in mind Hortensia's races at Morris park, said she stopped. Report has it that Joe Yeager bet on Lux Casta for the place.

Besides Beldame's remarkable victory that of Hot Shot in the fifth event caused comment because the colt was apparently out of it for the first three furlongs.

The Picket was sent his final trial for the Commonwealth handicap—or Suburban renewal, as it is more popularly styled—at Sheepshead Bay this morning, and turned the mile and a quarter in splendid fashion, pulling up, in 2:09¼.

First race, 13-16 mile—Ingold, 108 pounds [Martin], 4 to 1, won; Gold Saint, 93 [Crimmins], 30 to 1, second; Auditor, 111 [Odom], 6 to 1, third. Time, 1:19. Sweet Alice, Kohinoor, Grand Opera, Reliable, Mizzen, Illyria, John F., Athiana, and Young Henry ran.

Second race, 1 mile—Beldame, 111 pounds [O'Neill], 1 to 20, won; Lux Casta, 110 [Odom], 9 to 1, second; Hortensia, 101 [Hildebrand], 4 to 1, third. Time, 1:39 2-5. Possession and Stamping Ground ran. Revane fell.

Third race, steeplechase, full course—Lavator, 163 pounds [Mara], 1 to 3, won; Grandpa, 156 [J. O'Brien], 3 to 1, second; Graceaway, 140 [G. Wilson], 50 to 1, third. Time, 5:09. Royelle fell.

Fourth race, the Spindrift handicap, 1⅛ miles—Highball, 120 pounds [Odom], 3 to 2, won; Ostrich, 96 [Travers], 12 to 1, second; Thistleheather, 90 [Crimmins], 60 to 1, third. Time, 1:54. Requiter, Montreson, W. B. Fasig, Knight Errant, and Stalwart ran.

Fifth race, 11-16 mile—Hot Shot, 115 pounds [Hicks], 11 to 10, won; Torchelli, 112 [Lyne], 8 to 1, second; Dandelion, 115 [Shaw], 10 to 1, third. Time, 1:08. Jerry C., Lindsay Gordon, Bulwark, Courier, Bella Signora, Perry McAdow, Monacodor, Jim Beattie, Argos, and Hannibal ran.

WINNING HORSES AT SHORT ODDS.

Talent and Nerve Are Both Required to Beat Hawthorne Books.

CAN'T DEFEAT VAN NESS.

Schorr Sprinter Remains Unvanquished on Local Tracks This Season.

Speculators who fancy playing horses at prohibitive odds cleaned up handsomely in three of the six events at Hawthorne yesterday.

The first horse which drew this wise delegation down the line was J. W. Schorr's consistent gelding, Van Ness, which opened at 7 to 10, and went to the post at 1 to 2. After cashing on Van the sure thing brigade waited for the McGee race, fourth on the card, and backed him down a point from 1 to 2. In the last race it was offered Handzarra at 2 to 5, and sent her to the post at a point less.

These were the best things of the day, but the prices against them were so short the general public did not have the price.

McGee's race, at one mile, was carded as the feature, but it was strictly a one horse affair, as Corrigan's horse simply rolled home. Ocean Dream, the second choice, set the pace to the bend into the backstretch, then retired in favor of the favorite, and that ended the race for first place, as nothing ever got near enough to McGee to give him an argument. Ocean Dream was an easy second, and Exclamation finished third, but was disqualified for fouling Major T. J. Carson, and the latter was placed third.

Van Ness Is Still Unbeaten.

Van Ness won his race, a six furlong dash as easily as he has won every event he has started in at the local tracks this season, and it is really impossible to determine how much speed the old gelding possesses. Yesterday, as in all his previous races hereabouts, he romped away from his field, and won in a common canter. Mayor Johnson gave him a tussle for a quarter of a mile, then concluded he had had enough and permitted Van to go about his business. With the Mayor in the discard, the old gelding took the purse without extending himself. The real struggle was for second money, and for it Mayor Johnson and Glassful fought to the end, the latter securing it by a head in the final strides.

Hoffler Draws It Fine.

The last short priced trick to win was Handzarra, F. B. Van Meter's speedy filly, and, although she won well in hand and with a bit in reserve, her backers did not fancy Hoffler's drawing the finish line so fine. She had early speed to burn and led by fully six lengths rounding the turn. She seemed to back up in the last sixteenth, and as Michael Byrnes and Cigar Lighter came fast she was only a length to the good crossing the line. Michael Byrnes beat Cigar Lighter a head for the place.

Sweetie, Ed Corrigan's filly, made her first appearance in the first race and won it easily. Freesias, backed from 8 to 1 down to 18 to 5, was second, and New Mown Hay, the favorite, ran third.

Sweet Tone, given an exceptionally good ride by Knapp, won the third race and Creole Jim beat Blackwolf in the fifth. Blackwolf made all the running and led to within fifty yards of the wire, where Creole Jim nailed him and won going away.

NEGRO THIEF SHOOTS TWO IN RUNNING STREET FIGHT.

Kills Man He Had Tried to Rob in Paterson, N. J., and Sends Bullet Through Jaw of Another.

New York, June 30.—[Special.]—Resolved to escape arrest for an attempted robbery, Arthur Lasker, a negro, 21 years old, fought a desperate battle in the streets of Paterson, N. J., this morning, in which he shot and killed one man, wounded another, and held at bay a crowd of policemen and citizens. He finally was captured after a chase that led across nearly ten miles of country and almost ended in a lynching.

Max Wollenberg, keeper of a furnishing goods store, was arranging his wares a few minutes after 8 o'clock, when the negro entered and asked to be allowed to see some dress suit cases. Wollenberg turned to comply, when Lasker drew a revolver.

Wollenberg thrust the weapon aside and darted for the door, shouting for help, but Lasker dashed past him and sped up the street. The fleeing negro turned westward into Ward street, with the others close on his heels, and as they turned the corner he halted and opened fire. There was only one shot, but it struck Wollenberg in the abdomen and he fell, mortally wounded.

Two men tried to bar the negro's way. One he knocked down and the other, William Kissel, he shot in the jaw.

WHEAT REACTS FROM DIP.

...EAK ON CLEARING WEATHER IN KANSAS IS RECOVERED.

...y Sellers Discomfited by Continued Buying of Local Bull Party—Bewildering Conflict in Reports of Crop and Harvest Conditions and Also in Phases of Cash Situation—Much Smaller Argentine Shipments Estimated.

...ars for the safety of the winter wheat ...p and the prospect of an early and pros- ...ous harvest on the part of speculators ...erally became less poignant when they ...covered that the showers predicted for the southwest the day before had not ...mounted to much. A drop of 1¼c in the ...ice at Buda Pesth from Tuesday's close ...verted the attention of the trade again to ...eign crop conditions.

...There were claims from the southwest ...that the rains really had not done much ...mage after all, and that harvest was in ...ll swing in southern Kansas. There ap- ...ared to be selling for southwest account, ...pecially by St. Louis houses, and this, with ...uidation by some of those who had pur- ...ased on the swell the day before and the ...ewed putting out of short lines, forced a ...eak of ⅜c to ⅝c, the old July off the most ...t 85¾c, the new September losing ½c to ...c.

But the advices from the fields were not ...l of a kind. There were renewed claims ...that the ground was so wet in sections of ...the winter wheat belt harvesting would be ...delayed some days, and renewed claims of ...rust also. St. Louis toward the close re- ...ported bad reports and buying orders from Missouri. Kentucky advices declared the ...yield in places hardly a third what had been ...expected. Strength of old July in Milwau- ...kee, its price ⅛-¼c over the local market, ...and rumors of a concentrated holding there ...disturbed local shorts.

Pringle Leads Buying.

There was persistent support on the soft ...spots by Pringle and his following and buy- ...ing also by Cudahy brokers, Comstock and Ware-Leland. When the market stopped ...and started back it was a case of covering ...again on the part of local shorts, and the ...early loss was entirely recovered, the close ...steady to ¼c higher for the day. Cash ad- ...vices were conflicting and perplexing, Balti- ...more reported receipts of 6,000 bu new wheat, ...with sales from 67c to 81c, but new wheat ...sold at St. Louis at $1.00, although there ...were said to be eighteen cars there. There ...were only 2 cars at Kansas City and No. 2 ...hard sold at 88c. The local cash demand ...was small, and No. 1 northern offered lower ...than the sales of the day before at 9c over ...old July.

Southwestern markets were weak early ...and set the pace for the decline here, but Kansas City recovered, closing only a shade ...lower. St. Louis ¼c lower. The northwest ...markets were also easier. The selling of old July was led by Spencer of St. Louis. There ...was moderate selling by Armour. Logan- Bryan and Love were leading sellers of Sep- ...tember. Minneapolis had a few more cars ...than last year. Total receipts at primary ...points 294,000 bu, compared with 306,000 bu ...a year ago.

Clearances were 80,000 bu wheat and flour. The seaboard claimed export sales of 32,000 ...bu. The Cincinnati Price Current was mod- ...erately bearish, affecting the early mood. The closing rally was helped by the reduced ...estimate of Argentine shipments, 800,000 bu. Liverpool futures gained ½d on a continental ...demand for Australian cargoes about due ...and an advance of 1d in offerings of Indian ...wheat.

July Corn Weak.

Continued liquidation in July corn and to ...less extent the changing of long July over ...into September were the features of the ...corn market, the result being that the July ...discount widened to 1⅜c. The July sold ⅛c ...lower and closed at the bottom at 47⅛c, while ...the September lost ⅛-¼c. Country offer- ...ings of corn were fairly liberal but receipts ...moderate, and the cash market was steady ...to ½c higher. Eastern bids were advanced ...and the low lake freights of ⅝c to Buffalo ...resulted, in some business, sales of 400,000 ...bu reported. A larger business was indi- ...cated, as lake charters were made for 400,- ...000 bu. Receipts were 250 cars and 300 esti- ...mated for tomorrow. There were 18 cars of ...contract grade in the receipts and about 125,- ...000 bu out of private houses, including 50,000 No. 2 yellow for shipment. Primary re- ...ceipts were 258,000 bu, compared with 575,000 ...bu last year. Clearances were 26,000 bu and ...export sales at the seaboard 48,000 bu. Liverpool futures were unchanged to ¼d ...higher, spot unchanged.

Sales of New Oats.

Oats lost ¼c for the July, but held about steady for the September. There was mod- ...erate scattered liquidation in the near by ...delivery, but a good demand for the Septem- ...ber at 32c. The September strength was not ...much influenced by the reported purchase ...of 5,000 bu new oats for shipment to this mar- ...ket from an Illinois point the first half of August at ½c over September. Cash prices, ...however, were affected by this transaction ...and were weak, 1c to 2c lower, the shipping ...demand was only moderate, sales 70,000 bu. There were 128 cars in, with 11 standard and 107 estimated for today. Clearances were 19,000 bu.

Provision Liquidation Lighter.

Provisions were higher at the outset on a 5c advance in hogs, but after fair advances ...showed signs of repeating Wednesday's ...course, prices being dragged off to the level ...of the previous close by July liquidation of ...the same sort noted the day before. How- ...ever, there was continued changing by ...packers to help July, and a growing demand ...for September products, seemingly from good ...sources, and the market soon turned into a ...bull affair with closing prices at about top, ...pork 17½@20c higher, lard 7½@10c up, and ...ribs 5@7½c up. Early there was buying, ...thought to be for Cudahy, and more of the ...selling by Pringle, Canby, and other commis- ...sion houses. On the dip Schwarz, Wolff, ...and other brokers were buyers, and liquida- ...tion seemed to have about run its course. Local hog receipts were 23,000 head, and 18,- ...000 are expected today. The total at west- ...ern points was 62,900 head, against 62,200 ...last year. Shipments of meats were about 800,000 lbs larger than last year, and of ...lard 100,000 lbs larger. Cash demand for ...meats was reported to be a trifle better, but ...for lard dull. Liverpool prices were un- ...changed.

Rye Demand Better.

Rye was steadier, demand showing a little ...improvement and offerings small. July sold ...at 57½c, ½c over Wednesday, and September ...at 58½c. June was nominally 63½c. No car ...lot sales were reported. One car was re- ...ceived and none shipped.

Barley was dull and easy. Malting sales ...ranged from 36@53c; fancy nominally 54@ 56c. Feed sold from 30@35c and screenings ...from 30@35c. Receipts were 11 cars and ...shipments 6,430 bu.

Flaxseed trade was at a standstill, with ...prices steady. June and July were quoted ...at $1.01 and September sellers asked $1.05. No. 1 northwestern was $1.07 bid and No. 1 $1.01 bid. Receipts were 5 cars at Minne- ...apolis, 24 at Duluth, and 1 here.

Timothy seed was quiet and steady. Sep- ...tember was 5c higher early, with sales at $3.15, but closed about steady at $3.12½ ...sellers. June and July were nominally $2.90 ...and country lots ranged from $2.30@2.70, ac- ...cording to quality.

A few lots of clover seed were offered, with ...sales from $6.00@10.00 per cental, according ...to quality. June prime seed was quoted at $10.50.

SPRING WHEAT YIELD ESTIMATE.

H. V. Jones of the Commercial West Figures Out a Total of 342,250,000 Bushels.

H. V. Jones of the Commercial West, Minneapolis, a wheat crop authority, whose advance guesses on the spring wheat yield in the northwest have been close enough for several years to attract the attention of the trade, is out with an estimate of the winter wheat yield by states, as follows:

The winter wheat crop of the United States for 1903 was 401,000,000 bu, as estimated by the government bureau, and also by the Commercial West, except that three or four of the states were estimated differently, but without changing the total result. This year we estimate the winter wheat production at 342,000,000,000 bu, or 59,000,000 less than last year. The showing by states is as follows:

States.	Estimated yield 1904.	Yield 1903.
Ohio	17,000,000	28,000,000
Michigan	8,000,000	15,000,000
Indiana	16,000,000	24,000,000
Illinois	16,000,000	16,000,000
Missouri	32,000,000	22,000,000
Kansas	73,000,000	92,000,000
Nebraska	38,000,000	40,000,000
Kentucky	7,000,000	7,000,000
Tennessee	8,000,000	8,000,000
New York	8,000,000	10,000,000
New Jersey	1,500,000	1,500,000
Pennsylvania	20,000,000	26,000,000
Delaware	1,250,000	1,250,000
Maryland	10,000,000	10,000,000
Virginia	8,000,000	7,000,000
Southeast Atlantic states	5,000,000	5,000,000
Texas	11,000,000	19,000,000
Arkansas	2,500,000	2,000,000
West Virginia	6,000,000	5,000,000
California	17,000,000	21,000,000
Oklahoma	19,000,000	26,000,000
Indian territory	3,000,000	3,000,000
Oregon	15,000,000	12,500,000
Totals	342,250,000	401,250,000

Of these states the Ohio valley, Michigan, and Missouri have been inspected in part by me, and in Kansas and Oklahoma practically all the territory. The reports for the other states are based on correspondence. This report shows an important shortage in Ohio, Indiana, and Michigan, from the standpoint of consumption, and an important shortage in Kansas and Oklahoma from the standpoint of supply. The winter was unfavorable through all the states. The Missouri crop is better than last year, but it is an open question whether the 10,000,000 bushels estimated increase will be sustained. Of all the states, Oklahoma probably produces nearest the normal amount, taking early conditions into account. Kansas falls off about 15,000,000 on decrease of acreage due to a smaller seeding and the abandonment of about 700,000 acres this spring which went largely into other spring crops, such as barley and corn. The western counties of Kansas that produced wheat heavily last year are poor this year, having low averages running from 6 to 10 bu. The land there was reseeded largely to barley, which gave fair promise and which will help keep up the railroad tonnage of the state.

The heaviest production area in Kansas this year is in the wheat counties having the largest acreage, central Kansas. Several of these counties are estimated to produce 20 bu average, and forty-nine counties are estimated to produce 15 to 20 bu average. This makes an average for the state of about 14½ bu on 5,000,000 acres. The storms of the last ten days have done damage to a wide area. In fact, all parts of the state have been affected in some degree, ranging from total loss from floods to loss by lodging and too much rain, Kansas produced an average of about 15 bu last year, so that the average yield this year shows but small decline, the falling off being due to the loss of about 1,000,000 acres.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

Cattle Receipts Small and the Trade Steady, While Hogs Show Five Cents Gain.

Only 6,500 cattle arrived at the stockyards for yesterday's market, but after the glut of 23,000 on Wednesday the number proved amply sufficient for the demand. Trade was slow from start to finish, with prices around steady at Wednesday's level. Receipts of hogs were 21,000. The market was slow to start, but prices were strong to 5c higher, and a good clearance was made. Receipts of sheep and lambs were 10,000. Sheep were steady and lambs strong.

The following is a statement of the movement of live stock at the Chicago stockyards for the period indicated, with comparative figures:

Cattle.

While it will be at least next Wednesday before anything like liberal receipts of cattle can be expected, the 6,500 that arrived for yesterday's market met an indifferent demand. The good to choice offerings finally were worked out at around Wednesday's prices, or 10@20c lower than on Monday, but light cattle of medium down to common quality hardly could be moved at any price. There was nothing but a peddling trade on this kind of offerings. The best cattle sold at $6.30 and the bulk of steers at $5.25@5.85. Strictly choice fat cows and heifers met a fair demand, but the medium grades, including the bulk, could be moved only by making further concessions. The stocker and feeder trade was lifeless, with prices around 25c lower than on Monday. Quotations:

Good to prime steers	$5.75@6.50
Poor to medium	4.50@5.50
Stockers and feeders	2.75@4.35
Cows	2.00@4.50
Heifers	2.50@5.25
Canners	1.75@2.75
Bulls	2.50@4.75
Calves	2.50@6.50
Texas fed cattle	5.00@5.50

Hogs.

Eastern shipping orders for hogs were extremely light, and, as packers did not care to begin operations until after the opening of the board of trade, the early market for hogs ruled slow, although prices were strong to 5c higher than on the previous day. After the middle hours of the forenoon the packing trade became active and fairly cleaned up the supply at the morning prices. Droves to the different houses generally brought around 2c advance over Wednesday's cost, and the quality was not as good. Top hogs sold at $5.37½ and bulk at $5.20 to $5.30. Quotations:

Mixed and butchers	$5.15@5.35
Good to heavy choice	5.30@5.37½
Rough heavy	5.10@5.25
Light	5.15@5.25
Bulk of sales	5.20@5.30

Sheep.

The market for sheep was fairly active, with prices holding steady. Strictly fancy spring sold around 10c higher, but the general run of lambs were steady to strong. Quotations:

Good to choice wethers	$4.50@4.90
Fair to choice mixed	3.75@4.50
Clipped western sheep and yearlings	4.50@5.00
Spring lambs	4.50@7.25

INTERESTING TRADE GOSSIP ON 'CHANGE.

A Baltimore message to Lobrke reported the receipt of 6,000 bu new red winter wheat there, which sold from 67c to 81c. There were 4,000 bu No. 2 red, which presumably brought about the top price, while the rest of the arrivals were poorer stuff. A St. Louis message to Bennett reported 13 cars of new wheat received there and later advices raised the total to 18, but the only sale reported was that of one car No. 2 red at $1.00, apparently a decline of 3c from the lowest price of the day before. It was claimed, however, this car was rather poor wheat from Oklahoma, and that good No. 2 red was worth $1.04. Kansas City had only 2 cars of new wheat, one of No. 2 red and one No. 2 hard, the latter selling at 88c. This was the first sale of new hard wheat there in the regular way, other sales having been at auction. The eastern demand for oats was generally called poor and early advices from Buffalo said Minneapolis was offering 36 lb white clipped oats at 41½c c. i. f. at that port, a figure which made the cash market here look high and had something to do with the break of 1c to 2c which followed. The American Cereal company purchased 5,000 bu new oats for shipment first half of August from an Illinois station at 32½c, or ½c over the September. This figure made the September price look high, but the September bulls thought it would take more than one "five" to break that market.

The feature of the wheat market was the persistent buying of old July on all the soft spots and on some of the hard spots by Robert Pringle, who must have picked up at least 500,000 bu, including 200,000 bu bought of Spencer in one lot at 86¼c. While this wheat might easily have been sold out, or some of it, through brokers, there was a suspicion among some of the wheat traders that a fair sized line of the old July is being accumulated, and that while there are scalping operations both ways in the market the line is not being reduced. The selling of old July was led by Spencer's house and there was a rumor it was for Coon of St. Louis, one of the Spencer group of heavy players. Some of the St. Louis people are confident there will be a free movement of wheat to that market next month, and the St. Louis market, which is nearest to a movement, has been relatively weak for several days, the July there 3⅞c under the old July here, or near a shipping difference, if not quite.

Some of the southwestern advices on wheat were optimistic. Kansas City messages to Finley Barrell said: "There seems to be generally good weather in Kansas and feeling now is that little damage has been done to wheat. Good movement of new wheat probable by next week. Buyers slow to take much of it here at present prices. One of the largest land owners in Kansas has returned this morning from a trip to his land in southwestern Kansas. He reports wheat in fine condition, not injured by rains, and harvesting in full progress. He thinks wheat yield will go above estimates in the heavy wheat belt of Kansas. He reports corn and oats in good condition there."

It is not considered good form in crop expert circles to keep books on previous efforts and results. The Price Current's summary of wheat crop conditions, as generally favorable, became the excuse for a discovery by Oscar Lindman that just about a year ago that authority estimated the production of wheat in this country at 725,000,000 bu, or about 87,000,000 bu more than the government estimated the final yield. On behalf of the crop expert it should be remembered that the business is uncertain at best, and that all predictions are understood to carry the reservation of "weather permitting."

Deliveries of wheat today are expected to be light, probably nothing but No. 2 hard put out for effect. There was, however, a delivery of 3,000 bu No. 1 northern yesterday, together with 2,000 bu No. 2 hard, but on a sale of June at 8c over old July price. Corn deliveries are expected to be about 2,000,000 bu, and large also of lard, but deliveries of oats, pork, and ribs probably will be small.

There were no sales of round lots of wheat yesterday; No. 1 northern was held at 9¼c over old July and 8½c over was bid. Samples were firm at Wednesday's level, a car of No. 3 red selling at 97c, a car at 98c, and No. 3 hard at 86½c. Shipping sales of corn here were 100,000 bu No. 3 on private terms, and oats sales were 70,000 bu white clipped on p. t.

Edward S. Jones, who has been with Bartlett-Frazier for three years, the last year as their floor manager, leaves that house today. In a week or two he will leave for his ranch in Wyoming with his family to spend the summer, returning in September to embark in business on the floor.

H. V. Jones estimates a net decrease in winter wheat production from his estimate of last year of 59,000,000 bu to 342,250,000 bu, compared with 401,250,000 bu in 1903. Of the decrease 55,000,000 bu is east of the Rockies.

St. Louis reported shipments of 10 cars of new wheat from Tennessee, with the reminder Tennessee millers were buying wheat in that market a year ago. They have been doing so this year, and quite recently.

"The country is still selling corn quite freely," said Joseph P. Griffin of the glucose company, "in spite of the recent decline in cash prices. Our acceptances in Illinois were liberal this morning."

There were charters for about 450,000 bu corn to Buffalo yesterday at ⅝c. The Black Rock was to take 100,000 bu and the P. D. Armour 100,000 bu. Line boats took the rest of the total.

Estimated receipts for today are: Wheat, 10 cars; corn, 300 cars; oats, 107 cars; rye, 1 car; barley, 8 cars; hogs, 18,000 head.

Metropolitan Street Railway and Canadian Pacific Save Market from Complete Inactivity — Money Balance Not Disturbed by Preparation for Settlements—Loan Expansion by Banks of England and France—Bonds Dull and Steady.

[BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

NEW YORK, June 30.—[Special.]—Stock market trading was without feature today, total neglect being even more noticeable than ever. Metropolitan street railway was bought and sold to some extent, and Canadian Pacific was still absorbed for London account. The May net earnings of the Lehigh Valley were not favorable, but the coalers all shared in the firmness.

Money was unruffled by any preparation for the July settlements, although a payment on account of the Japanese loan subscriptions, estimated to call for over $12,000,000, was made in addition to the routine disbursements called for at the turn of the half year. The subtreasury made a payment of $1,100,000 on account of Philippine revenue operations and of $540,000 on account of Klondike gold deposited at Seattle. A transfer from San Francisco also figures in the subtreasury operations, and that institution will begin the payment of government interest tomorrow. Loan expansion by the Bank of England of $57,475,000 and by the Bank of France of $33,865,000 showed the demand for credits at those centers for the turn of the half year.

The bond market was dull and steady. The total sales, par value, were $1,880,000. Government bonds were unchanged on call.

Close: Money on call, easy, 1¼@1¼ per cent; closing, bid, 1⅛; offered at 1¼. Time money, easy; sixty and ninety days, 2 per cent; six months, 3@3¼. Prime mercantile paper, 3½@4 per cent. Sterling exchange steady, with actual business in bankers' bills at 487.10@487.15 for demand and at 485.25 for sixty day bills; posted rates, 486@488; commercial bills, 484½@485. Bar silver, 56⅛c; Mexican dollars, 46c. Government bonds steady; railroad bonds firm.

IN THE FOREIGN MONEY MARKET.

LONDON, June 30.—Money was much wanted today, though supplies were increased through the liberation of a portion of the Japanese money at the Bank of England. Prices on the stock exchange were strong and a fair amount of business was transacted, notwithstanding a couple of unimportant failures. Consols were cheerful on the prospect of an abundance of cheap money. Home rails were buoyant. Americans opened steady, but the movements were insignificant and trading was listless. They closed firm. Grand Trunk rallied fractionally. Foreigners generally were firm. Imperial Japanese government 6s of 1904 were quoted at 96⅝. At the close prices all around were slightly below the best quotations of the day.

The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes:

Total reserve, decreased	£607,000
Circulation, increased	779,000
Bullion, increased	172,121
Other securities, increased	11,495,000
Other deposits, increased	10,250,000
Public deposits, decreased	82,000
Notes reserve, decreased	615,000
Government securities, decreased	700,000

The proportion of the bank's reserve to liability is 41.92 per cent, as compared with 51.82 per cent last week.

PARIS, June 30.—Trading on the bourse today opened hesitatingly. Later prices strengthened, but they closed heavy. Russian imperial 4s closed at 91.15 and Russian bonds of 1904 at 505. The weekly statement of the Bank of France shows the following changes:

	Francs.
Notes in circulation, increased	180,425,000
Treasury accounts current, increased	325,000
Gold in hand, decreased	13,925,000
Bills discounted, increased	169,325,000
Silver in hand, decreased	3,075,000

BERLIN, June 30.—Trading was light on the boerse today.

Cronin Charges Withdrawn.

Gabriel J. Norden, attorney for Harry A. Cronin in the recent partnership trouble in the firm of Cronin & Friedman, declared in a statement yesterday that none of the charges and allegations made in the bill for the appointment of a receiver filed by him in behalf of Cronin have been substantiated, and that they have been unreservedly withdrawn.

NEWS OF THE RAILWAYS.

RUMORS OF HARRIMAN DEALS AGAIN ARE NUMEROUS.

Now It Is Said the Magnate Has Quarreled with Hill and Gould — H. D. Judson Becomes General Superintendent for Illinois of Burlington and H. C. Nutt Is Made General Superintendent of Iowa Lines — Other Railway News.

Rumors of Harriman deals have been unusually numerous during the last few days. According to these reports, the magnate is getting into a row with Hill, Gould, and others. One of the rumors was that Harriman is trying to secure control of the Santa Fé; another that he is to amalgamate the Alton with the Union Pacific, and this was followed by the report that Gould and he had a falling out and in consequence the former is securing franchises and the right of way for a new line from Salt Lake City to San Francisco.

The rumor gained circulation yesterday that Harriman had engaged in a fresh tussle with Hill and is trying to wrest the Burlington system from the latter's control to make it an annex of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific. In order to accomplish this it is asserted that Harriman has joined hands with C. H. Venner of Boston. The latter is a stockholder in the Burlington and is known to have been at the head of more litigation to enforce the claims of minority stockholders than any one of the big financiers in Wall street. This story would appear more plausible if Marvin Hughitt of the Chicago and Northwestern had not recently been made a director of the Southern Pacific with a view of establishing still closer relations than have existed between the Northwestern and the Pacific roads.

Judson Gets a New Position.

Under the new arrangement for the operation of the Burlington lines H. D. Judson is made general superintendent for Illinois with headquarters in Chicago. He has been in railroad service since 1853 and worked his way up from telegraph operator on the Chicago and Iowa railroad until he became its superintendent. After the absorption of the railroad by the Burlington he became superintendent of the Illinois division.

H. C. Nutt will be general superintendent of the Iowa lines with headquarters in Burlington, and Henry Miller general superintendent of the Missouri lines with headquarters at St. Louis.

The position of general superintendent of the Burlington system has been abolished, and F. C. Rice, who has held the title, has been made inspector of transportation of the entire system and George T. Ross is appointed inspector of station service.

Equalize Reduced Grain Rates.

To equalize the reduced rates on grain to the Atlantic seaboard made by the Canadian lines, the eastern trunk lines have decided on a reduction. Under the new tariff, which becomes effective today, all grain from Buffalo is placed on a 3 cent basis. This is a reduction of 1 cent a bushel on wheat and flax, ⅝ cent a bushel on corn, and ½ cent a bushel on barley. No reduction is made on oats, because the export movement is limited.

A 3 cent rate from Buffalo means that grain can be brought from Chicago and placed alongside ship for 4½ cents, and, counting floating elevator charges of ⅝ cent, can be placed on board ship for 5¼ cents a bushel.

Other News of Railways.

Joseph Ramsey Jr. is now president of all the Wabash lines from Pittsburg and Chicago to St. Louis and Kansas City. James W. Patterson, who has been president of the Wabash-Pittsburg Terminal railway, has been made vice president and chief engineer. Robert Blickensderfer, general manager of the Wheeling and Lake Erie, has been placed at the head of the operation and maintenance departments of the new Pittsburg line. W. D. Holliday, assistant general freight agent of the Wabash, is made freight traffic manager of the new road.

The Transcontinental Passenger association has recommended to the Pacific coast terminal lines that they secure similar injunctions against scalpers to those obtained at Chicago, St. Louis, and elsewhere to prevent the manipulation of world's fair tickets at Pacific coast points. It is pointed out that the court orders practically would put the Pacific coast brokers out of business.

E. J. Gildersleeve, Clifford J. Gildersleeve, and Louis Tillman, St. Louis ticket scalpers, have been fined $250 each and costs by Judge Thayer in the Federal Circuit court at St. Louis for selling world's fair excursion tickets in violation of an injunction. The proceedings were brought by the Illinois Central.

LIVE CHICKENS DO BETTER.

Sales Are Made at a Half Cent Advance —Potato Market Not So Strong.

Live chickens sold at higher prices yesterday, receipts being small except of springs, which were barely steady. There was less strength in the potato market, although prices were quotably the same. Demand has quieted down on the recent advance, and although receipts are small, larger offerings from Virginia are expected soon. Berries were steady and quality generally unsatisfactory.

Leaves Postoffice for Politics.

William G. Edens, assistant superintendent of the postoffice city delivery service, has resigned after ten years in the position. It is understood he left to take part in the republican national campaign. He was national organizer of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and state organizer of the Illinois Republican league during the campaign of 1895-'96, and now is grand chancellor of the Knights of Pythias of Illinois.

ST. PAUL MAY EARNINGS.

GROSS DECREASES 4 PER CENT AND NET EARNINGS 19 PER CENT.

Chicago and Alton Shows Some Improvement in Volume of Traffic—Probable Henry C. Hackney Will Be Made Secretary and Temporary Chairman of the Local Stock Exchange—Plate and Window Glass Trade Demoralized—June Clearings.

St. Paul earnings for May were issued yesterday, showing a decrease of 4.3 per cent in gross for the month. This amounted to $170,946. Operating expenses showed a small decrease, while net decreased 19 per cent. St. Paul people last month were not taking a highly favorable view of the traffic situation. Their views were doubtless influenced by the state of business on the St. Paul road. These same interests are now, however, entertaining a more cheerful view. It is probable June business is better relatively than for May.

Chicago and Alton for May showed a small increase in gross, but there was a much larger increase in operating expenses, with the result of a decrease of over 13 per cent in net. The "Soo" made a poor May showing, with a large percentage of decrease in both gross and net. Lehigh Valley was also poor, as was Rio Grande Southern.

H. C. Hackney for Temporary Chairman.

It appears to be the present idea with the governing committee of the Chicago stock exchange that Henry C. Hackney, who is now vice chairman, shall be made secretary and temporary chairman of the exchange, both of which offices are held by Joseph R. Wilkins. It does not appear that any one has been brought to the attention of the committee who is favored for the permanent position of secretary and chairman. Mr. Hackney can fill both offices, temporarily at least, or until such time as a permanent chairman may be found. Business is now light.

Mr. Wilkins presented his resignation in May, to take effect any time within three months. The governing committee, it is announced, is to meet next Tuesday, to take action on the lines indicated.

June Clearings Decrease.

Local bank clearings for June show a decrease of 1.2 per cent compared with the corresponding month last year. For six months there is a gain of $23,182,988, or 0.5 per cent. But, as pointed out before, there is one more day this year compared with last. The figures:

Plate and Window Glass Demoralized.

Prominent authorities in the plate and window glass industry declare a climax has been reached in that trade. In three months the prices of plate glass are reported to have dropped 25 per cent, while window glass prices have declined about 18 per cent. An official of one of the largest plate glass concerns in the country is quoted as saying:

"The present demoralized condition of both the plate and window glass businesses is not due to the lack of consumption, or to an oversupply, but to actions of the manufacturers themselves. In the first place, they started to undersell each other until in many instances prices fell practically below cost. The manufacturers had for two or three years made good profits, with the result that when business began to get quiet they felt they could sacrifice some of their profits in order to gain business by competition.

"There is lack of uniform method of treatment of employés. One manufacturer offers a certain inducement to his employés which other manufacturers do not, and others in turn offer different inducements, with the result that all the employés become dissatisfied."

A meeting of the members of the National Association of Window Glass Manufacturers has been called to meet at Put-in Bay, O., on July 20.

July Disbursements.

July disbursements as compiled by the New York Journal of Commerce promise to be below the distribution made one year ago, but better than that made on Jan. 1, 1904. The compilation does not embrace all dividends and interest payments, but does include substantially the same companies, account being taken of such changes as may have been made by the concerns represented. The figures follow:

Lehigh Valley Dividends.

Both the preferred and common stockholders of the Lehigh Valley company are now uncertain as to whether the dividend on the preferred stock is cumulative. Until last Tuesday there had been no dividend on the preferred stock since October, 1893. If the $106,300 of preferred carries a cumulative dividend there is still $116,930 due the preferred shareholders before the common stock can receive anything. The agreement regulating the dividend on the preferred issue is understood to contain the following language:

The said additional stock so issued shall be entitled to a preference over all the other stock of the said company in every future dividend of the profits which may be declared by the said company until the holders of such additional stock shall have been paid, from the funds applicable to the payment of such dividend, 10 per cent per annum on the amount of the capital stock of the company represented by said shares of additional stock so held by them respectively; and the holders of the other stock of the company shall not be entitled to participate in any future dividend of the profits of the company until the holders of said additional stock shall have been first paid from the funds applicable to such dividend, 10 per cent per annum, on the amount of the capital stock of the company.

St. Louis Transit Traffic Grows.

Earnings of the St. Louis Transit company since the opening of the exposition make the following showing:

May.	1904.	1903.	Increase.

It is reported that the banking syndicate which purchased the $8,000,000 bonds will await the expected profitable results of the exposition business before making an effort to resell the bonds.

Dividends Declared.

Directors of Street's Western Stable Car line yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of ½ per cent on the common stock. It is payable July 25 to stock of record July 15. Books open July 26.

The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad company declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent, payable July 20. Books close July 2 and reopen July 20.

Directors of the Great Western Cereal company have declared the regular quarterly dividend of 2 per cent on the preferred stock, payable July 1.

The United Zinc company declared the regular quarterly dividend of 2 per cent on preferred stock, payable July 15 to stockholders of record July 10.

Pig Iron Market.

Rogers, Brown & Co. say:

"There need be no complaint on the part of sellers of pig iron as to the lack of inquiry and opportunities to sell. The main difficulty seems to be the ideas of those seeking to buy that they ought to be able to take advantage of present low prices and buy for their entire season's requirements. Naturally, furnaces take the opposite view; consequently the tonnage actually placed is small.

"If any change in the tenor of prices of southern iron is noticeable, it is in the direction of higher figures. The opinion is held by some of the trade that this may be due to local conditions. The matter of freight rates from the south is uncertain at this writing. The northern situation is practically unchanged. Some few good transactions have been made and prices are firm."

General Financial News.

It was announced yesterday that the final installment of the $25,000,000 Japanese bonds which were floated in New York had been paid by Kuhn, Loeb & Co.

Charles M. Schwab has formally presented his resignation as a director of the United States Steel corporation. Mr. Schwab's resignation has been accepted by the finance committee. He will be succeeded by W. T. Snyder.

It is stated authoritatively in New York that earnings of the United States Steel corporation for the second quarter of the present calendar year will be slightly in excess of $18,000,000. This will be sufficient to meet all charges and cover the quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on the preferred stock.

The rumor that the Canadian Pacific contemplates an issue of $20,000,000 new stock is denied in New York.

The debit of the New York subtreasury at the clearing house yesterday morning, amounting to $2,402,626, represented the payment there of $1,122,000 transferred from the Philippines, and the first installment of gold from the Klondike. The latter payment amounted to $545,000.

Local Bond Market Notes.

Controller McGann yesterday delivered $3,000,000 judgment refunding bonds of the city of Chicago to the First National bank, representing the syndicate of purchasers.

It is estimated that N. W. Harris & Co. will pay July interest to the amount of approximately $200,000 on bonds, the interest of which is payable at the firm's office.

Local bond houses continue to note the investment by manufacturing concerns of surplus funds in good bonds. A local brokerage house yesterday was asked to invest $100,000 by one of its customers, who had tired of speculation and was willing to accept 3½ per cent return on his investment.

New Range of New York Exchange.

Exchange on New York at Chicago was throughout the month of June at a premium. For three months this has been practically true, as it was last year. But in 1902 the price was not so high. The appended table was compiled by W. G. Sturges. When two prices are given the former represents the charge before and the latter the charge after clearings. The figures follow:

GOES TO PRISON FOR FORGERY.

C. M. Sheldon Admits Stealing Money Order from Mail Box by Use of Sticky Rod.

For forging a postal money order for $63 Chester M. Sheldon yesterday was sentenced to one year in the Joliet penitentiary at hard labor.

"You are lucky to get off so easily," said Judge Kohlsaat, "and I hope other young men will profit by your experience."

Sheldon, who is 30 years old, said:

"I secured the money order which I forged by placing a little mucilage on the end of a stick and inserting the stick into mail boxes. I took a good many letters before I came to one containing a money order."

Harry Ray, 1258 Indiana avenue, accomplice of Sheldon, was found guilty and sentence was postponed.

MUST REINSTATE A DETECTIVE.

Civil Service Commission Overruled in Case of John J. Kelly, Accused by "Graft" Committee.

John J. Kelly will be reinstated as a detective sergeant as the result of a decision yesterday by Judge Wright. He ordered the proceedings of the police trial board and the civil service commission quashed.

Kelly was dismissed Jan. 12 after an investigation of charges made before the "graft" committee. He applied next day for a writ of certiorari to obtain reinstatement.

The charge against Kelly was "meddling in civil affairs," as he was accused of working as a private detective while employed by the city as a patrolman. He also was charged with retaining $2,500 of $5,000 which he obtained from D. H. Thomas to settle a damage suit.

Cleveland Banks Are Consolidated.

Cleveland, O., June 30.—The stockholders of the State National bank and of the Euclid Park National bank today voted to consolidate the two concerns. The combined capitalization amounts to $2,000,000 and the deposits aggregate $12,000,000.

REALTY TRADE HAS GAIN.

MARKED IMPROVEMENT SHOWN IN JUNE TRANSACTIONS.

Transfers Increase $815,128 Over Those for Same Month Last Year, and Total of $11,388,126 Is Largest for the Period for Several Years—Building Operations Better, 758 Permits Being Issued, Giving Value of $6,171,230.

The real estate and building records for June are favorable, both showing a substantial increase over those for June of last year. The increase in transfers, amounting to $815,128, has significance because June is the only month of the present year which has not shown a decrease as compared with last year, and because the total—$11,388,126—is the largest for any June for several years, thus indicating a marked improvement in the realty business.

The figures are 2,582 transfers, amounting to $11,388,126, for June of this year, as against 2,394, amounting to $10,572,998, for June a year ago.

Breaks a Bad Record.

This is the more encouraging since the transfers for the first six months of the year show a falling off of 255 in number and $7,644,223 in amount, the figures being 13,342, amounting to $58,293,496, for 1904, as against 13,597, amounting to $65,937,719, for 1903.

The June building figures are 758 permits, costing $6,171,230, for this year, as against 554 permits, costing $4,100,490, for June of 1903. This is an increase of $2,070,740, or nearly 50 per cent in cost and 204 in number. The building showing for the six months also is favorable, with 3,168 permits, costing $20,088,925, as against 2,852 permits, costing $17,420,900, for the six months of 1903. This is an increase of 316 in number and $3,668,625 in cost.

Another indication of healthier market conditions is the decrease of judicial sales for the first half of the year, the figures being 765 in number and $2,839,390 in amount, as against 853 in number and $4,715,552 in amount for 1903.

Will Remodel Olympic Theater.

James Gamble Rogers has prepared plans for remodeling the Olympic theater, which involve a new entrance in Randolph street through the Ashland building, and putting the parquet and stage on a level with the street. Three balconies are also planned. No action has been taken by the city building department.

Sells Evans Avenue Apartments.

The large apartment house property at the southeast corner of Evans avenue and Forty-eighth street has been sold by Joseph Cormack to John H. Witbeck for $85,000, subject to an incumbrance of $29,000. The property has a west frontage of 132 feet, with a depth of 125 feet, and the building is a three story and basement structure.

The flat property in Park avenue, 395 feet east of Homan avenue, with 50x112 feet of ground, and three story building, has been sold by John S. Holmes to James A. Beckwith for $22,000.

Other Transactions in Realty.

John Eagelston and wife have executed a trust deed to Greenebaum Sons for $27,000 for five years at 5½ per cent. It covers the property in Greenwood avenue, 257 feet north of Sixty-third street, 124x180 feet, west front, with three story apartment building.

Charles L. Anderson executed a trust deed to Greenebaum Sons to secure a loan of $14,000, five years, at 5¼ per cent, on 50x151 feet in Greenwood avenue, 350 feet south of Sixty-third street, with flat improvements.

Ida P. Krueger has purchased from Amanda Lire the store and flat property in North Clark street, 152 North of Chicago avenue, with 25x150 feet of ground, for $15,050.

NEWS OF THE INSURANCE WORLD.

EDITED BY C. M. CARTWRIGHT.

Eastern News Telegraphed from New York Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin.

NEWS NOTES FROM NEW YORK.

Fred S. James & Co., Chicago, to Open Eastern Office, with Edwin Minel in Charge.

New York, June 30.—[Special.]—Fred S. James & Co. of Chicago will open offices in New York City about Sept. 1, with Edwin Minel in charge, to handle the eastern business of the firm. Minel is widely and favorably known in insurance circles.

It is reported on good authority that at the recent fire of the Electro Dynamic company of Philadelphia the pumps connected with the high pressure system failed to give the necessary pressure to make the system available. Practically no water was received through the high pressure system until the fireboats had connected the pipes. This is a matter that should be investigated by the Philadelphia Tariff association, under whose direction the pink slip rebates are now being industriously collected by the policy holders within the district which is claimed to be covered by the so-called high pressure system. It is evident that high pressure in this case failed. It is a noticeable fact that the local papers have had little to say regarding this failure, which is conspicuous in view of the recent clamor regarding the removal of the pink slip charges.

The Imperial Insurance corporation of Tazewell elected the following officers:

President—Gen. Rufus A. Ayres.

Vice president and general manager—B. J. Wyser.

Secretary—J. T. Hurt.

Treasurer—M. C. Clark.

Jones & Whitlock have been appointed special agents for the Insurance Company of North America for writing tourist floaters.

Insurance companies interested in the fire yesterday at 483 and 485 Broadway are as follows:

Georgia life insurance agents are endeavoring to secure coöperation in their efforts to have a bill passed by the present legislature that will prevent rebating of life insurance premiums. The Macon Life Underwriters' association has sent out a circular letter asking attention to this matter on the part of every agent.

LOCAL AGENCY IS DISSOLVED.

Nichols, Cummings & Co. Retire, and Two Insurance Firms Will Be the Result.

The Chicago local agency firm of Nichols, Cummings & Co. has dissolved partnership. Charles M. Nichols and John J. Grey as Nichols & Grey will open an office in room 340 National Life building. They will represent the North British and Mercantile and the British-American of New York.

H. D. Cummings will retain the quarters of the old firm in the National Life building and will announce his arrangement later. W. P. Craine remains with Mr. Cummings. The Royal Exchange and General Accident of Scotland will be represented by Mr. Cummings.

The Glens Falls has not commissioned either side, although Mr. Cummings will write for the company under the new régime, which begins today. The final adjustment of the Glens Falls representation will be settled as soon as Western Manager Whitlock returns to Chicago.

E. A. Tyler, secretary of the Merchants' Mutual Fire of North Dakota, is visiting the western insurance departments to ascertain the requirements for organizing mutual companies. His plan is to have a chain of mutuals located in every state subscribing to a general fund to protect members against any excessive loss. These mutuals are to charge 60 per cent cash and 40 per cent premium note. In case the note is called on and will not be sufficient to meet obligations, the general fund is to be drawn upon.

Subrogation suit has been begun against the Toledo, St. Louis and Western railroad to recover $86,000 alleged damages. The insurance companies allege sparks from a locomotive caused the fire that destroyed the plant of the Indiana Goblet company at Kokomo, Ind.

The Pacific Mutual Life soon will open an office in Chicago for writing provident life business. The office will be in charge of a manager sent from the home department. The company opened a similar office here a few years ago, but it was not successful.

Since the new burglary rates went into effect, with all companies parties to them, not much business has been written, owing to the drive that was made for it at the old rates. Considerable three year term business was written.

The Queen will readjust its field staff in order to fill the state agency in Illinois, bringing in a man from another state. No word has been received from Albert C. Mink, former state agent, who disappeared on July 12.

The Kansas City Life has reduced its capital stock from $125,000 to $100,000. The $25,000 funds thus obtained will be used in wiping out the deficit of $21,000 which the recent examination by the Missouri department showed to exist. This will give the company a small surplus, which will be increased to $8,000 or $9,000. In addition to this surplus the report shows the company has $11,000 policy notes outstanding in excess of reserve, and as most of these notes will be worked in the reserve, the surplus of the company soon will amount to around $20,000.

Charles D. Kidd, a local agent at Dayton, O., has been appointed special agent of the Delaware and Reliance in Ohio.

Lewis S. Higgins, home office manager of the Northwestern Underwriters of Milwaukee, is dead.

Charges have been filed against some brokers belonging to the Chicago Underwriters' association on the ground that they wrote the glucose refinery risk at Rockford, Ill., at less than tariff. The rules of the association require that members must observe the tariff on any risk, whether under the jurisdiction of the association or not.

Dr. S. M. Pearman, formerly manager of the stock exchange branch of the New York Life in Chicago, will open an office for the company in New York City.

J. J. Purcell, the newly appointed state agent of the Fireman's Fund for Kentucky and Tennessee, will leave for his field tomorrow.

With few exceptions western departments report a favorable loss ratio for the first six months of the year.

The Commercial Fire of Houston, Tex., has been organized with $100,000 capital and $10,000 net surplus.

Edwin G. Frazier, inspector for the Chicago city office of the Northern of England, has resigned to become inspector of the National Map and Inspection company of Chicago.

In a field walled by bunting all the thoroughbreds of the north shore from Evanston to Waukegan will pass in review before admiring women and critical men at the annual Lake Forest open air horse show this afternoon and tomorrow. More horses have been entered than ever before, more boxes have been erected and sold, more persons have signified their intention of spending the week end at Onwentsia, and spectacular events are on the program.

It is expected that $3,000 or more will be divided between the two beneficiaries of the show—the contagious ward in the Lake Forest hospital and the Lake Forest Episcopal church.

Team Jumping Is a Feature.

The event, which is expected to prove of greater interest than any other is the team jumping, a novelty in which five mounted trios will participate—two of women and three of men. This will bring out lively competition, but of all the teams entered that composed of Mrs. Samuel T. Chase on Rowdy, Mrs. Preston Gibson on Lois Huntington, and Miss Florence Gray on Solitaire is the favorite. The competitors in this event and also in the fox hunt, which will be confined to the limits of the polo field, are Mrs. E. S. Adams, who will ride Carnation, Mrs. Arthur T. Aldis on Newton Belle, Arthur T. Aldis on The Parson, Alfred Baker on Canadian Belle, Granger Farwell on Drayton, Stanley McCormick on The Arrow, Miss Johnson of Winnetka on The Sportsman, Fred McLaughlin on Blue Bottle, W. O. Lindley on The Wizard, Rutherford McCormick on Booth's Duke of Somerset, Clive Runnells on Warrington, Miss Leslie Farwell on Geneseo, and Miss Gray, Mrs. Chase, Mrs. Gibson, Dorothy Day, J. D. Bradley, Miss Florence Dwight, and Frank Farwell.

Floral Decorated Vehicles.

The feature which promises to rival the hunter class performances is the display of floral decorated vehicles driven by children. In this class there are nine entries. Nearly 200 horses in all have been entered. Interest has been added to the tandem class this year by the addition of the "sporting tandem" event, in which the leader is taken out after the first round and put over the jumps under the saddle.

To emphasize that the competition is inspired only by charity and in every sense is an amateur event, no money or plate prizes will be offered. Ribbons, such as are awarded at the big city horse shows, will be given to the three leading horses in each event. The animals will be displayed within an inclosure constructed on the polo field. All the boxes already have been sold. Some of the purchasers are:

MORE CAR VICTIMS IN JUNE THAN EVER BEFORE RECORDED

Incompleted List for Month Shows Ten Persons Killed and 166 Injured — Many Women Hurt Getting Off.

More accidents from electric cars and currents, causing a greater number of injuries and deaths than ever recorded in a single month at the police headquarters, were reported for June. In 143 "electric" accidents ten persons were killed and 166 injured. The report is complete only to June 27, and the police officials expect the complete record will be the worst known.

The accidents were of various natures, but the most common was being struck by an electric car. The majority of persons injured in getting off the cars were women. A number were injured by sticking their heads out of the car windows. The deaths of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Dixon, who were struck by an east bound Aurora, Elgin and Chicago car on June 26 while in their automobile swelled the death list for the month.

The summary of the accidents is as follows:

Struck by cars, 58 injured, 3 killed.
Alighting from cars, 25 injured, 1 killed.
Falling or knocked off cars, 14 injured.
Caught between cars, 3 injured, 1 killed.
"Flipping" cars, 5 injured, all boys.
Putting head or arms from windows, 5 injured.

MYSTERY IN BELLWOOD WRECK.

Tower Man Missing and Motorman Declares Switch Was Turned When Signal Was Open.

Did the motorman on the Aurora, Elgin and Chicago Electric railway knowingly run his train into an open switch at Bellwood, risking the lives of 350 passengers on Wednesday, or was the semaphore signal defective?

The matter is being investigated by officials of the road and the Rev. W. H. Pierce, pastor of the Lincoln Street Methodist Episcopal church.

The excursionists, mostly women and children, were going to picnic grounds when two of the cars were derailed. Many were bruised.

"I consider it a miracle that there was not great loss of life," said Mr. Pierce yesterday. "The first thing we did after our preservation was to sing, 'Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow.'

"A railroad man who was on the train says that just before it reached Bellwood he saw the semaphore signal 'against' it, and warned the motorman. This was denied by the motorman, who said the signal showed a clear track, but that afterward the switch was opened. The tower switchman has disappeared, so we don't know who is responsible."

"DIAMOND LIL" ON STAND IS ACCUSED OF PERJURY.

Reputed Wife of Former Detective Kipley Enacts Killing of Joseph Hopkins and Denies Living with Defendant.

"Diamond Lil" Arlington, reputed wife of former Detective Daniel Kipley, enacted the murder of Joseph Hopkins in court yesterday. She was called as the first witness for the defense. The courtroom was crowded by spectators eager to see her. The only witness to the murder in her flat at 1848 Wabash avenue corroborated the contentions of the defense.

Tells How Hopkins Was Shot.

"Diamond Lil" said Hopkins had pursued Kipley around the table in the parlor and that Hopkins flourished a knife and attempted to kill him. She declared Hopkins cut Kipley on the thumb and raised the knife above his head to stab the defendant in the chest when Kipley fired.

Then "Diamond Lil" grasped the dirk knife alleged to have been used by Hopkins and enacted the alleged attack. Rushing forward, she stood prepared to stab an attorney, and cried:

"There, that's when Kipley shot."

Accused of Swearing Falsely.

Under cross examination the woman cried, interrupting proceedings for some time. Then she was questioned as to her relations with Kipley. Assistant State's Attorney Olson asked her if she and Kipley had not lived as husband and wife at the Westminster hotel, North Clark and Division streets. She declared they had not.

The hotel register was produced and employe identified "Diamond Lil" and Kipley as guests who had been living at the hotel since June 19.

Mr. Olson said a perjury charge would be taken up at the end of the trial. He declared Kipley's jealousy of Hopkins led to the attack.

Kipley on Stand; Verdict Soon.

Kipley was not placed on the stand until late in the afternoon and gave only a part of his testimony. He will finish today and it is believed a verdict may be reached tonight or tomorrow morning. Kipley gave testimony as to his birth, residence, education, and other matters, and insisted Hopkins had threatened to kill him and that the shooting was done in self-defense.

LETTERS TO LATE DIPLOMAT TO BE SENT TO WASHINGTON.

Ten Volumes of Valuable Communications to Elihu Washburne Will Be Added to Congressional Library.

What is declared to be the most valuable collection of books ever to leave Chicago soon will be sent to the congressional library at Washington. They consist of the official and private correspondence of Elihu Washburne, gathered while minister to France, classified and placed in book form. Frederick E. Hild, librarian of the Chicago public library, is preparing them for shipment.

There are 100 volumes, containing letters from American and European army officials, consuls, ministers, senators, and monarchs. Among them are several letters from Abraham Lincoln, U. S. Grant, W. E. Gladstone, and Queen Victoria, as well as from King Edward, written while he was prince of Wales.

The collection was arranged by Mr. Washburne and presented to his son, Hempsted Washburne, and by him to the congressional library. Many of the most interesting documents were received by Mr. Washburne during the commune in Paris, and much unpublished history is contained in them. One volume of the collection consists wholly of letters written by American officials during the civil war, and includes communications from some of the highest army officials.

Mr. Washburne called upon Librarian Hild yesterday and they inspected the collection, removing such communications as are of a personal nature or not of general public interest. The volumes will be forwarded to Washington this week.

FIGHTS "BLIND PIG DEAD LINE."

Evanston Attorney Attacks Law Preventing Establishment of Saloons Within Four Miles of University.

Evanston's "blind pig dead line" was attacked before Judge Tuley yesterday. If the contentions of Attorney Edmund Furthmann are sustained it may be possible to establish saloons within a stone's throw of the Northwestern university campus.

The Evanston lawyer declared the law prohibiting the sale of intoxicants within four miles of Northwestern university was void. He based his contention on the fact that the measure was passed by the legislature Feb. 15, 1855, while the university was not "erected" until two years later.

The contention arose in the trial of Peter Lesterhenn, accused of having sold liquors at Gross Point, which is within the four mile limit. He was prosecuted by the Four Mile league. Counsel for that organization held the law had been passed for the protection of the university, and that it did not matter when or where it was located.

Judge Tuley took the case under advisement.

MYSTERY IN A DAMAGE SUIT.

Attorney of Record Says He Isn't Interested and No One Will Tell of Particulars.

Mystery surrounds a suit for $30,000 damages begun yesterday by Theodore P. Schott against Frank Crane.

The attorney of record, Matthew P. Brady, declared he knew nothing of the bringing of the action or of its cause.

Several years ago Schott sued Crane to recover for injuries received in being run over by a team. The case was dismissed.

Mrs. Bailey Is Freed Again.

The grand jury was asked yesterday afternoon to indict Mrs. Rebecca Bailey for the murder of Louis Miller, but the jury refused to return a "true bill" against the woman, as the evidence was not sufficient. Miller was shot several weeks ago while in Mrs. Bailey's flat on the south side. They were engaged to be married.

Retires from Chicago Company.

James D. Standish, secretary and treasurer of the National Packing company, retired yesterday from active service with that company, as it necessitated his continued absence from his family in Detroit. His associates in the company presented him with an elaborate chest of silver.
